TO SPEED MEN TO PERSHING

Plan Likely to Supply Baker's Demand for Vessels to Take Million in a Year.

RAILROADS TO CO-OPERATE

Federal Agents Abroad Will Help with the Quick Handling of Steamships There.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—With the news of the arrival of thousands of American troops in France on board interned German ships which were seized by the United States Government came the announcement today of the formation by America and her allies of a Committee on Shipping Control which will direct the drive to supply the needs of the enemies of Germany in Europe and land one million or more additional American fighting men in France before the end of the year.

The step taken today had the indorsement of the various Governmental departments of this country, and, it is stated, will shortly receive the formal approval of Great Britain. It is expected to obtain approximately 50 per cent. greater efficiency out of the fleets of America and the allied nations when the move toward complete co-operation is in full operation.

One of the objects will be to make good the prediction of Secretary of War Baker that 1,500,000 soldiers could be landed in France this year if the shipping was available to transport and supply them without starving the allies of the United States in Europe.

Committee of Three Named.

The new committee, or council, is composed of P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine, Chairman; H. H. Raymond, recently appointed Controller of Shipping at New York, and Sir Cunnop Guthrie, who will represent Great Britain, France, and Italy.

The plan is to end the complications and delays that have occurred in the use of the shipping of America and its allies by giving to this committee absolute power in the allocation of all tonnage on both sides of the Atlantic.

It developed today also that in the cause of efficiency and to safeguard better the transports and munition ships additional power and money was being sought by the Navy Department to build up its personnel so that it could man all of these ships. A bill is being prepared by a Congressional committee to make this possible.

Up to the present time the Shipping Board has turned over to the War Department more than 1,000,000 tons of ships on the bare boat basis for the transportation of soldiers, livestock, and munitions. It is possible that before the end of the year the tonnage thus transferred will be doubled.

Calls on Navy for Men.

The War Department has called on the navy to do its utmost to man these ships with trained men who will be subject to military discipline, and as far as possible this is being done. Transports and ships for livestock are now manned by the navy, but the personnel of the navy is not large enough to take over all of the munition ships.

Many officials here have expressed the opinion that there could be no greater step toward efficiency and safety than the adoption of such a plan in the manning of all ships carrying men, munitions, and foods. The indications here are that such a result will be accomplished rapidly if Congress does not hold it up.

All of these phases of the necessity to get America into the war at top speed and to bring about the closest co-operation with the Allies in the use of shipping were discussed at the recent Inter-Allied War Council in Paris. The need of getting American soldiers and supplies over to France because of an impending German drive is said to have precipitated the action taken by Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board and other officials in forming an Interallied Shipping Council.

Officials of the War and Navy Departments and the Shipping Board accepted with expressions of greatest satisfaction the announcement cabled from Europe that sixteen ships, including the former Vaterland, had arrived safely in France.

The news gave added interest to the conference being held here for the coordination of shipping facilities, one of the purposes of which will be to use these other vessels to their full capacity and route them on other overseas journeys with the minimum of delay.

In connection with the appointment of the Control Committee it was decided to dispatch abroad Raymond B. Stevens, Vice Chairman of the Shipping Board, and George Rublee, of the board's legal staff, to sit in London and Paris as permanent representatives of the United States in shipping matters. The representatives abroad will seek to accomplish the German Air Raid on Paris Kills Several Persons

PARIS, Thursday, Jan. 31, 2:40 A. M.—German airplanes raided Paris last night. The alarm was given at 11:30 o'clock. Bombs were thrown at various points in Paris and the suburbs. Several persons were killed, and material damage is reported, according to an official announcement.

Full details are lacking at present, but a further statement will be issued as soon as accurate information is received.

FAST FOOD TRAINS WILL START TODAY

TO LOAD SHIPS AT PIERS

Hope That Radical Measures Will Abolish Delays—Eastern Freight Situation Improves.

A comprehensive transportation system for speeding up food and other supplies for England, France, and Italy goes into effect today on the railways of the United States under the orders of the National Railroad Administration. The new system includes the hauling of supplies for the Allies to North Atlantic ports in fast solid trains of cars and the loading of a large number of ships at railroad piers in New York Harbor which never before were used for that purpose.

Previously it has taken a freight car, under permit, from eight days to two weeks to get from the Middle West to a New York pier. Under the new plan the solid trains will run on a sixty-hour schedule between St. Louis and Chicago and New York. At present the great majority of the transatlantic ships are loaded from lighters in the harbor, a slow process, that has been greatly hampered by the shortage of floating equipment in this port. Enough railroad piers will be taken over today to provide for the loading at one time of twenty-five ships, the average size of a convoy. The supplies from the fast through trains will be sent to these piers and put directly on ships. It was estimated yesterday that from two to four days would be saved in the loading of these ships and that more tonnage thus would be added to the existing supply. One hundred locomotives will be transferred from other parts of the country to the Eastern roads to help rush freight.

Action Urged by Allies.

This is the most radical action taken by the National Railroad Administration since it took over the carriers on Jan. 1. It followed strong representations made to Washington by the British, French, and Italian Governments as to the food situation in their countries. There is a lack of food in Italy and England, and this weakens the food supplies for the armies. Several important conferences on the subject have recently been held in Washington and New York. The result of these conferences was a decision that, inasmuch as it would be some time before the new ship tonnage now being built in American yards could be put into active service, it was imperative that something should be done to increase the efficiency of the existing ships. Director General of Railroads W. G. McAdoo, with the advice of Regional Director A. H. Smith, decided on the through trains for food and urgent supplies and the use of the railroad piers. There are 30,000 carloads of freight for the Allies now under permit and waiting to be moved.

The action of yesterday in notifying the railroads in Eastern territory of the new system was taken by Mr. Smith in accordance with orders issued on Monday by Mr. McAdoo. Before that order was issued railroad executives had been at work on the details of the plan.

Two weeks ago there was an accumulation of 25,000 carloads of freight for the Allied Governments, including the United States, at American ports. Most of the freight now remaining at the North Atlantic ports for export to France and England is made up of war supplies other than food. Incidentally, the number of tons of freight for export has decreased very largely over the amount of two weeks ago, due to the improvement in the dispatching of ships.

Hope to Abolish Delays.

For two years freight for the Allied Governments has been moving under permits issued through the Traffic Executive at 161 Broadway. These permits meant only that a freight car in a yard with a permit had preference over other cars. It did not prevent a car losing twenty-four hours for switching in one yard and another twenty-four hours in a yard a day's run distant. It did not prevent a car from being delayed in yards at the New York ports. It did not prevent cars standing for weeks in terminal port yards because there was no ship to take their contents across the ocean.

The new system aims to end all this. A check will be kept on the freight from the time it leaves the factory until it is in a ship's hold. Four great assemblage yards are created, at Chicago, East St. Louis, Pittsburgh, and Buffalo. Here freight for the Allies will be sorted and put into solid trains, and run much as fast passenger trains. The sixty-

WOOD MAY STAY ABROAD TO SERVE IN WAR COUNCILS

Hints at Washington That General Will Remain in France in Conspicuous Capacity.

CRITICISM SPURS BAKER

COMMITTEE BILLS IN DOUBT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Signs are already apparent that the criticisms by Senator Chamberlain and other members of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs of lack of centralization in the military administration are producing results.

While President Wilson has declared his opposition to the effort to create a War Cabinet, and it is apparent that officials are against the creation of a Directorship of Munitions, events today, taken in connection with previous developments, made it clear that the faults in the War Department system to which the Military Committee called attention were to be corrected without legislative action, except in some slight particulars.

One of the hopeful signs of a deference on the Administration's part to the views of men in Congress and out, that the best minds available should be employed to help the United States win the war, is found in a hint conveyed today that Major Gen. Leonard Wood is to have a prominent part in the super-war councils in Europe. It was inferred from what was said that General Wood, who is now in France, would be consulted by representatives of the Government with reference to the best means of employing the American forces abroad. General Wood was sent to France in line with the purpose of the War Department to have every commander of a division spend a period of inspection and observation in the theatre of war and then return to his command in the United States. The guarded statement was made today that the Administration contemplated keeping General Wood in Europe and giving him a prominent place in military councils.

The hatchet was buried today by Secretary Baker and Senator Chamberlain. They had luncheon together at the Capitol at Mr. Baker's suggestion and discussed some of the things that had arisen to cause bad feeling between Mr. Chamberlain and the Administration. It is understood, however, that their discussion of the War Cabinet bill and the Directorship of Munitions bill was incidental, indicating that the main purpose of the conference had to do with other things. At Senator Chamberlain's suggestion Secretary Baker took away from the Capitol copies of the two measures and promised to study them.

The whole effort of the Administration is being directed toward centralizing control of war activities, and observers find it difficult to escape the conviction that this new order of things is due to the evidence given before the Committee on Military Affairs and the criticism of Senator Chamberlain in his recent speech in New York and his answer in the Senate to President Wilson's attack on him. There have been reforms in the administration of the War Department directly due to the revelations before the Senate Committee. More reforms are in prospect, it was learned today.

One of the arguments in favor of a War Cabinet was that authority over all war activities was not co-ordinated and could not be, under present legal restrictions, except in the President. For this, among other reasons, the Senate Committee held that the only way to overcome the existing decentralization of authority was to organize a super-council, designated the War Cabinet in the committee's bill, which would determine policies and entrust their execution to the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and other administrative officers.

The opposition to having the authority of Secretary Baker curtailed in any way, for the measure was aimed principally at conditions in his department, was so pronounced on the part of the President that the sponsors for the bill felt that there would be little chance of its passage. But it was apparent that the measure had many friends.

Yesterday Chairman Dent of the House Committee on Military Affairs introduced a resolution to provide for two more Assistant Secretaries of War. This bill was drawn at the War Department and has an important bearing on the effort to assuage criticism by adopting some of the reforms urged by Senator Chamberlain.

Senate Committee Gets Reassuring Information from General Squier.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—More encouraging information about the aviation program was given to the Senate Military Committee in secret session today by Brig. Gen. Squier, chief signal officer of the army, and his assistants. Nothing about the testimony was made public, but members of the committee expressed lively satisfaction over what they heard.

Secretary Baker indicated today that

16 GERMAN SHIPS LAND OUR TROOPS

Former Liners Reaching France Are Named to Disprove Berlin's Falsehoods.

INCLUDE HUGE VATERLAND

As the Leviathan She Has Been Made Faster by Rectifying Builders' Blunders.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Jan. 29, (Associated Press.)—Announcement was made here today that the total tonnage of former German steamships ready for the high seas service, most of which are now bringing men and materials to France, is approximately 500,000.

Among the considerable number already arrived safely in Entente allied ports are the Leviathan, formerly the Vaterland, and fifteen others of the Germans' largest ships. These figures demonstrate the falsity of recent German assertions, and the publication of this information is permitted for that reason.

The figures are authoritatively declared to prove that Germany has been deliberately circulating false reports to belittle to her own people the assistance given to the Entente allied cause by this shipping and thus to create unjustified confidence in the German submarines. Among the former German steamships which have arrived in Entente allied ports are these:

Covington, (ex-Cincinnati,) America, (ex-Amerika,) President Grant, President Lincoln, Powhatan, (ex-Hamburg,) Madawaska, (ex-Koenig Wilhelm II.,) George Washington, Mount Vernon, (ex-Kronprinzessin Cecilie,) Agamemnon, (ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II.,) Aeolus, (ex-Grosser Kurfürst,) Mercury, (ex-Barbarossa,) Pocahontas, (ex-Princess Irene,) Huron, (ex-Friedrich der Grosse,) Von Steuben, (ex-Kronprinz Wilhelm,) De Kalb, (ex-Prinz Eitel Friedrich.)

Changes Bettered the Leviathan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Daniels, discussing the dispatch from the American Army Headquarters in France regarding commandeered German ships being used to transport American troops abroad, disclosed today that between 600,000 and 700,000 tons of former enemy shipping now was actively engaged in augmenting the expeditionary forces and maintaining their supply.

The Leviathan, formerly the Vaterland, was capable of carrying up to 10,000 troops in a single voyage, Mr. Daniels said, but 8,000 was considered the largest number which could be comfortably accommodated. In connection with the repair of the Leviathan, it was learned that alterations made by American engineers resulted in an increase of several knots in her speed. One instance of improvement over the work of German shipbuilders was in the steam distribution system, which was found to be so inefficient that a large part of the boiler power did not reach the engines.

The greatest single factor which operated for the quick return to service of the German ships was the use of new methods of welding by the engineers assigned to repair the damage done the ship's engines by their German crews. These permitted the repair of damaged engines without the necessity of removing the heavy parts, and actual tests were said to have proved that these weldings were stronger than those made under old methods.

RYAN TO AID VATICAN IN REFORMING FINANCES

Papal Treasury Is in an 'Alarming Condition' on Account of War.

ROME, Jan. 29, (Delayed.)—An international committee is to be formed to reorganize the finances of the Vatican, which Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, reports in an alarming condition. The committee, one of whose members is to be Thomas F. Ryan of New York, will be called upon to devise means of obtaining funds, possibly by the underwriting of a worldwide loan.

The Vatican's usual sources of revenue, such as rentals from properties and gifts from Mexico, Belgium, France, Austria, and the United States, have been reduced or cut off by war conditions. At the same time Pope Benedict daily expends thousands of dollars in war charities, including the sending of food and clothing to prisoners of war in Germany and Austria. Many appeals for contributions are received at the Vatican from many countries.

Under the present system of financial administration the Pope acts as Treasurer of the Vatican, having in his office a safe in which he deposits the funds to be disbursed. When the safe is empty the Holy See nominally is bankrupt.

ITALIANS EXTEND ASIAGO GAINS

Have Captured Three Mountain Positions and More Than 2,600 Austrians.

FOES' CASUALTIES HEAVY

Two of Their Divisions Are Reported to Have Been Almost Annihilated.

ROME, Jan. 30.—More than 2,600 prisoners have been taken by the Italians in successful attacks upon the Austrian lines on the Asiago Plateau, the War Office announced today. Six guns and 100 machine guns also have been captured.

Col del Rosso was taken on Monday, and the Italian success was extended yesterday by the capure of Monte di Val Bella.

The positions taken have been under violent bombardment by the Austrians. The Italian fire has been powerfully centred on points behind the enemy's lines.

Extremely heavy losses were suffered by the Austrians; two of their divisions having been almost annihilated.

Our gallant troops in the plateau zone of the army successfully crowned yesterday the action begun on the eastern Asiago Plateau on Sunday by wresting from the enemy his positions to the west of the Frenzela Valley. Col del Rosso and Col Dechele, which are on the descent toward the western edge of the valley, having been taken on Monday, and since then held with valor, the enemy in the region of Sasso Rosso was hard pressed, and, his numerous counterattacks being repulsed with the bayonet, the success was yesterday extended by the capture of Monte di Val Bella.

The enemy suffered very heavy losses, and two of his divisions were nearly completely destroyed. The war booty captured has not yet been completely specified, but includes so far more than 100 officers and 2,500 men, six guns of various calibres, about 100 machine guns, very numerous trench mortars, several thousand rifles, and a very large quantity of ammunition and war materials of all kinds.

The reaction of the hostile artillery on the positions taken was violent. Our fire was rapidly and powerfully concentrated on the most distant objectives.

The enemy aircraft attempted many reconnoitring and offensive actions, but were effectively met by our machines and anti-aircraft fire, which during two days accounted for seventeen enemy machines.

French and British Aviators Aided.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHEN ITALY, Jan. 29, (Delayed.)—[Associated Press.]—Italian troops struck the enemy another hard blow yesterday in the mountain region west of the Brenta River, where his effort has been to push down the Frenzela Valley toward Bassano. The action lasted throughout the day, the Italians making an advance along the whole stretch from the Brenta to Asiago, and capturing 1,500 of the enemy, including sixty officers. War material also was taken, and havoc was spread among the enemy's forward trenches.

The aerial activity was especially lively during the fighting, the Italians bringing down ten machines and the French two. The action was still in progress today, with the enemy bringing forward large reserves in an attempt to save the day.

The battle on the Italian side was fought by mountain troops, infantry, and Bersaglieri, with the support of Italian and allied batteries and large fleets of airplanes manned by Italian, French, and British aviators.

The Italians took the initiative in a surprise attack at daylight, the enemy trenches being reached and his lines driven back over a long front. Late in the day the enemy made a series of violent counterattacks which were broken up by the steady resistance of the Italians, backed by allied batteries.

Toward night the enemy began the concentration of reinforcements in an effort to redeem the situation. This brought on heavy fighting during the night, which continued today.

Berlin Admits Losses.

HINDENBURG WARNS STRIKERS IN BERLIN, WHO ISSUE ULTIMATUM TO GOVERNMENT; 500,000 NOW OUT; PAPERS SUPPRESSED

Terms Demanded by the Berlin Strikers Include Accelerated Peace, With Workers Participating

ZURICH, Jan. 30.—The Socialist paper Vorwärts announces that the Berlin strikers have now become more numerous and threatening. They have addressed to the Government an ultimatum, of which the following are the principal demands:

1. Accelerated conclusion of a general peace without indemnities or annexations.
2. Participation of workmen's delegates of all the countries in the peace pourparlers.
3. Amelioration of the food situation by better distribution.
4. Immediate abolition of the state of siege and restoration of the right of public meetings suspended by the military authorities.
5. Abolition of militarization of war factories.
6. Immediate release of all political prisoners.
7. Fundamental democratization of State institutions.
8. The institution of equal electoral suffrage by direct or secret ballot.

FRANCIS MENACED BY ANARCHISTS

Is Told He Will Be Held Responsible for Safety of Berkman and Goldman.

AMBASSADOR CABLES NEWS

He Is Not Alarmed, and Lansing Says State Department Won't Act at Present.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—David R. Francis, the American Ambassador at Petrograd, today notified the State Department that he had been threatened by Russian anarchists, and warned that he would be held personally responsible for the life and liberty of Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, who were recently convicted of conspiracy to defeat the draft law in this country and sentenced to two years in a Federal penitentiary.

Secretary Lansing admitted this afternoon that Ambassador Francis had sent to the State Department a message in confirmation of the press stories from Petrograd about the warning that had been sent to the Ambassador by the anarchists. The Secretary said that the Ambassador expressed no alarm, and he added that nothing would be done in the matter by the State Department until it had heard further from Mr. Francis regarding the threats.

This is not the first time that threats have been made against the safety of Ambassador Francis. Recently, while he was entertaining some guests, he was warned that a threatening crowd was coming to the embassy to protest to him against the action taken in the Mooney case at San Francisco. He asked his guests to leave, and when the crowd surged into the embassy Mr. Francis faced them with a revolver, for his own protection, and warned them through an interpreter that they were trespassing on American territory. The intruders finally left without harming the Ambassador.

FINNISH BOLSHEVIKI FORM A CABINET

But Government Troops, Victorious in North, Are Marching on Helsingfors.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—The Provisional Social Democratic Government which has been formed at Helsingfors is headed by Senator Kullerwo Manner, with M. Sirola as Minister of Foreign Affairs, and O. Tokoi, the former Premier, as Minister of Food Supplies.

The members of the Finnish Government, including the former Senators, are reported to be safe. They have notified Sweden that the Government cannot be responsible for the lives of Swedish subjects, of whom there are 400,000 in Finland. Reports from Helsingfors are contradictory, but they indicate that the rumor that the Swedish Minister had fled is incorrect.

All of Southern Finland as far as Tammerfors, is reported to be in the hands of the Red Guards, but the Government troops, having vanquished the Red Guards in Northern Finland, are now marching southward. They have disarmed 5,000 Russians at Jacobstadt, Vass, and nearby places, and captured twenty machine guns.

A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm says the Government has taken measures for the immediate dispatch of ships to Finland to bring the Swedes resident in that country back to Sweden.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—A Stockholm dispatch to The Times says the Finnish Government has sent a representative to Sweden with an appeal for military help against the revolutionists. So far as is possible to foresee, the dispatch says, Sweden will not grant the request.

King Gustave, who is at Scania, Sweden, however, has decided, in view of the situation in Finland, to return to Stockholm.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen says that, according to press reports, the Swedish authorities have closed the Swedish-Finnish frontier in order to prevent the Red Guards from obtaining weapons.

TROTZKY RETURNS TO PEACE PARLEY

SCOUTS PEACE AT ANY COST

Says Teutons Assumed Terms Disguised as Democratic Would Satisfy Bolsheviki.

By ARTHUR RANSOME.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 28, (Delayed.)—Foreign Minister Trotzky left Petrograd for Brest-Litovsk in the early hours of the morning after replying to such criticism as there was in the debate of the all-Russian Assembly of Soviets on the peace negotiations. He took with him the knowledge that he had succeeded in getting his policy not only approved but also understood by all but a small handful of the representative Assembly.

The feeling in the Assembly was very curious. Kamenev began with a speech which struck the same note as had been struck by Trotzky the previous day, though in a lower key. He emphasized throughout the new grouping of the forces in the world struggle, which he said was ceasing to be a struggle of one imperialistic group against another, but in Europe, anyhow, was a struggle of the general proletariat against the bourgeoisie. The alliances formed by various national bourgeoisies for the purpose of the imperialistic struggle had lost their significance in the light of this change both in the Central group and in that opposed to it.

"We welcome the rising of Austrian workmen and shall welcome their emancipation from Austro-German imperialism exactly as we shall welcome the escape of the Irish people from the imperialism of England," he went on. "That is the main significance of the Brest-Litovsk negotiations."

He read a statement from Austrian social patriots who had at the beginning of the war supported their Government, which showed that they now realized that the Russians and Germans could not come to terms, not because they were Russians opposed to Germans, but because they were Social Democrats dealing with landowners and bourgeois. The Brest-Litovsk negotiations had shown the working classes of the Central Empires that their own interests were being opposed by their own Generals, and that they had to choose between war with Russia and peace with Hoffmann, or peace with Russia and war with Hoffmann. "Our victory will be the victory of German democracy, and German democracy knows it," he continued.

All Against Germany's Terms.

Martov and others of the bitterest opponents of the Bolsheviki followed, and while criticising details in the management of the negotiations, agreed that they had been of tremendous service in making the position clear to democracy throughout the world. All were unanimous in refusal to accept the conditions now offered by Germany. There was less unanimity on what was to be done, some delegates insisting on the physical impossibility of fighting.

Last night occurred the culminating moment of the tension of the preceding week. The report on the peace negotiations, which had been held over from day to day for reasons of policy, affecting not merely Petrograd but also Brest-Litovsk, Kiev, and Vienna, was definitely announced. The session opened with the announcement that Spiridonova would speak from the Peasants. All the guests' seats throughout the building had been given to members of the Peasants' Assembly, so that Trotzky when he finally made his report, spoke not to the Soldiers and Workers only, but also to the Peasants' Assembly, which, in spite of the prognositications of the anti-Bolsheviki has an overwhelming Bolshevist majority, and supports the action of the Soviets in sweeping away the Constituent Assembly. The Peasants' Assembly perfectly understands that the Constituent Assembly intended to step backwards, not forwards.

After Zinoviev had welcomed the Peasants there was singing of the "Internationale." Then a moment's pause

SOCIALIST CHIEFS LEAD

Scheidemann and Haase Present Demands to Minister of the Interior.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 30.—The Rhenish Westphalian Gazette of Essen, a copy of which has been received here, reports that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has warned the strikers in Berlin to cease their movement immediately. He told them, according to this newspaper, that they were being misled, adding:

"Every hour you lose means the weakening of Germany's defense. You are commiting a crime against our army and an act of cowardice against your brethren in the front trenches."

The German censor has ordered the Berliner Tageblatt, the Vorwärts, and the Berlin Post to cease publication, according to a dispatch from Berlin. The ban was placed on the newspapers owing to their attitude toward the striking workmen in Germany, says the dispatch.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A dispatch to The Daily Express from Geneva reports that there have been clashes between soldiers and strikers in the suburbs of Berlin in which lives were lost.

The dispatch adds that the troops in some instances refused to fire on strikers.

Strike Spreading Over Empire.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 30.—Although some German papers continue to deny that there are strikes in Germany and the official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung insists that only youths are on strike, other German papers of today's date received here admit strikes have taken place in Berlin, Kiel, Stettin, and the western industrial districts.

THE TIMES correspondent learns from an authoritative source that all the men in the Kiel dockyards, including those in the Government plants, have struck, and that there are altogether 500,000 men on strike throughout the country.

Furthermore, it is learned that at the Krupp works in Essen 200 strikers forced 60,000 workers to strike, and that partial strikes in the State mines at Buisberg were caused by 300 malcontents.

It appears that women are taking a large part in the strikes in Berlin and the Rhenish industrial districts.

The Berlin Tageblatt states that the workmen in the western industrial districts are discontented with the postponement of Prussian ballot reform and are demanding that the bill be carried through immediately. In Düsseldorf and the lower Rhine region work is going on as usual.

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung this morning says that all the workmen of the Vulcan yards at Hamburg struck yesterday. They marched through the town and assembled in Trades Union Hall, where they held a stormy meeting. Their chief demand was better food.

The strikers have appointed a central body of 500 to organize the movement and also a "committee of action," consisting of ten men and one woman.

This committee has been further joined by three members of the minority and three of the majority Socialist parties. The former include Haase and Ledebour, and the latter include Philipp Scheidemann. The committee sent a deputation of workmen and Reichstag members to Minister of the Interior Wallraf to demand a revocation of the orders prohibiting public meetings, but Wallraf refused to receive the workmen, stating that he would only consent to see the Reichstag members. The committee refused to accept his position.

The Socialist majority official organ, the International Correspondenz, says that official socialism, the majority or minority equally, was not concerned with the commencement of the strike, which was quite spontaneous, but that the Socialist leaders see no reason to interfere yet, "especially as at the present moment the national defense is unaffected by the strike."

Another report states, however, that on Sunday night representatives of both

Socialist factions agreed to act in accord and with the strike leaders.

The whole staff of the Vorwärts declared their unity with the strikers, but decided to continue work just as the staff of the Arbeiter Zeitung did in Vienna, in order that the strikers might have an organ through which to address public opinion.

The Cologne Gazette admits that agitators were very active last week in distributing pamphlets, which were spread from house to house, but asserts that they had little effect.

The Tageblatt says that the Austrian Socialist leader, Dr. Ellenbogen, has arrived in Berlin to consult the leaders of the German Socialist Party.

Public meetings have been held recently throughout Bavaria, and at a large meeting at Nürnberg it was agreed between the Labor League and the Social Democratic Party to carry out the strike movement uniformly. Today 70,000 persons attended an open-air gathering at Nürnberg, when demands were made for constitutional revision in Bavaria, and it was declared that the strike was mainly in support of Prussian labor's demand for electoral reform and the introduction of equal suffrage for men and women.

Work was to be resumed in Bavaria at 6 o'clock tonight.

Demands by Trade Unions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent sends the following:

"Although it is natural to assume that the Wolff Bureau minimizes the importance of the Berlin strikes, it would at the same time be a mistake on our side to exaggerate their size. It does not appear that the cessation was of anything like a general character. The latter was originally intended by the Central Committee of Trade Unions, but according to reliable information they called it off after the speech of Dr. von Kühlmann with which they pretended to be temporarily satisfied. Consequently, the strikes which did occur were sporadic, prompted by those who were disappointed with the changed attitude of their leaders.

"The demands of the Central Committee of trade unions were, anyhow, of a very mild character, as reported in their organ. All they asked for was:

"First — An answer by the German Government to the speech made by Lloyd George to the deputation of English trade unions.

"Second — The fixing of German war aims in the west.

"Third—The serious attention of the Government to the demand that in the peace negotiations there shall be direct representation of the working-class interests in full proportion to the representation of capitalistic interests.

Wallraf's Appeal to Workers.

"That the Government was greatly alarmed at the threat of a general strike was clearly shown by the recent speech in the main committee of the Reichstag by Herr Wallraf, the Home Secretary, of which a full report is now available, calling attention to the issue of a pamphlet telling the workers to prepare for a general strike in the next few days. He said:

"'The Government are conscious of their duty to maintain public order and security in all circumstances. The quietness with which I say this must not inspire any doubt as to the firmness and seriousness of our will. I do not believe even a small section of our working classes will respond to such an irresponsible appeal to revolt.

"'What is the situation we are in? It is the middle of negotiations for a separate peace with Russia. That we can negotiate with Russia only is not our fault.

"'If the enemy were successful in breaking our inner front, then all his plans of robbery would revive, the war would be lengthened, and the laboring classes would experience, economically and politically, very serious consequences.

"'There are those who in secrecy, and themselves in personal security, are trying to break the home front. Such action would also break the outside front, bring death to men who are fighting for the homes, wives, and children of workers. At the same moment at which German wheels stand still, the wheels of the munition factories of England, France, and America will work with double industry.

Fears Revolutionary Objects.

"The Cologne Gazette states that those who are trying to promote a general strike are hoping to attain 'revolutionary objects,' adding that 'hundreds of German soldiers would have to pay with their blood for the stoppage of work at home, and that only mad idealogists would imagine that strikes would shorten the war.'

"The Berlin correspondent of the same paper, who is usually officially inspired writing in the same connection says:

"'Among the Russian Bolsheviki the belief exists, if we may speak straight out, that in Germany a revolution will break out. With them peace is a side issue. What they are seeking is world revolution. In order to attain this object they are purposely carrying on a policy of procrastination. Every expression from Germany from which the Bolsheviki could draw the belief that their revolutionary propaganda is in prospect of success, or even indicating that in Germany disunion is imminent, strengthens them in this policy of procrastination and agitation.'

"Vorwärts, in an article entitled 'Think of it, O Germany!' emphasizes the statement that the German working classes have only supported the war because they believed it a war of defense, and says:

"'What would have happened if in the time of greatest danger there had been said to them: "You are bleeding and dying for Courland, Lithuania, Longwy, and Briey, for the destruction of Belgium's independence, for the reform of the Prussian House of Lords.' The movement which is going through the masses of the people has deep moral causes. It issues from the fear that they are being misled. Today the danger of lengthening the war has risen enormously, owing to open or badly concealed annexationism and inner reaction.

"'The German Socialists are no Bolsheviki; the German Nation is the quietest and most patient in the world, but now this nation begins to be moved to its depths, nobody believes this is merely the fruit of dangerous agitation. It is rather the fruit of an intolerable system of government.'

"'The constituency of Bautzen has said what it thought and if today there were a general election the greater part of the German Empire would give the same answer as has been given there. To such voices the Government must listen if it wishes to maintain its inner front unbroken. Every idea of attempting to force upon the people acceptance of objects which would lengthen the war, objects of which they never thought, or to withhold from them their promised rights, works to bring about the disintegration that is today the greatest danger.'"

Deny Strike Is Serious.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—An Essen dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung says that on Monday there were 4,000 strikers in the Rhenish Westphalia mines, where hundreds of thousands are employed. Nine mines are affected.

The Berlin correspondent of the Amsterdam Telegraaf sends the following:

"Not a sign of the strike can be observed in the Berlin streets. The general impression is that it is a so-called 'holiday' strike, which it is said will be limited to three days.

"The correspondent gained the impression at a meeting which he attended that the strikers regard it more as a change after heavy work, and it bears no violent character. The workers gather at places where meetings are convoked, but are directed by the police into side streets where they are dispersed."

The railway men in Berlin attempted to hold a meeting yesterday to consider the question of a strike, but were dispersed by police. Many arrests were made.

A semi-official dispatch from Berlin, forwarded by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, says that there is no news of a serious strike movement in any part of Germany except in Berlin.

The Vorwärts, in a scathing article, asks whether the Germans ought to laugh or cry while thousands of workers have left the factories, the Prussian Diet should be discussing such unimportant matters as whether the Crown Prince and other Princes should be life members of the Upper House.

The German Union of Labor, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam says, has issued an anti-strike leaflet, asserting that England and America only await the moment when Germany is weakned by internal strife to fall upon Germany and ruin her trade. The appeal says:

"We want no 'hunger peace.' Therefore, down with mass strikes. Our future is at stake."

DOUBTS REAL VIGOR OF GERMAN STRIKE

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 29.—It is difficult at this moment to estimate the extent and importance of the strikes reported from Germany. What news has come through should be considered with reserve. If there are good reasons at times in Germany for concealing information, there are also on other occasions equally good reasons for giving it out, especially for foreign consumption. Such news can also be made good use of at home.

It is clear that the German authorities would think it to their advantage should hostile countries obtain an idea that the fatherland is in a worse condition than is really the case. Last week's reports of riots in Berlin, and today's of the strike at Kiel, should in all probability be regarded in that light. In reporting the rumors of the Berlin riots last week I said that, while giving no credence to such news, the position there was certainly not normal, and that probably is as far as it would be safe to go at the present moment.

The workers in Germany know perfectly well that a strike would be a much more serious matter for them than for their Austrian comrades and that the military authorities would quickly rush in where the Austrian powers feared to tread.

As far as information from Germany goes, the strike now appears to be only partial in and around Berlin, though 8,000 workers are out at Lichterfelde, and in Herringsdorf and Johannisthal the majority are said to have struck.

In the Rhine industrial region the strikers are few, though it is reported that there is bitter feeling among the workers with reference to the campaign of the Fatherland party and also regarding the way in which the Prussian franchise reform question has been handled. These two matters lie very largely at the root of the present discontent.

That Herr Wallraf, the Home Secretary, took occasion to utter a serious warning regarding the strike weapon and that strike pamphlets are flying about Berlin and other important centres show that Germany has at least some aspirants to Bolshevism. The strikers were officially disowned by their trade union leaders, but then the Austrian strikers at first did not act under the direction or inspiration of such leaders, who only came in when they saw that the strike was a success. How the Independent Socialists and the extreme sections among the workers support or would support such a movement in Germany cannot be said.

However, all these things may be warnings. Discontent among the workers has been clearly in evidence for some time.

SAYS KAISER WANTS PEACE BY AGREEMENT

Prof. Delbrueck Points to Pan German Attacks Upon Ruler as Evidence.

ROTTERDAM, Jan. 30.—Emperor William is in sympathy with the movement for peace by agreement, according to Professor Hans Delbrück of the University of Berlin, as quoted in an interview with the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant's Berlin correspondent.

Professor Delbrück, who is himself a peace-by-agreement advocate, said that the warring nations were now divided into two camps, the first comprising those who, like Premier Lloyd George in England and Admiral von Tirpitz in Germany, wanted a fight to a finish, and the second consisting of those who, like Emperor William, the German Government, the Reichstag majority, and the great majority of the people, were working for a negotiated peace.

Germany, said Professor Delbrück, has no thought of infringing upon the integrity or sovereignty of Belgium, and he regretted that Chancellor von Hertling in his Reichstag speech did not say so more definitely. Nothing was further from the Chancellor's intention than the carrying out of a policy of force, in Professor Delbrück's view, and the masses of the people were behind him. The Professor thought that the fear that Admiral von Tirpitz might get the power to shape things as he desired was unfounded.

Professor Delbrück pointed to the furious attacks by the Pan Germans upon the Emperor—something hitherto unheard of in Germany—as sufficient proof of the Emperor's sympathy with a peace by agreement.

"INTERESTING," SAYS LANSING.

Secretary Declines to Comment Further on Strikers' Terms.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—"I have no comment to make, except that it is very interesting."

Secretary of State Lansing had this to say tonight when his attention was called to the text of the Zurich dispatch saying that Vorwärts, the leading Socialist newspaper in Germany, was authority for the statement that the Berlin strikers, who had become more numerous and threatening, had addressed to the German Government an ultimatum setting forth a number of demands.

Eight of the principal demands of the strikers as credited to them by Vorwärts were read to the Secretary of State by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, and it was then that Mr. Lansing replied that he cared to make no other comment than that the news was "very interesting."

Earlier in the day the State Department had received messages from its representatives in neutral countries bordering on Germany confirming press dispatches indicating that no fewer than 90,000 workmen had gone on strike in Berlin at the beginning of the movement.

FINDS HOPE IN CZERNIN.

German Paper Suggests "Understanding" with Washington.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 30.—The annexationist Cologne Volkszeitung, commenting on Count Czernin's speech on peace aims, says that Czernin not only talks, but acts, as he recently showed by his proposal to exchange views with America. The paper says that the impression that a special understanding exists between Vienna and Washington is increased when one remembers that both von Hertling and Czernin discussed President Wilson's recent address so thoroughly, although the public is not aware whether there were particular reasons for Berlin and Vienna to attach so much importance to this address.

The Volkszeitung argues that if it is considered possible in Vienna to begin negotiations through President Wilson with the Western Powers, then it must be that the fourteen points of the Wilson program are not considered his last word, because the Central Powers have already proclaimed many points as unacceptable. The paper says that the proper attitude toward this action of Czernin must be one of strict reserve.

"This lies in the nature of things," it continues. "We know Wilson and his policy toward us sufficiently well not to entertain any illusion about his willingness to act as a peace intermediary, but as the initiative came from Vienna, we can quietly await developments."

'HARD TIMES' GRIEVE KAISER

Moved by People's Distress, He Says, but Trusts in Victory.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 30.—The German Emperor, replying to birthday congratulations from the King of Saxony, sent the following message, according to the Lokal Anzeiger:

"You know how I sympathize in the sacrifices and distress which these hard times have laid upon our people. But I begin the new year full of confidence. Despite many difficulties, everything goes to show that our superior military commandership and our splendid peoples' great power of resistance will break our opponents' war will and create the foundation of a good, happy, and safe future. God grant it."

COL. HOUSE LEAVES CAPITAL

Said to Have Discussed Teuton Speeches with President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Colonel E. M. House, who had been a guest at the White House for two days, returned today to his home in New York.

He had several long conferences with the President, at which the war aims speeches of the German Chancellor and the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister are understood to have been discussed.

AMERICANS PRAISED BY COL. WEDGWOOD

FULL CONFIDENCE IN WILSON

Declares the Democracy of All the World Is Looking to the President.

Colonel Wedgwood, D. S. O., M. P., better known as Josiah Wedgwood, Liberal member of Parliament for Newcastle-under-Lyme, is here on Government business. He has seen a good deal of fighting in the war and carries marks of it. Colonel Wedgwood spent a few hours in New York yesterday. To a TIMES reporter he said:

"May I say that I am much gratified with all that I have seen in America? The way you took the coalless day satisfied me that you can not only make the big sacrifice of fighting for altruistic ends, but that you can also make the lesser personal sacrifices with the right spirit. War is not a comfortable thing for civilians. Government trains are not the only things that never run to schedule.

"I am glad to have this opportunity of testifying to the immense support commanded in England by President Wilson for his war aims, for his idealism, and for his liberalism. He carries our standard, voices our ideals; one might also say without irreverence that he voices our religion. No other man in the Allied ranks receives or deserves a tithe of the confidence that democracy throughout the world has in the President. Badly as we want the American soldiers in France today, I know that the working class's faith in Wilson is actually a huge asset to our cause and a big guarantee of victory. It has inspired our labor party program. You cannot do without the working men of England, Scotland, and France, and, believe me, they look to Wilson. The Irish look to Wilson, too.

"Peace is in the air. But what sort of peace? A diplomatists' peace or a Wilson peace? There are influential men all over the world who will play for a hasty, diplomatic peace; but there are millions who demand the other sort of peace, the Wilson peace; one worth fighting for—one which will be based on justice, on self-determination, on international authority, on free intercourse among all peoples. Some crowns may not survive such a peace, but the right will prevail even if we have to fight on for such a peace. It is for such a peace and with a great faith that the helpless peoples, strangled in this war, look to the President of America.

"What gives me, as an English Liberal, the greatest satisfaction in this war? It is difficult to decide, but there are three facts which cover a multitude of worries. First, America is on our side and we are both fighting against the devil; then there is the revolution in Russia, and, lastly, for we, too, have a good deal of the old Adam in us, the satisfaction that we have taken from Germany three times as many prisoners as they have taken from us. This shows that we are not only fighting for the right thing but that we know how to do it."

VIENNA GRAIN BURNED WITH BIG WAREHOUSES

Revolutionists Suspected of Starting Fire—Flour Mill in Suburbs Destroyed.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The grain warehouses of the city of Vienna are afire, and enormous damage has been caused, according to a Vienna dispatch forwarded from Amsterdam by the Exchange Telegraph. Revolutionists are suspected of having started the fires.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 30.—The Berlin Vorwärts says that the largest flour mill in Kaiser Ebersdorf, in the environs of Vienna, was burned Saturday. All the grain, flour, and machinery were destroyed. The mill played an important part in provisioning Vienna.

CONTROL OF SHIPS UNDER ONE HEAD

same aims sought by creation of the Control Committee. In addition, they will represent the United States in the allocation of neutral tonnage obtained by agreements between the Allies and neutral countries.

Co-operation by Railways.

A decision to give the Control Committee authority to divert to the various ports shipments of goods intended for overseas transportation, officials said, would accomplish an amalgamation of rail and water transportation facilities sought since the beginning of the war. Such a welding, it was declared, was impossible until the railroads came under Government control.

As explained tonight by Shipping Board officials, the diversion of traffic to ports other than New York will clear New York Harbor of its present congestion and do much to speed up loading and unloading. It was declared that at present one million tons of shipping would be gained by a proper co-ordination of effort.

The railroad administration has agreed to co-operate in every way to make the plan a success and will route freight so as to get it quickly to Southern ports. Charleston and Savannah will be the ports through which most of the freight diverted from New York will be moved.

Unloading in Europe.

An effort will be made to bring about a maximum efficiency in unloading on the other side of the Atlantic, and Mr. Stevens and Mr. Rublee will address themselves to this problem. There has been a state of congestion in dockage in France practically as obstructive as any that has occurred in New York, and it is realized that it must be overcome if the perfection of all plans in this country is to meet with corresponding efficiency at all points and attain full success.

The arrangement does not displace the Shipping Board's Director of Operations, Edward F. Carry, but the Control Committee will be in supreme charge. Mr. Carry's department will deal solely with Shipping Board ships and will turn vessels as soon as chartered over to the committee.

The arrangement will be continued throughout the Winter and probably throughout the entire year. If railroad congestion is cleared, however, an increasingly large amount of goods will be shipped out of Northern ports because the haul is shorter. The pooling feature, though, will be continued indefinitely.

NEW PLAN TO RUSH FOOD TO OUR ALLIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Plans for complete co-operation by the Food and Railroad Administrations for the distribution of foodstuffs, by which it is hoped to avoid a dangerous shortage in any district and rush the shipments of supplies for the American overseas forces and the allied nations, were announced today.

The unusual weather conditions have created a serious situation in connection with the transportation tangle, but by the introduction of a system which will, it is hoped, effect an equitable allotment of the supplies available, it is believed that the highest efficiency will be obtained.

The Food Administration has at its disposal much information concerning conditions in different localities which will prove invaluable to the Railroad Administration in directing the movement of cars and the shipment of necessary supplies of wheat and other grains from the West.

Under the new plan the shippers will apply as usual to the railroad agents for cars. Where the full demands cannot be met the shippers are then to apply to the Food Administration at Washington, or its local agents, as provided in the formal rulings. The Railroad Administration then will be advised as to the allotments which should be made. These directions were issued tonight by the Food Administration:

"1. The grain and grain product and feed shippers are to first apply for cars in the usual way through railroad agents; in case of not being furnished within a reasonable time they may then apply to the zone representatives of the Food Administration, Grain Division, at the various terminals, stating the cars required, point at which it is desired cars should be set, character of the product to be loaded, the destination of shipment, and the consignee.

"2. The shippers of sugar, beans, rice, vegetables, livestock, meat and perishables generally should first apply for cars in the usual way through railroad agents; in case of not being furnished within a reasonable time they may apply directly to the Food Administration in Washington, stating the cars required, the point to be set, the character of the commodity to be loaded, the consignee and destination.

"3. Diversion of shipment in transit, except for perishables, will not be permitted from destination given by the shipper to the forwarding agent of the railroad where cars have been placed and loaded, on the specific request of the Food Administration, as outlined above.

"4. The Food Administration does not undertake to secure cars, nor can the Director General of Railroads in these uncertain times of blizzards and Winter storms undertake to supply all cars applied for; but it is hoped that the new arrangement will give the Food Administration definite information which it can give in turn to the Director General of Railroads for his assistance in the distribution of cars into the territories and trades of the most acute needs."

The Food Administration has issued a warning that wholesalers and retailers must not advance their prices sharply because of temporary artificial shortages caused by the transportation congestion, and it will bend every effort to avoid a severe shortage anywhere.

STEAMER ALLIANCE EXCLUDES TEUTONS

British, American and French Lines Organize a New Atlantic Conference.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 5. — (Associated Press.)—British, American, and French steamship lines interested in the North Atlantic trade have concluded an alliance for the purpose of governing the passenger business of the lines, according to an official announcement. The alliance will be known as the Atlantic Conference, replacing a similar organization which existed before the war, but from which the German and Austrian lines are now excluded. The main offices of the organization will be in Paris.

The formation of the new conference may be taken as a definite and far-reaching step toward an after-war shipping policy in which the Entente Allies do not propose to allow Germany to dictate

DOUBTS TEUTON PEACE RIFT

Hertling and Czernin Speeches Have Some Basis, Says the Temps.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The Temps devotes a leading editorial to criticism of the full texts of the speeches of Chancellor von Hertling and Count Czernin, and their relation to the allied' conference at Versailles. The writer takes an uncompromising viewpoint—on the same lines, but more emphatic than the Temps editorial cabled previously.

While it is easy to understand the French wish to "keep a stiff upper lip" toward possible advances from the enemy, it is curious that the Temps is so determined to refuse to admit any divergence between Czernin and Hertling. One cannot help suspecting the influence of local differences here, and the fact that the French Socialists, to whom the Temps is ever bitterly opposed, accept the theory that the Austrian statesman is greatly trying to escape German tutelage may contribute to the firmness of the Temps's attitude. The writer says:

"Now that we have received the full texts of the two speeches we are not afraid to state that their central idea leaves room for no illusions. The tone of Czernin's speech differs from Hertling's—he speaking to an anxious audience, but his basis is the same. Austria declares her solidarity with all German aims, since Czernin proclaims his readiness to 'fight to the end' for the defense of his allies.

"Austria does not sincerely wish to free Poland, since Czernin talks of the 'attachment' of the Polish State to the Hapsburg menarchy. She is not really thinking of concluding a general peace since all Czernin's words about peace without annexations only apply, when one gets down to it, to the Ukraine, from which he hopes will come the provisioning of Austria and the further dismemberment of Russia.

"The Allies do not find themselves before two different wills, but before one and the same will, for Germany leads and Austria follows, and this will is the will of war to the knife. We have waited to verify our opinion until the full texts reached us. Now that we have them the truth is evident. The allied leaders will know how to deal with it as it merits."

BEERLESS GERMANY NOW IN PROSPECT

ZURICH, Jan. 30.—The Allgemeine Zeitung Für Brauerein (General Gazette for Breweries) says that the supply of barley for German breweries will be stopped, thus bringing the whole brewing industry to a standstill. Not even beer for the army will be produced, the paper asserts.

The measure is said to be due to the exceedingly bad harvest of oats, necessitating the use of barley for fodder for the army's horses.

and Trotzky was at the tribune, and when the roars of applause had ended, he began quietly and clearly his exposition of the history, method, aims, and results of the peace negotiations. He pointed out that the Allies had two and one-half months in which they could have come in. He pointed out that Kerensky's repeated efforts to move the Allies toward peace had proved absolutely fruitless. The object of the conference was to make the actual obstacles to peace clear, not only for the peoples of the hostile countries, but also for the Russian people.

He pointed out how the Germans by presenting an ultimatum in the form of a refusal to continue the discussions anywhere but at Brest-Litovsk hoped to make the Russians break on an excuse which would cloud the issue for the German working classes.

He touched on the weak point of the Russian side, namely the delegation from the Ukrainian Rada.

"We asked them, like ourselves, to hold no unpublished conversations with the enemy," he explained. "They said they would consult Kiev before answering. That answer we have never received in spite of repeated requests."

He read a telegram showing that Albert Thomas (former French Minister of Munitions) even today believes that the patriotic Rada is going to save Russia from making a separate peace, when, as a matter of fact, the Rada is concluding a separate peace itself. Then, after mentioning three distinct tendencies in Germany, he said that the main point on which the discussions hung was the refusal of Germany to name a date for the removal of troops. He sketched the line which the Germans intended to show to be the new frontiers and said it was so planned as to make further German aggression easy.

"The whole system of the German argument was based on the assumption that the Russian Government would understand, but be silent and grateful to the Germans for saving their faces by giving a mock democratic character to their peace," he said.

Then came the decisive moment. Trotzky threw his head back and stood a figure of incomparable energy as he said: "The bourgeois Governments can sign any kind of peace. The Government of the Soviets cannot."

In that whole vast assembly there was but a handful of men who disagreed. Trotzky continued, saying that it was to the interests of all other Governments that a non-democratic peace should be signed. He pointed to Rumania, where Rumanian troops, he said, isolated and starved and fired on Russian troops and, for the sake of preventing a revolution, were prepared to seize Bessarabia, thus making possible compensation elsewhere with a view to a non-democratic peace. He announced the action which the Soviet Government had decided to take against Rumania and went on: "Yes, we have plenty of enemies. Either we shall be destroyed or the power of the bourgeoisie throughout Europe will be destroyed. We have left the imperialistic war and shall never return to it." With regard to further steps he asked to be allowed free action. In any case he will not sign a non-democratic peace.

The session closed on a note of tremendous enthusiasm and hope for the world revolution. The discussion today will show how far the Soviets are prepared to support Trotzky in actual deed.

Trotzky's speech was a masterpiece of dialectic and exposition, and also of diplomacy, since he was able to say so much and to silence his opponents without giving away essential secrets.

My position was immediately behind and above the praesidium, looking down on Trotzky's muscular shoulders, his great head and the occasional gestures of his curiously small hands. Beyond him was that sea of men, soldiers in green shirts, workers collarless or in jerseys, others dressed very much like British workmen, peasants belted with red shirts and high top boots—all picked men, not elected for this assembly alone, but proved and tested in the local Soviets that had chosen them as delegates. And as I watched that amazing crowd that filled the huge hall and packed the galleries, following point by point Trotzky's exposition of the international and interclass situation and the policy of the revolution, I felt I would willingly give the rest of my life if it could be divided into minutes and given to men in England and France, so that those of little faith who say that the Russian revolution is discredited could share for one minute each that wonderful experience.

TROTZKY'S TACTICS TO PROLONG PARLEY

Hopes for Revolution in Central Empires, but May Make Peace if Forced To.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 28, (Delayed.)—Trotzky's second speech, made yesterday morning before he left for Brest-Litovsk, is generally regarded here as meaning that he has resigned himself to the necessity of making a separate peace with the Central Powers.

"I cannot say," he declared, "that the Russian revolution is assured of victory over German imperialism. More than that, I declare that any one who says that the Russian revolution will not, under certain conditions, be obliged to accept an unfortunate but not disgraceful peace is a demagogue and charlatan. We cannot give you a pledge that we will not conclude separate peace. If we gave such a pledge we should make the Russian Army dependent on French and American gold."

This was in a tone distinctly more chastened than the previous utterance of Trotzky. His one hope now is in the spread of the revolutionary movement.

"We are strong," he said, "because we are rousing the people's conscience to protest in all countries. The conversation between the Russian revolution and German imperialism is not finished yet. We shall still say our say there, and we won't bend our banners."

Clearly, Trotzky's tactics will be to seize every opportunity of protracting the negotiations in the hope of a steady extension of the revolutionary movement in Austria, and possibly in Germany, but if the Germans and Austrians force a conclusion of peace he will be compelled to accept their terms.

Events in Ukraine may possibly work in favor of the Bolsheviki. The Left Social Revolutionaries have received information from Kiev that the Ukrainian Government, or the General Secretariat, have resigned, and in the event of confirmation of this news a new Government formed of the Ukrainian delegation now in Brest-Litovsk will be replaced by a delegation that will work in harmony with the Bolsheviki.

A further complicating factor is the war with Rumania, described by Trotzky as a civil war. The Rumanian Legation today has been given ten hours' notice to quit by way of Tornea. Owing to the fighting in Finland, the rails have been torn up between Viborg and Raivola, and the passengers who left for abroad today had to turn back. In these circumstances, the banishment of the Rumanian Legation seems hardly practicable.

It is reported here that the Rumanian Army has already advanced a considerable distance into Bessarabia, and has a distinct advantage over the Russian troops, as no one here knows what Rumanian plans really are. Speculation hovers in the region of the obvious.

In Finland the fighting continues between the White and Red Guards. Russian troops have received orders to remain neutral, but from Petrograd trains have been sent with Russian Red Guards, arms and ammunition.

The Bolshevist Commission of Judicial Inquiry presided over by Kozlovsky has dismissed an inquiry instituted into its action for blackmail and corruption.

A raid of sailors and Red Guards on the great Alexander Nevsky Monastery, undertaken at order of the Commissary of Social Welfare, Mme. Kollotai, has aroused great resentment among the orthodox.

JOHN REED RETURNING AS BOLSHEVIST CONSUL

Faces Indictment Here, and Socialists in Russia Threaten to Make Trouble.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 29.—The Workmen's and Soldiers' Government today appointed John Reed, an American newspaper man and Socialist, as Consul of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Republic in New York, in succession to Michael M. Oustinoff, the present Consul. Mr. Reed has been here several months participating in meetings of the Bolsheviki and has made several addresses.

Mr. Reed told The Associated Press today that he would go home next week to face an indictment against him in New York and that the Russian Socialists had stated that they would make a new "Liebknecht case" out of it.

John Reed, who is well known as a writer, was indicted in November by the Federal Grand Jury with the editor and staff of The Masses on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Espionage act, his specific offense being an article headed "Knit a Straitjacket for Your Soldier Boy." Two months previously he had obtained a passport to visit Scandinavia as a correspondent, but was detained for a time pending investigation of a report that he was going as a delegate to the projected Socialist congress at Stockholm. He satisfied the Federal officials as to his status and was allowed to proceed.

It was said at the Russian Consul General's office, 55 Broadway, yesterday afternoon, that no news had been received there of the removal of Mr. Oustinoff. He has been Consul General here for five years, and is highly regarded.

PEACE PARLEY PUT OFF.

Was Postponed from Tuesday to Yesterday at Trotzky's Request.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 30.—A dispatch from Brest-Litovsk, dated Tuesday, says Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister; Dr. von Kühlmann, the German Foreign Secretary; Dr. Count von Podewils-Burnitz, former Bavarian Premier, and Talaat Pasha, the Turkish Grand Vizier, accompanied by their respective peace delegations and several members of the Bulgarian delegation, and Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, had arrived in Brest-Litovsk.

At the request of the Russians the sitting of the political commission of the peace conference, which had been fixed for Tuesday, was postponed until Wednesday.

Thompson Denies Gift to Bolsheviki.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. — Colonel William B. Thompson of New York, who returned recently from Russia, denied tonight through his secretary a report that he had given $1,000,000 to the Bolsheviki cause. He said he had not given any money to the Bolsheviki. Colonel Thompson went to Russia as a member of the American Red Cross. He had an interview this afternoon with Frank L. Polk, Counselor of the State Department, immediately following a visit of the Russian Ambassador to Mr. Polk.

ITALIANS EXTEND ASIAGO GAINS

attacks with strong forces, Army Headquarters announced this afternoon.

The text of the official statement reads:

On the Asiago Plateau the Italians maintained their attack with strong forces. In the region of Monte Sisemol they broke down with heavy losses. After severe fighting, Monte di Val Bella and Col del Rosso remained in the hands of the enemy.

VIENNA, Jan. 30, (via London.)—The Italians who are attacking on the northern front are being reinforced constantly by large numbers of troops, says today's official announcement.

After a stubborn struggle, in which the Austrian troops are said to have made a heroic defense, they were forced to give up Monte di Val Bella and Col del Rosso.

TWO OF OUR RED CROSS MEN KILLED IN ITALY

Fairfield of New York and Platt of Baltimore Were Aiding Raid Victims.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Jan. 29, (Delayed.) (Associated Press.)—William Platt and Richard Cutts Fairfield, Americans attached to the Red Cross, were killed at Mestre Sunday night. They were the first of their countrymen to meet death on the Italian front. They had not enrolled in the American organization, having enlisted previously in the Wynne-Bevan branch of the British Red Cross.

Platt and Fairfield had just arrived at a Red Cross hospital on a motor cycle when the raid began. Five bombs fell in the courtyard of the hospital, killing four persons and wounding a number of patients. The Americans were killed outright. One received a fragment of a bomb in the heart, while the other was struck by three fragments, in the head, stomach, and legs.

Companions of Fairfield and Platt say they were killed while performing an act of bravery. They were at a Red Cross camp far out of range of the raid and could have remained there safely. But with two others they decided to go to Mestre, where the raid had already begun, and to give aid and help to probable victims. Fairfield and Platt went ahead on a motor cycle, while the ambulance followed. It was just as they reached the Mestre hospital to begin their humane labors that the bombs dropped and killed both of them.

Fairfield a New York Boy.

Richard Cutts Fairfield joined the Wynne Bevan Ambulance Corps, an English organization connected with the Red Cross, soon after he had entered Harvard University last Fall from St. George's School at Newport, R. I. He was 18 years old and the youngest of the five Americans in the corps.

Fairfield was the son of Mrs. James C. Barr of this city. He lived with his mother and step-father until the time of his departure for France in the latter part of September. He had been active in ambulance work throughout the recent Italian campaign, from the Isonzo to the Piave. Mrs. Barr's last communication from her son was a letter which reached her a week ago.

WOOD MAY SERVE IN WAR COUNCILS

he would not press his advocacy of exempting registered men reaching the age of 31 years from the draft unless his opinion was sought. The Senate Committee yesterday decided not to include such a provision in the new draft legislation, after hearing a statement by General Crowder opposing it.

Investigation by the War Department of the two cases cited by Senator Chamberlain in his speech in the Senate Thursday in which the bodies of soldiers had been sent home for burial without uniforms has disclosed that the bodies were prepared in accordance with regulations of the Public Health Service. Each was covered with cotton batting and enclosed in sheeting before being placed in a coffin.

Senator Chamberlain refused to give Secretary Baker the names of the men, but it was learned today that inquiry had established their identity. One died at Camp Doniphan, Oklahoma, and the other was killed at a Canadian aviation school.

GEN. WOOD RECOVERING, WILL BE OUT IN A WEEK

Lieut. Col. Kilbourne, Also Wounded, May Lose His Right Eye—Major Joyce Better.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, who was wounded recently when visiting the French front, is confined to the Ritz-Carlton Hospital, where he is reported to be doing well. He expects to be out in about a week. He is suffering from a flesh wound of the arm, which is painful, but not dangerous.

Lieut. Colonel Charles E. Kilbourne, Chief of General Wood's Staff, who was wounded in the face, may lose his right eye. Major Kenyon A. Joyce, who was wounded in the arm, is improving.

URGE EFFICIENCY PLAN.

R. H. Dana Suggests Federal Department of Administration.

Richard Henry Dana, President of the National Civil Service Reform League, who spoke last night at the annual meeting of the league at the City Club, urged that a "Department of Administration" should be created at Washington, with a "Secretary of Administration" at the head, for the purpose of supervising the different Governmental branches and keeping them running in efficient, businesslike fashion.

"The President and the members of his Cabinet," Mr. Dana said, "should be free to devote their entire time and attention to questions of policy. No private business would think of establishing entirely autonomous departments, free from central control as to business methods, free to compete with each other for employes, responsible to no central authority for their efficiency. Yet that situation exists in our Government, and in time of war, too, when every ounce of our national energy is needed, when waste means loss of life at the front and a prolonged war. It exists because the only central authority is the much overworked President."

CRITICISES CAMP CONDITIONS.

Minnesota Committee Reports on Cody and Other Places.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 30.—A committee sent by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission to investigate conditions at the various army camps where Minnesota soldiers are quartered today reported that hospital conditions at Camp Cody, Deming, N. M., failed to satisfy investigators. According to the report, the authorities have neglected the hospital and its equipment. There was shortage of physicians, due to the fact that many of the doctors were engaged in administrative duties, the food was found to be good, the class of officers and physicians "high," but the presence of dust was declared to be a serious fault. Also the social attitude of certain officers was adversely criticised.

Camps Kearney, Winfield Scott, Lewis, Pike, Jefferson Barracks, and Camp Dodge were also visited by the committee. There was a great need of more graduate nurses at Camp Cody, the report declared. The hospital was found deficient as to sewerage and plumbing, including baths, but there was little complaint from the men as to diet and treatment in the hospital. Figures were adduced to show that the total number of deaths from all causes since the camp opened was eighty-three, a ratio of eight in one thousand per year, some 24,000 men being in the camp.

PERSHING PREPARES FOR 2,000,000 MEN

Major Frederick Palmer of the General's Staff Describes Our Plans in France as Gigantic.

SHAMES PESSIMISTS HERE

Says Ships Are the Vital Need, and That Army Expects the Nation to Produce Them.

Substantiation of the assertions of Secretary Baker as to the progress of America's participation in the war was given yesterday by Major Frederick Palmer, head of the Intelligence Section of the staff of General Pershing, in a statement he read before the Executive Committee of the League for National Unity at 1 Madison Avenue yesterday. Major Palmer obtained special permission from Secretary Baker to make the statement.

Major Palmer said the Allies were winning, and that he would like to have all pessimists in America put to stevedoring for Pershing. American preparations in France, he said, were being made to care for 100 divisions, or more than 2,000,000 men. He gave strong praise to General Pershing, who, he declared, had free rein, his word being supreme over the army in France. Major Palmer declared that no politics or committee rule was running the American army in France.

In part he said:

"The message which our army sends home from France is as distinct as a black funnel against the skyline. It is the same plea that every army overseas in all history has made—a plea for transport.

"This, at the outset, for emphasis of the vital need which must never be forgotten for a single moment; and then in this period of examination of what we have accomplished in the war it is well to consider what Pershing's force has been doing, and why, and the nature of his giant problem. There is nothing sensational in the account. The building of a scientific war machine is not a sensational business, but one of hard, grinding labor.

"Two pictures come to my mind this afternoon in clear contrast—the one of John Pershing, the builder, resolute and determined, at his desk at headquarters or on his inspections. He has no time for pessimism. Officers who indulge in it in his presence soon find their mistake. The other picture is the hotel lobbies in Washington, where gloom has of late been the fashion and fed by whispered tid-bits of pessimistic rumor. Was the spirit of the lobbies the spirit of the nation? Or of the War Department? No. It was only a natural reaction of mood, an incident. And in France we stand or fall by what Washington and the nation do to supply our needs.

"When the United States went into this war we did not realize well enough that we were not a military people and that efficiency in our individual enterprises could not be immediately transformed into war efficiency. In splendid patriotism we all offered our services; our national imagination wanted to anticipate every need. Plans were to become full-fledged accomplishment under the spell of our tremendous national energy concentrated on the head of a single department.

"It was then I remember saying to a friend, 'How can any man stand up to what is expected of a Secretary of War in a time like this?' The problem that Kitchener faced was light compared to his. Already our industrial system was stretched in supplying the Allies with war material, our shipping was limited, that of the rest of the world well occupied. The first question that one who knew war asked about the Secretary of War was, 'Will he trust the experts?'

"For in war there is only one supreme expert—the soldier. All the branches of national energy must be under his directing hand in the scientific application of energy to blows against the enemy. The expert of soldier experts is the trained officer of the staff. Our staff officers who have been trained only in theory were now to try in practice to prepare an army to meet the German Army with soldiers who had a hundred years of training in military instinct and racial co-ordination.

"We might have dispatched a hurriedly gathered band of volunteers, such as have won glory in little wars against partly trained foes, and it might have gone into the trenches at once with the flag flying. It is easy to go into the trenches, but it is difficult to get out alone if you don't know how to fight. We might have sent other divisions into the trenches to be eaten up in detail without ever getting the foundation for a real army. Or, we might have skimmed our regulars and sent one crack regular division, officered entirely by regulars, who could have gone into the trenches in a few weeks, but that meant sacrificing the only experts we had for training, organizing, and drilling our new army. Instead, we distributed our experts over the great force we were forming out of a male population that knew nothing of war, except what it had read.

"A thoroughly considered program between Washington and France is being worked out. We are not preparing for a few divisions in France, but for fifty, seventy-five, and a hundred. The very eagerness of our people in creating armies out of imagination before they could be created in practice, which found expression in the press cables to Europe, was an embarrassment. It led the allied publics to expect too much of us, and our force in France made it a point not to indulge in promises, but to prove by hard, consistent application that we should be worthy of the test which is the only one that counts in war.

Staggered by Pershing's Plans.

"I was a little staggered when I first saw the project for our bases, our airdromes, and our lines of communication, which was to provide for a million men, with expansion to two million. To carry out that project meant that we must bring to France all the kinds of material that an army requires, we must build railways and docks and camps. It proved at least we were not going into the war in a small way, that we were not to make a patchwork business of our plans, that we had a program.

"Nothing in all the world is so American as that army of ours in France. The wonder of it—three thousand miles from home—men from every State in one fighting organization making their American world! Our men take what comes, as part of the game, in the American fashion. They know why they are fighting, and they are not fighting for fighting's sake, but for the cause which is won when reason returns to the world. No one need have any doubt that when the times comes these soldiers who are of our blood and our spirit will be worthy of all our traditions, not only in their courage but in their skill. Centre your thoughts on them! They are the force that counts against the military force of Germany."

Following Major Palmer's statement, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, who presided, told Major Palmer to take back word to the men in France that the men and women of America were 100 per cent. behind Pershing.

WANTS NO PACIFISTS IN NEXT CONGRESS

League of National Unity Calls for Only 'War-Till-Victory' Candidates.

An appeal to the voters of the United States to send to Congress next Fall none but men who will support the war policies of the Government was issued, following a meeting of the Executive Committee of the League for National Unity at 1 Madison Avenue yesterday. James M. Beck, the Chairman, was authorized to present the appeal to the constituent bodies of the league.

The appeal cautioned against the possibility of the success of anti-war candidates in certain sections, and, where such a possibility exists, Republicans and Democrats are called on to unite behind a pro-war candidate and to insure his success. The appeal called on voters to act both at primaries and general elections to reinforce the national will to beat Germany.

"A Congress must be elected which shall signify to the whole world that the American people are indivisibly united in their determination to go on with the war until its purpose shall have been accomplished. The voice of compromise must not be heard in the next Congress. Whether dominantly Republican or dominantly Democratic, the next Congress must be supremely American.

"Every member of the next Congress, whatsoever his views on domestic questions, must be a war-till-victory American.

"Therefore we call upon our fellow-citizens throughout the nation to use their power alike at primary and election to the end that the next Congress, Senate and House alike, prove a mighty reinforcement of the will and strength that shall crown our just cause with victory."

The League for National Unity was formed last November to crystallize opinion for vigorous prosecution of the war. Cardinal Gibbons and Dr. Frank Mason North, President of the Federal Council, Churches of Christ in America, are Honorary Chairmen; Theodore N. Vail is Chairman; Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Charles S. Barrett, President of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, and George Pope, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, are Vice Chairmen; Otto H. Kahn is Treasurer; Ralph M. Easley, Chairman of the Executive Council of the National Civic Federation, is Director, and D. L. Cease, editor of the Railroad Trainman, is Secretary. James M. Beck is Chairman of the Executive Committee.

BRISK ATILLERY DUELS ON THE FRENCH FRONT

French and British Troops Are Successful in Patrol Raiding Operations.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Artillery actions on several sectors of the French front, including that of Verdun, are noted in tonight's War Office announcement, the text of which reads:

There was quite marked activity on the part of both artilleries in the region of the Miette, on the front of Caurières Wood and in the Woevre. In the last mentioned region an enemy raid north of Seicheprey was without result.

On Jan. 29 two German airplanes were brought down, and three fell inside their own lines seriously damaged after engagements.

The afternoon report says:

There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—"Last night one of our patrols successfully attacked a German post northeast of Havrincourt and killed or took prisoners a number of the enemy's garrison," the War Office reported this afternoon. "Further casualties were inflicted on the enemy in patrol encounters in the neighborhood of Bullecourt, where we captured a machine gun."

BERLIN (via London), Jan. 30.—Artillery and mine-throwing activity at various points on the western front is reported in the official communication issued this afternoon. The success of air attacks on England and the north coast of France is also chronicled.

The text of the statement follows:

There was artillery and mine-throwing activity at various points. Infantry activity was limited to reconnoitering encounters.

Our aviators made successful attacks on England and the north coast of France. Bombs were dropped on London, Southend, Dunkirk, Gravelines and Calais.

Eight enemy airplanes and two captive balloons were brought down in aerial fighting yesterday.

FIERCE AERIAL ATTACK MADE ON ZEEBRUGGE

British Bomb Airdromes and Ammunition Dumps in Belgium All Day.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 30.—An aerial attack of unusual severity was made Tuesday afternoon on Zeebrugge, the German submarine base in Northern Belgium, according to the Telegraaf's frontier correspondent.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The following communication dealing with aviation was issued this evening:

Bombing attacks were carried out Tuesday vigorously against ammunition dumps and airdromes all day long, while low-flying machines engaged the enemy's troops with machine-gun fire.

Eight hostile machines were downed in air fighting, and four were driven down out of control. An observation balloon was downed in flames. Three of our machines are missing.

FRENCH DUKE IS KILLED.

Chevreuse Falls While Making Test Flight in Airplane.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The Duke de Chevreuse was killed today while making a test flight in an airplane. He was 26 years old, son of the Duke de Luynes, and grandson of the Duchess d'Uzes.

LONDON BEATS OFF GERMAN AIR RAID

Attacking Machines on Tuesday Night Were Unable to Penetrate the Capital.

THREE KILLED, TEN INJURED

Invaders Turned Back at Outskirts—Many Casualties in a Shelter Monday Night.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—In last night's air raid three persons were killed and ten injured, it was announced officially today. It is feared that the bodies of six other persons are buried in the ruins of a house.

About fifteen airplanes took part in the raid. One of them dropped bombs in the southwestern outskirts of London, and another in the outlying northeastern district. There were a few casualties in the southwestern outskirts.

The raid appears to have been checked by the combined activity of airplanes and anti-aircraft guns, which kept the German airmen from the heart of London. Conditions for the raid were as favorable as those of Monday night. The sky was clear and there was little wind.

Official Account of Raid.

A number of attacks were delivered against London by hostile airplanes last night, between 10 P. M. and 12:30 A. M., but in no case did the raiders penetrate into the capital. The first enemy machines crossed the Isle of Thanet at 9:30 P. M., and proceeded up the Thames estuary toward London, but were all turned back by gunfire. At about the same time three or four other raiders crossed the Essex coast. These also failed to penetrate the outer defenses of the capital.

Meanwhile a single airplane which crossed the Essex coast at 10:30 P. M., passed around the north and west of London, and dropped some bombs on the southwestern outskirts. At the same time another enemy machine dropped bombs on the northeastern outskirts, without causing any casualties or damage.

Other airplanes which crossed the Kent and Essex coast between 10:25 P. M. and 10:50 P. M., were all turned back by gunfire at various places on the way to London.

The final attack, delivered across Essex by three or four machines, between 11:30 P. M. and midnight, was equally unsuccessful. Bombs were dropped in various places in Kent and Essex.

About the same number of machines as on the previous night appears to have participated in the raid, viz., fifteen. A number of our airplanes went up. Several engagements with enemy machines are reported. One of our pilots attacked a raider over the northeastern outskirts of London, with the result that it dropped its bombs on open ground and made off. All our pilots returned safely.

The enemy raiders during the last two nights did not succeed, and apparently did not attempt to bomb any military objectives. They merely attempted to kill civilians, and a majority of the victims, as usual, were women and children.

Heavy Mortality in a Shelter.

A large number of the persons killed in Monday night's raid, according to the Central News, met their deaths in a building, the basement of which was used as a shelter. It is believed that two bombs struck the building, as the walls were blown out in large sections and all the floors collapsed.

The Central News says that twenty-nine bodies have already been recovered from one building. Firemen and soldiers are still pouring water on the burning débris. Many bodies were burned severely. Among the victims was a woman who still clasped two small children to her breast.

BERLIN, Jan. 30, (via London.)—The bombing of London, Southend, Dunkirk, Gravelines, and Calais by German aircraft is announced in an official statement issued today.

CENSORSHIP LIFTED ON PRESS IN CAMPS

Correspondents Not Required to Submit Copy for Approval—Restriction on Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Major Gen. John Biddle, as acting Chief of Staff of the army, today sent to the commanders of all cantonments and camps in the United States instructions governing the publication of news concerning activities in the camps.

The order removes all military censorship in camps and cantonments on articles written by newspaper correspondent, not in the military service. Hereafter these correspondents will not be required to submit their copy to any officer for censorship. The order provides that they shall be guided by the requests for secrecy, published by the Committee on Public Information, and if those are ignored the privileges of the camp may be withdrawn, in the discretion of the camp commander.

All persons in the military service are forbidden to act as paid correspondents for or contributors to any newspaper, magazine, or other publication, or to receive any payment or reward whatever from any such publication for any letter or item of news written or furnished by them, whether the article in question is sent direct to the paper or periodical or consists of private correspondence which the writer permits to be published.

Otherwise there is no objection to the writing of letters or the furnishing of news items to publications, provided such activities do not interfere with the proper performance of military duty, that no criticism of superior officers is made, or false reports tending to injure the military service are furnished, and that all matter intended for publication is sent through the officer charged with the duty of censorship.

British Torpedo Gunboat Sunk.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The British torpedo gunboat Hazard was sunk in the English Channel on Jan. 28 as the result of a collision, the Admiralty announced tonight. Three men were lost. The Hazard was built in 1894 and measured 1,079 tons. She was 250 feet long and her normal complement was 115 men.

LUSITANIA WARNING SENT FROM BERLIN

ADVERTISEMENT FOLLOWED

German Embassy Dated It a Week Ahead of Receipt of the Cabled Order.

That the sinking of the Lusitania was directed from Berlin, and that Ambassador von Bernstorff, who expressed such "deep regret" over the torpedoing of the ship, knew before she sailed that it was planned to sink her, is asserted in an article by John R. Rathom, editor of The Providence Journal, in the February number of World's Work, issued yesterday.

In his article, which gives interesting accounts of the methods by which German plotting in this country was uncovered in 1915 and 1916, Mr. Rathom gives the following code message which was sent from Nauen, Germany, to the Sayville, L. I., wireless station at 2 A. M. April 22, 1915, and caught by the wireless of The Journal:

> From Berlin, Foreign Office, to Botschaft, Washington.
> 660 (44-W)—Welt nineteen-fifteen warne 175 29 1 stop 175 1 2 stop durch 622 2 4 stop 19 7 18 stop LIX 11 3 4 5 6.

Mr. Rathom wrote that the message created considerable interest in the office of The Journal because it followed none of the known codes and, in form, was unlike any other message which had been received at Sayville up to that time. That it was considered important by the Germans was indicated by the fact that in unfavorable static conditions four attempts were made to put it through before Sayville got it.

The message remained undeciphered until some one with a line of information into the German Embassy recalled that on the morning of April 29 Prince Hatzfeldt had been searching for a New York World Almanac. The first word of the message, "Welt," German for "World," gave an additional clue, taken with the words following "1915." The fourth word of the message was "warne," which is German for "warn." On Page 175 of the almanac, the twenty-ninth line, first word, was "Lusitania." On Page 175, line one, word two, was "passenger." The next word was "durch," German for "through." Page 622 of the almanac, line two, word four, was "press."

The next word of the message came from page 19 of the World Almanac, which contained the announcement of the death of Joseph Pulitzer, the 18th word of the 7th line on that page being "not." The last four words of the message were taken from an advertisement of a motor which bore the caption "The seal of safety at sea." This was page LIX, of the advertising section, and words 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the line 11 were "voyage across the Atlantic." So that the complete message read:

> Warn Lusitania passengers through press not voyage across the Atlantic.

The word "Botschaft" is German for "Embassy" and was the direction of the message. This message was received by von Bernstorff in Washington on April 28, the first thing in the morning. The anxiety of the German Ambassador to warn passengers on the Lusitania is shown by the circumstance that not until two full days later, on April 30, did he send to the offices of The World and THE NEW YORK TIMES copy for the famous advertisement of the German Embassy, published on the morning of May 1, the day the Lusitania sailed, warning passengers intending to voyage across the Atlantic that Germany and England were at war, and that ships flying the English flag were liable to destruction. Mr. Rathom comments on this message as follows:

"Notice the 'cleverness' of the German Embassy in dating the advertisement April 22, 1915, for insertion in the newspapers of May 1." It was, of course, for the purpose of not disclosing the connection between the code message from Nauen and the advertisement that the date was put back for a week. As printed, the advertisement mentioned no ship by name.

Referring to the published statement emanating from German sources that von Bernstorff regretted the sinking of the Lusitania, Mr. Rathom wrote.

"When word came that the Lusitania was sunk and Bernstorff's press agents reported him as being 'overcome with grief and regret' in a fashionable New York hotel, he was at that moment actually giving a supper party elsewhere in New York, and during this supper party the destruction of the Lusitania was hailed as a glorious triumph for German naval prowess. During the evening von Papen, touching glasses with his chief, made the remark: 'This is the end of the mistress of the seas.' Captain Boy-Ed, who was not at this function, alone among the entire group of embassy officials persisted in declaring that the sinking of the Lusitania was a blunder of the worst sort."

DANIELS IS TO INVESTIGATE.

Files at Sayville Station Will Be Searched for Message.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Great interest was manifested in Washington today when this month's issue of the World's Work magazine appeared with John R. Rathom's exposure of the cipher message indicating that the Berlin Government directed the sinking of the Lusitania.

Secretary Lansing said tonight that he had not seen this message before. Secretary Daniels, whose department is now in charge of the operation of the wireless station at Sayville, said he had not seen the message before it was called to his attention by THE TIMES. Mr. Daniels added that he would endeavor to ascertain whether the files of messages received through the Sayville station contained this one.

The importance of the message lies in the fact that it controverts the contention made at the German Embassy that the historic advertisement printed in New York newspapers on the morning of May 1, 1915—the day the Lusitania sailed—had no special reference to the sailing of the Lusitania.

The advertisement did not mention the Lusitania by name, but it reminded passengers intending to embark that, in accordance with notice given by the German Government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britain were liable to destruction. The advertisement was signed "Imperial German Embassy," and its last line read: "Washington, D. C., April 22, 1915," a date eight days in advance of the sailing of the Lusitania and eight days ahead of the actual insertion of the advertisement.

MEXICO TO CHECK GERMANS

Presses Corruption Charge Against Minister von Eckhardt.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—German propaganda at last has reached the stage where the Mexican Government has taken official notice of it. The Legislative Committee, which sits during the recess of the Legislature, has directed the Attorney General to investigate charges that Heinrich von Eckhardt, the German Minister to Mexico, has been responsible for alleged corruption in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies.

These charges were published by El Universal, a pro-Entente and pro-American newspaper, together with a demand that von Eckhardt should receive his passports as Minister.

It is asserted by opponents of El Universal that even if the charge of corruption in the Chamber should be proved against one or more Deputies the paper is liable to prosecution under Mexican law by every member of the Chamber.

THOUSANDS PLEDGED TO AID WAR THRIFT

GIVES PRAISE TO McADOO

Labor Leader Declares the Best Union Man Is the One Who Saves and Serves.

More than three thousand persons crowded into Carnegie Hall last night for the National War Thrift Meeting, under the Chairmanship of Elihu Root, through which the National War Savings Committee put the program of and the need for the war savings stamps and thrift movement before the people of the city. With representatives of the army, the navy, organized labor, and the women workers among the speakers, every side of the need for the widest possible individual saving was presented.

"Hundreds of thousands of men and women during these past months," said Mr. Root, "have been striving to find what they could do to help their country in this hour of trial. This meeting is called for the purpose of showing you and the people of the whole country how they can all do something for their country; how every man and every woman, rich and poor, old and young—aye, the children—those who work with their brains and those who work with their hands, those of large incomes and those of small, how they can all do something to help their country.

"We are in the war because it had become plain that our liberty, our freedom, our justice, our national life could not continue unless once more we were willing to submit ourselves to the sacrifices and the sufferings and the loss, and for many of us death itself, in order to preserve the land and the liberty and the justice that we love.

"We are there, and we cannot turn back. There can be no submission unless it be a submission to slavery. There can be no return unless it be to humiliation and degradation.

"Modern war is as much a contest of supplies as it is a contest of arms. The vast armies arrayed against each other on the battle lines must be fed, must be clothed, must be armed, must be supplied. And where are these supplies to come from? One hundred millions of men, either in the armies or engaged in the manufacture of supplies for the armies, have been withdrawn from productive employment, and all over the world there is a shortage of food, of clothing, of materials. In every direction the supreme test of war now is to be found in the capacity of the people to supply the materials necessary to enable the armies to go on with the war.

"We are the most wasteful and extravagant people upon the face of the earth, and unless we can save out of our superfluity, and by some well-devised machinery give the benefit of our saving to our armies and the armies of our allies, then we shall lose the war. Now, this meeting is called to explain and to start a movement to put into effect a plan under which the saving that is necessary can be accomplished and can be made effective."

Mr. Root then explained the plan of the thrift stamps, the war savings stamps, and the war savings certificates. "You see how this works," he said. "You kill four birds with one stone, which is an example of marksmanship that I should like to see applied all along the German trenches. The first bird is this—you save by not using, and what you don't use is left to the Government to use for our men.

"The second bird is that you turn your 25 cents, your $4.12, over to the Government, and that the Government has the money to use in winning this war. The third bird is that when the war is over, when peace has come again, and the production of wealth has recommenced, and we are all prosperous again, then the Government will pay to you the money that you would have thrown away in the meantime, and you will have it.

"And the fourth bird is that you will be better people. You will have laid the foundation for the restoration of a virtue that should obtain in all democracies, in all republics. You will have wiped off from the great surface of our national record the reproach of being a wasteful, extravagant, luxury-loving people, and you will make yourselves, by the exercise of the virtue of thrift, and you will make your children, more like those great and noble men who founded our Republic and through their privations and sacrifices gave us the liberty and justice that we have. Each one of you has a distinct, specific duty to act toward the carrying out of this plan. Never say again that you would like to help your country but you don't know how."

A telegram addressed to Frederic W. Allen, head of the war savings movement in this city, from Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo was read by Mr. Root. The Secretary expressed his regret that pressure of official duties made his attendance at the meeting impossible, and added: "The war savings campaign is of the greatest importance, and it deserves the enthusiastic support of every loyal American."

As Mr. Root read the name signed to the message he added: "I don't care what party he belongs to; he is doing yeoman service for the country. And I am glad to associate myself with him and to do some little to help him in the great work he has undertaken, and to which he is devoting himself so absolutely and so effectively and patriotically."

Lieutenant Joseph S. Smith, who served three years in the British and Canadian armies, and is now attached to the staff of the 77th Division at Camp Upton, spoke of the value of War Savings Stamps in helping the army, and incidentally defended the troops in France against charges of immorality.

Commander J. K. Taussig, U. S. N., told of the work of American destroyers fighting submarines in European waters.

Charles L. Baine of Boston, representing the American Federation of Labor, expressed entire confidence in the disinterested patriotism of the bulk both of employers and employes and declared that the man who saves is not only the best union man, but the best citizen.

Mrs. F. Louis Slade spoke for the woman's committee, and Patrick Francis Murphy ended the evening with a satirical analysis of German policy.

This is the last day on which War Savings Stamps, redeemable at $5 each, can be bought for $4.12. Beginning tomorrow the price will be $4.13 and this price will increase 1 cent per month thereafter.

In an effort to further stimulate the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is sending broadcast throughout the country an official folder addressed to "The Head of the House." In the folder Mr. McAdoo informs the public that upon request a letter carrier will bring stamps in any amount required to the householder's door.

FLOOD WASHES OUT GOVERNMENT LOCK

150,000 Logs and Ties Rushing Down Kentucky River—Ice Sinks Boats at Cincinnati.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 30.—Government lock No. 14, at Heidelburg, Lee County, was washed out this afternoon by the Kentucky River flood. Logmen have organized to catch 50,000 logs and 100,000 railroad ties now rushing down the river.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 30. — Ice gorges had again formed above and below the Cincinnati harbor tonight, and river men expressed the fear that when these gorges broke the damage to river property would be as great, if not greater, than that caused by the break-up of the ice earlier today. Three large steamers were sunk in the local harbor and another was swept away by the ice floes, as were numerous smaller craft. The loss to property was estimated at $300,000.

QUESTIONS WISDOM OF WAR CORPORATION

A. B. Hepburn Says War Can Be Won Only by Keeping Business at Full Volume.

FEARS TOO MUCH CONTROL

Banker and Economist Wonders if "So Much Autocracy Is Necessary to Preserve Democracy."

A Barton Hepburn, banker, author, and economist, when asked yesterday to comment upon Secretary McAdoo's proposal for a $500,000,000 War Finance Corporation, said:

"This war can only be won by keeping business in full volume, by fostering individual activity and business prosperity. People can only pay taxes and buy bonds, in other words can only furnish the Government with money to carry on the war, from their net earnings, savings, what they have left from their earnings after paying all their expenses, including the cost of living. With general prosperity the people will cheerfully endure the hardships and place their surplus funds at the disposal of the Government. In order to meet the Government's demands, inevitable demands, just demands, business prosperity must not be interfered with; and in addition the most extreme economy must be observed in order that the savings of the people may be commensurate with the Government's needs. Interference with the usual method of supplying coal to the public, by means of coal conservators, is of more than doubtful wisdom. It certainly has interfered with and restrained business too generally.

"The obstinate refusal on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow the railroads to increase their charges to the public, when the cost of labor, the cost of coal, and all other costs of administration were increasing by leaps and bounds, certainly put the railroads in a position where relief must come from some quarter. It seems the relief is to come in the form of taxation, as evidenced by the bill now before Congress. The railroads were not permitted to require shippers and passengers to pay the additional costs and now the taxpayers must. The Government has taken over the railroads and some means must be adopted to provide for their financial needs, and the railroads' necessities are equally the necessities of the public.

"I hesitate to comment upon the proposed bill without more study. It goes way beyond the railroads and applies to business 'whose operations are necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war.' Where would that line be drawn? I wonder. I think that the maintenance of all business in addition to general prosperity is 'necessary to the prosecution of the war.'

"The proposed board is to regulate all issues of securities that equal $100,000 in amount. That would include the activities of small villages and towns. Our officials at Washington are staggering under enormous and laborious responsibilities. Is it prudent to enlarge their labors by this sweeping responsibility? Is it prudent to send every locality to Washington for permission to manage its local affairs? And members of the Supreme Court, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, of the Federal Reserve Board—in short, nearly all important United States officials—are appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The proposed board is given very unusual powers, perhaps necessary in this war crisis, and is composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, who appoints four additional men, approved by the President, to act with him. Is so much autocracy necessary to preserve democracy?"

LESS OPPOSITION TO BILL.

Republicans Now Seem Inclined to Accept Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Opposition to Secretary McAdoo's bill for control of corporate financing apparently is dwindling in Congress. Republicans who thought they saw a possible issue are becoming convinced, after consultation with leading financiers, that the measure in principle is sound. Majority Leader Kitchin intends giving opportunity to members of both parties at hearings to press their claims for changes in it. It is not likely the measure will go on the floor for six weeks or two months.

One feature of the bill that apparently will be involved in the final consideration of the bill is the principle of establishing so-called dictators, or administrators.

There is a feeling in Congress that giving the Government control over money will grant a closer power over nonessential industries, through a certain priority of loans, than is possible even in its authority over the raw products of manufacture.

A point which affects Senate sentiment rather than that of the House is that the five members of the controlling board are not to be confirmed by the Senate. They are simply to be chosen by Secretary McAdoo and approved by the Senate. There seems to be a definite sentiment that this feature must be modified.

"Hereafter," declared one Senator today, "we are going to know the character of our administrators."

Aircraft Base at Spokane.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Creation of the Pacific Coast branch of the Aircraft Production Board, with headquarters at Spokane, Wash., was announced here today. George S. Ling, a lumberman; William M. Ladd, a banker, and a Colonel of the Army Signal Corps, will compose the branch board. A military commission, headed by Brig. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, recommended the new offices, and has reported satisfactory expansion of the spruce lumber industry.

CAPT. PAYNE FALLS IN FLIGHT NEAR WACO

Former New York Advertising Man Has a Fractured Skull and Ankle.

A dispatch received in this city yesterday announced the serious injury in an airplane accident near Waco, Texas, of Captain John Payne of the 182d Aerial Squadron, formerly a well known New York advertising man.

The following telegram was sent to his New York club, which was on the army register as his permanent address:

"Hicks, Texas, Jan. 30.

"Mrs. Payne:

"Captain John Payne fractured his skull and broke his ankle in a flying accident about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He was operated on for fractured skull at 3:15 A. M. Wednesday by Captain J. S. Rodman, Chief Surgeon, Camp Bowie. At 10 A. M. this morning Captain Rodman informs me his condition is better than hoped to expect. Temperature and pulse normal; clear mentally; condition very serious. Hope for recovery.

"I was with your son from 10 P. M. Tuesday till 6:30 A. M. Wednesday, and am well satisfied that everything has been done for him.

"Major G. H. BONNELL,
"Taliaferro Field No. 1."

Captain Payne's mother is dead, but his superior officer, unaware of the fact, evidently made every effort to give definite information as to his condition to his nearest of kin, and friends in New York notified his sister, Mrs. W. L. Stover of Birmingham, Ala., of the accident.

From a friend and business associate of Captain Payne, George D. Buckley of the Crowell Publishing Company, it was learned that the aviator was flying at a considerable altitude when he saw a student flier entangled with his machine in the branches of a tree, and descended to give him aid. His own accident occurred when his airplane was within 800 feet of the ground.

Captain Payne, before he entered the army, was Western advertising manager of the Crowell Publishing Company, with headquarters in Chicago. He served through the Mexican border campaign with Battery C, First Illinois Field Artillery, and trained for his commission at the aviation school at Rantoul, Ill. He was for a time stationed at Mineola and then transferred to Fort Worth, Texas, at which place he was in charge of the three camps of his squadron at the time of the accident.

He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a member of the Alpha Delta Phi Club of this city.

Navy Needs More Binoculars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Another appeal for binoculars, spyglasses, telescopes, sextants, and chronometers for use in fighting the submarines, was made today by the navy. Several weeks ago a similar appeal brought in more than 6,000 glasses of various kinds, but they are wholly insufficient, and the navy needs many thousands more. All articles should be securely tagged, the appeal says, with the name and address of the owner, and forwarded by mail or express to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

MAYOR HYLAN URGES CUT IN COAL PRICES

CITY RECEIVES 30,000 TONS

Up-State Districts Are Suffering Greatly for Fuel, Administrator Wiggin Asserts.

In an effort to aid the smallest consumer who purchases his coal in 100-pound lots Mayor Hylan yesterday wrote to Albert H. Wiggin, State Fuel Administrator; Reeve Schley, County Fuel Administrator, and Harry T. Peters, Chairman of the Fuel Conservation Committee, asking that a scale of prices be fixed so that the purchaser will not have to pay at most more than 60 cents a hundred pounds for coal.

"From reports which have come to me," the Mayor wrote, "it appears that one definite cause contributing to the distress of the poor of New York, who can only afford to buy coal in very small quantities, lies in the following condition:

"A number of the sixty-three yards operated by the large retail coal dealers have entered into competition with the hucksters and peddlers because of the extraordinary profit they, the dealers, can make out of the sale of coal in 100-pound bags. They are making it difficult for the hucksters and peddlers to do business at a profit, or even to do any business at all; first, by charging exorbitant prices to the huckster and, second, by denying the huckster coal in order to take care of their own newly developed activity, namely, the 100-pound bag sale.

"The large dealers buy their coal at wholesale and dole it out to the persons buying it by the 100-pound lot. This practice compels women and children to go long distances to their coal pockets and to stand in line for hours for coal. When they do get the coal, they carry it home in sacks, thereby allowing these dealers to get an increased profit of several dollars per ton, whereas if the coal were sold by the retail coal dealers to the hucksters and peddlers at a reasonable price, coal then could be sold by the hucksters and peddlers for 60 cents per hundred pounds. The advantage of the peddler is that his place of business is located near his customers, and thus the people who must rely upon the cellarman or peddler are not compelled to travel very far for their coal.

"It seems to me, if you and your associate representatives of the Federal Government possess the authority to regulate conditions at all, you must have authority to fix a scale of prices which will be fair to the large retailer, the huckster, and the consumer, respectively. This price should not in any event be more than 60 cents to the ultimate consumer for a 100-pound bag of coal.

"Unless price conditions can be so regulated that the huckster is enabled to make fair profit on the coal which he handles, all the rest of our doings will be of little real service to those who need us most. Will you not give this matter your immediate and serious attention, with a view to improving this condition at once?" Hucksters, it was said last night, had been receiving at least 70 cents a hundred pounds for coal delivered to their customers.

The Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defense is going to make a determined effort to supply the needs of the small purchasers of fuel. An announcement from the committee's headquarters last night said that, beginning on Monday, the committee would issue "priority orders" for coal to reach every emergency case in New York.

The Mayor's committee has received an allotment of 200 tons of coal a day from the Fuel Administrator to be distributed to families where there are several small children or aged persons. The plans of the committee contemplate the issuance of red coal tickets, which will be honored by any coal dealer for the purchase of an amount of coal not to exceed 100 pounds. No dealer, if he has coal, will be permitted to refuse to sell it to the holder of a red ticket, and in case of such refusal the police have been instructed to compel the dealer to comply with the demands of the purchaser. The red tickets are to be signed by Commissioner of Foods and Markets Jonathan Day, and John Findlay Mitchell, President of the Federal Food Board.

About 80,000 tons of anthracite coal reached New York City yesterday from Tidewater, according to a report given out by W. B. Pollock, Deputy Marine Director for the port of New York. The following is the amount of coal at tidewater.

	Anthracite. Cars.	Bituminous. Cars.	Total. Cars.
Dumped	976	759	1,735
In barges	613	231	844
In cars	1,644	1,130	2,774

Administrator Wiggin said last night that while the improved weather conditions had helped the city's fuel situation a little, yet in other parts of the State the fuel famine was still acute.

"In New York City, the coal situation is still pretty serious," said Mr. Wiggin. "But conditions here are not to be compared with those up-State. There they are suffering greatly for lack of fuel. We are doing our utmost, and I think have been fairly sucessful in supplying the public utilities, the schools, and hospitals of New York City with coal; but up-State many factories have had to close for lack of fuel. In some places shipments of coal had to be diverted from one consignee or another to provide such necessary utilities as water works with absolutely necessary fuel."

While no public schools were closed in the Boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, or in Queens yesterday, the school situation in Brooklyn remained unchanged, according to a statement given out last night by Gustave Straubenmuller, Acting Superintendent of Schools. The Brooklyn schools now closed, including the high schools, he said, would stay closed until Feb. 4, when it was hoped there would be enough fuel on hand to open. Mr. Straubenmuller said that the high schools of the other boroughs would be closed today and tomorrow to help conserve fuel.

FOOD CARD READY FOR RICH.

Under It Meats, Sugar, Wheat, and Fats Are to be Conserved.

The Federal Food Board made public yesterday the rationing program which is to be adopted by the wealthy families of the city as a means of furthering the conservation of food and setting an example in food economy for the families of wealth throughout the country. The rationing program prescribes the weekly allowance per person in food commodities as follows:

MEAT— Beef, fresh, salted, tinned and hashed; Mutton, lamb, and veal, (mutton by preference;) Pork, (the weekly allowance of pork per person should not exceed half a pound,) gross weight	2½ lbs.
BUTTER	½ lb.
COOKING AND KITCHEN FATS— Margarine, lard substitutes, cottonseed oil, peanut oil, and olive oil	½ lb.
WHEAT FLOUR— For use in cooking, such as gravies and sauces, (use as far as possible corn starch, cracker dust, and bread crumbs)	⅓ lb.
WAR BREAD— Made according to regulations of Food Administration, 3 lbs. of bread require 2¼ lbs. of flour	3 lbs.
SUGAR— Including table use and in cooking, including candies and sweetmeats, but not the sugar used for canning and preserving	¾ lb.

Wealthy women who have organized the "Honor System of Voluntary Rationing" for the carrying out of this conservation program in their own homes declared yesterday that the rationing card did not require very much more denial in the consumption of foods than they have been accustomed to practice since the establishment of the United States Food Administration.

FAST FOOD TRAINS WILL START TODAY

hour schedule between Chicago and New York means that the trains will be run at fifteen miles an hour.

In the office of the Regional Director of Railroads in the Grand Central Terminal there will be a train dispatcher under the direction of A. J. Stone, Vice President of the Erie Railroad, who will receive hourly reports regarding these trains. He will be notified when they are made up at the assembly yards, and he will direct their movement. The trains will be sent over the most direct and clearest tracks to New York, where as many cars as can be handled will be sent to the new ocean freight piers, to be loaded into ships.

The new arrangement is expected to expedite the movement of other freight, by ridding the intermediary and terminal yards of the cars of food and urgent supplies for the Allies.

The new system will be operated by the Freight Traffic Committee, North Atlantic Ports, under Mr. Smith, with the full co-operation of the representatives in the United States of the Governments of England, France, and Italy. George D. Ogden of the Pennsylvania system is chairman of the Freight Traffic Committee, and Francis La Bau of the New York Central is Vice-Chairman.

Railroad Piers to Be Utilized.

The railroad piers here taken over as a part of the new system have been used by the roads for unloading freight from cars for domestic use or transfer to lighters, or for loading freight for interior movement. The piers taken are:

New York Central Railroad, at Weehawken—Four piers, accommodating nine or ten steamships.

Erie Railroad, at Weehawken—Four piers, three of which are alloted to Belgian relief ships; the fourth pier will accommodate one steamship.

Central Railroad of New Jersey—One pier, which will accommodate two steamships, but some dredging must be done.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Accommodations at American Docks, St. George, S. I.

Eastern Lines Get Engine Power.

Director Smith reported yesterday that the Eastern lines had received large additional supplies of locomotives from Western lines. Of 102 locomotives ordered from Western to Eastern lines, ninety-six have been delivered, and the remaining six, which had to be changed from oil to coal burners, are on the way. Of new locomotives coming from the manufacturers, sixteen owned by Western companies have been put into service on Eastern lines. Because of shop conditions, forty locomotives have been sent from Eastern lines to Western lines for repairs.

Reports to Mr. Smith yesterday from the heads of the Eastern railroads showed a good improvement in the freight situation. There was a decrease of more than 5,000 cars in the cars above normal on Eastern lines. There was an increase of 4,500 in westbound empties, due to the rushing of cars West for coal and food supplies. The cars above normal on all the Eastern roads reported yesterday follow:

Total all roads:		Decrease.
Eastbound loads	59,220	5,066
Eastbound empties	9,600	786
Westbound loads	37,164	1,638
Westbound empties	37,992	*4,561

*Increase.

Tuesday's figures were:		Increase.
Eastbound loads	64,286	7,930
Eastbound empties	10,386	2,156
Westbound loads	28,802	1,729
Westbound empties	33,431	2,871

Mr. Smith's reports showed that the snow of Monday had been cleared away on all the main lines. The general situation on the Eastern lines is given in this summary of the reports to the Regional Director:

"The movement in Ohio and Indiana was about 70 per cent. normal, due to unfavorable weather and conditions of power as a result. Lines in Indiana are working about 75 per cent. normal. There is considerable difficulty in moving freight on account of snow drifting.

"Weather conditions in anthracite districts are improved, and congestion there, due to the storm and snow, is being relieved. The weather conditions in Bellwood, Cresson, and Tyronne bituminous regions totally prevented distribution of coal cars yesterday.

"There is little improvement in the eastbound situation in Pittsburgh territory from the conditions brought about by the severe storm of Saturday and Sunday. Westbound accumulations are being slowly reduced."

More Ships Get Coal.

Joseph E. Parsons, in charge of bunkering ships at this port for the United States Shipping Board, reported yesterday that eight ships had been bunkered in the preceding twenty-four hours, and that twenty-six remained to be coaled. Mr. Parsons said that the bunkering of ships was well in hand and that no ships carrying supplies to the Allies were being delayed for lack of fuel.

"None of these twenty-six ships is technically in need of fuel," said Mr. Parsons. "When they need fuel, we can supply them."

A ship arrived yesterday from Hampton Roads with 6,500 tons of bunker coal to help the New York situation. In the last week 20,000 tons of bituminous coal have reached this port from Hampton Roads. The coal-carrying railroads reported yesterday that 100,000 tons of bunker coal were at New York tidewater. W. B. Pollock, Deputy Marine Superintendent, reported that nineteen railroad tugs recently broken down in the ice were under repair. Ice conditions in the harbor were reported improved.

To Newspaper Readers in New York City:

Your newsdealer is now making a profit on each copy 50 per cent. larger than he made when the newspapers were sold at one cent. In addition he now takes no risk of loss, as the newspapers refund to him the amount paid for unsold copies. He has, therefore, no just reason for refusing to serve you.

The subway and elevated news stands are liberally supplied with morning and evening newspapers, and other means of distribution will be promptly arranged if necessary.

NEW NEWSPAPER DISTRIBUTION PLAN

Corporation Formed to Sell and Deliver Newspapers and Other Periodicals.

MORE READERS SUPPLIED

Methods of Distributing The Times Where People Want It Extended as They Telephone Their Needs.

To facilitate the sale, delivery, and distribution of newspapers throughout New York City, a new company, to be known as "The United Newspaper Delivery Company," will be incorporated in Albany today. The terms of the articles of incorporation show that the purpose of the United Newspaper Delivery Company is to "purchase, sell, and deliver newspapers, magazines, periodicals, books, and other news stand merchandise; to establish and maintain stores, stations, and stands for the purchase, sale, and delivery of the above mentioned articles, and to carry on a general business connected with news stand merchandise."

The incorporators of the new company and its directors for the first year are: Don C. Seitz, The World; Louis Wiley, The Times; Frank B. Flaherty, The Herald; Bradford Merrill, The American; Ervin Wardman, The Sun; George Vernon Rogers, The Tribune; George H. Larke, The Evening Mail; Arthur B. Chivers, The Globe; Victor Ridder, Staats-Zeitung, and Herbert F. Gunnison, The Brooklyn Eagle.

The strike of the newsdealers continued yesterday. In the business districts, at Times Square, Brooklyn Bridge, Herald Square, and similar centres independent newsboys braved the threats of the strikers and sold any paper asked for.

It was pointed out to the strikers that under the new system the newsdealer makes a profit 50 per cent. larger than he made when newspapers were sold at 1 cent, and that moreover he now takes no risk of loss, because under the old scheme unsold papers were not returnable and now the publisher refunds to him his investment on all copies remaining unsold.

A mass meeting of news dealers was held at Harlem Casino last night and was attended by about 2,000 persons. Irwin I. Rackoff, counsel for the dealers, and other speakers, urged "firmness" in the strike. It was announced that Staten Island was now "wholly under control of the strikers" and that it was difficult to buy New York papers anywhere in that borough. Dealers in Yonkers and Long Island City, it was promised, would join the strike today. The strikers were warned by their leaders to abstain from violence.

Despite these assurances there were improvements yesterday in the distribution of papers initiated by the newspapers themselves. The method instituted by the circulation department of The Times of distributing its copies in large apartment houses, private hotels and clubs, through their superintendents, was extended greatly. On Tuesday more than one hundred of these were promptly supplied; yesterday the distribution reached more than three hundred apartment houses alone.

Today this system will be applied to any apartment house in which the tenants make application to The Times circulation department by telephone or otherwise, and if other New York newspapers are wanted at the same time The Times will undertake to notify the other newspaper offices, which will deliver their papers there also.

The Times was also supplied yesterday in greatly increased quantities to news stands on the subway and elevated lines, and it will continue so to be supplied at these points. The sales at these stands yesterday were nearly twenty times the former total.

Hotel and restaurant news stands and railway terminals will likewise be kept stocked with The Times, and full supplies of papers will be kept at The Times branch offices in Times Square, at 7 Beekman Street, 2 Rector Street, 2,109 Seventh Avenue, (Harlem,) 2,914 Third Avenue, (Bronx,) 3,525 Broadway, (Washington Heights,) and 367 Fulton Street, (Brooklyn.)

HOLD NEW SHUT-DOWN OF INDUSTRY NEEDLESS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—While reports which reached here tonight told of unprecedented weather conditions in many sections, announcement was made by the Railroad and Food Administrations that the railroad lines were making a brave fight, and that apparently another industrial shutdown for an extended period would be unnecessary.

Embargo orders now effective on three of the most important transportation systems, barring all freight except fuel, foods, and a restricted list of war supplies, probably will remain in force for a considerably longer time than has been contemplated, because of the blizzard conditions, and local embargoes on other railroads may be necessary. Director General of Railroads McAdoo, however, said he did not believe that a wholesale shutdown of war industries because of lack of coal was impending.

The City of Washington was enveloped today in the biggest snowstorm since the blizzard of Feb. 13, 1899, and the street railways were paralyzed. The reports from New England, New York, and other sections of the East, however, while telling of low temperatures and impeded transportation facilities, were more encouraging.

One of the most serious reports received was that practically all of the shipyards engaged on Government work, with the exception of that of the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, N. J., which is roofed in, had been forced to suspend operations because of the heavy snowstorms. It is believed that this situation will be relieved within the next twenty-four hours.

The situation in New England was admitted to be bad, but steps were taken today to relieve the coal famine there, and Director General McAdoo, after a conference with J. J. Storrow, Federal Fuel Administrator for New England, said he did not think that section would get into very serious trouble, so far as the war industries were concerned, adding:

"We have vessels at Norfolk, Va., to take coal to New England, and the war industries will get it."

DESTROYER SUNK IN CONVOY ATTACK

British Report on Mediterranean Disaster Discloses Loss of a Warship.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The transport and the fleet auxiliary which were sunk last month in the Mediterranean, as announced in the House of Commons last week, were the Aragon and the Osmanieh.

An official statement concerning the sinking of these vessels says:

"The transport Aragon, Captain Francis Bateman commanding, was torpedoed and sunk in the Eastern Mediterranean on Dec. 30. A British destroyer, while picking up survivors from the Aragon, was herself torpedoed and sunk, as reported Jan. 7.

"The mercantile fleet auxiliary Osmanieh, Lieut. Commander D. R. Mason commanding, struck a mine and sank approximately in the same locality on Dec. 31. These are the vessels referred to in the House of Commons on Jan. 23.

"The casualties on the Aragon were: Officers, 4; crew, 15; military officers, 10; soldiery, 581.

"Osmanieh: Officers, 3; crew, 21; military officers, 1; soldiery, 166; female nurses, 8.

"Both Captains were casualties."

A nurse who was on the Aragon writes:

"When the stern was down in the water and the bows were in the air the troops on board were singing.

"The destroyer was torpedoed amidships. She went clean in half. She was close by and had picked up hundreds of 'Tommies.' They had to go down again, and that, to my mind, was the worst of all."

3 FRENCH VESSELS SUNK.

Four Italian Ships Also Sent to the Bottom in Week.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Three French vessels of less than 1,600 tons were sunk during the week ending Jan. 25. Three were unsuccessfully attacked.

ROME, Jan. 30.—Shipping losses for the week ending Jan. 26 were two Italian steamers of more than 1,500 tons and two sailing vessels under 100 tons. One steamer which was damaged was able to reach port.

First Chinese Troops Off for France

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Word came from Peking today that transportation of Chinese troops to France had begun, these being the first fighting units dispatched. China has more than 100,000 men employed on military works behind the French lines, but the new contingents will engage in actual warfare.

TO DRAFT BRITONS AND CANADIANS HERE

Americans Abroad Also to be Conscripted—Triple Agreement Reached.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary of State Lansing, in a letter today to Vice-President Marshall, as President of the Senate, tells of negotiations being practically completed by the United States wi thGreat Britain and Canada by which subjects of the three countries eligible for military service may be drafted in the armies of any of these countries, if they do not enlist in their own. The letter reads:

Jan. 30, 1918.

Hon. Thomas Marshall,
Vice-President of the United States.

Inasmuch as the Senate, on July 31, resolved that the President be requested to enter into an agreement with the European nations engaged in the war against the Central Powers of Europe, authorizing and empowering the United States to apply the provisions of the Drtf Act to citizens or subjects of such nations domiciled in the United States, I dem it proper to make the following report on the progress of negotiations looking to the conclusion of such agreements.

A ssoon as a suitable proposal could be formulated in conjunction with the War Department, it was submitted to the co-belligerents of the United States as a basis for diplomatic negotiations. As negotiations proceeded with the European nations unforeseen difficulties interposed themselves, as, for example, the revolution in Russia and the German drive in Italy, which made it necessary for the time being to press more strongly negotiations in other quarters. For this reason and also on account of the fact that the laws and conditions in Great Britain and Canada were more nearly like those of the United Sttes, negotiations proceeded more rapidly with those countries. Moreover, in the interest of obtaining agreement with the other European nations as nearly uniform as possible for reasons of efficient administration in the United Stats it was deemed best to reach an agreement, if possible, with some country which might be used as a model for the agreements with the other countries.

It is with pleasure, therefore, that I beg to report that at the present time we are in agreement with Great Britain and with Canada as to the terms of separate conscription conventions which now, but for a few verbal changes, await the signature of representatives of the Governments concerned before being sent to the Senate.

In brief, these conventions, which are in effect practically alike, give to persons under the convention, the option to return to their own country for military service within a limited period. After the expration of this period, such persons are subject to the military service under the laws and regulations of the country in which they choose to remain, provided that for Britains and Canadians in the United States the ages for military service shall be limited t ethose of the Draft Act of May 18, 1917.

These conventons also give the right to the contracting parties to exempt their citizens or subjects from military service abroad in case it is regarded as necessary or desrable.

These conventions also give the right to the contracting parties to exempt their citizens or subjects from military service abroad in case it is regarded as necessary or desirable.

The remaning provisions of the convention are of less importance and need not be mentioned here. I have no objection to this letter being made public if you so desire.

ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

Vice-President Marshall sent the letter to Senator Chamberlain, who drafted the alien slacker resolution. The Oregon Senator expressed himself as pleased with the negotiations of the Secretary of State.

$10,000,000 FOR DISABLED.

Board's Estimate for Training Men Returning from War.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Comprehensive plans for the vocational reeducation of disabled soldiers and sailors as well as civilians employed by private firms were outlined in a report to the Senate today from the Federal Board for Vocational Training. An appropriation of $10,000,000 was asked.

The board estimates that in the first year after the American armies participate on the battle front, 100,000 men will be disabled, of whom 20,000 will require total or partial vocational reeducation. For the second year, 40,000 are estimated, and for the third year, 60,000.

This estimate, the board says, is based on the supposition that one million men will be sent to Europe during the first year. Canadian estimates, the board says, show that 10 per cent. of the men sent overseas return physically unfit for military duty.

Check Congestion at Lakes Station.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Captain William A. Moffett, commandant at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, received orders today to cut down the population of the station to 18,000 men to safeguard health conditions. The station, which has a present population of between 25,800 and 30,000, has been congested for some time.

GOMPERS DEMANDS THAT UNIONS OBEY

RADICALS CAUSED TROUBLE

Socialists Joined with Them in Fighting Conservative Leadership of Gompers.

The fight between the conservative and the radical branches of American labor, which since the United States entered the war has developed into a fight between the majority loyal and minority pacifist elements, was brought to a crux yesterday by a statement by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, that if the United Hebrew Trades of New York did not agree by Feb. 11 to abide by the orders and direction of the federation unions belonging to it must sever their connection with that organization or with the Federation of Labor.

Within the ranks of the United Hebrew Trades is the Socialist and radical faction that has for years fought the conservative leadership of Mr. Gompers. Since the war started it has accused Mr. Gompers of becoming the tool of the capitalists because he has worked with them for the vigorous prosecution of the war. It has made much of the fact that Mr. Gompers and Elihu Root spoke from the same platform at a loyalty meeting in Chicago. This faction, constituting a large part of the 200,000 membership of the United Hebrew Trades, contributes a large membership to the People's Council through membership in the Workmen's Council, a strongly pacifist organization. A part of the membership of the United Hebrew Trades has shown rebellious tendencies in refusing to obey orders of the officials of the federation.

At the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Buffalo last November a resolution was passed, and concurred in by the Central Federated Union of Manhattan, declaring that if the Hebrew Trades would not agree to have its membership belonging to American Federation unions abide by the orders of the Federation, that the Federation and the United Hebrew Trades would be at the parting of the ways. Mr. Gompers was authorized to call conferences in the hope of smoothing out matters. A number of such conferences have been held without definite result. Mr. Gompers was ordered to report to the next meeting of the Executive Council, which is on Feb. 11. He said yesterday that if the United Hebrew Trades did not meet the Federation's terms he would so report on Feb. 11, and the committee would have to order the Federation unions to withdraw from the Hebrew Trades. Mr. Gompers, in a statement issued at the Hotel Continental, said:

"The Buffalo convention of the American Federation of Labor had before it a resolution directing that the officers of the international unions insist upon their local unions withdrawing from the United Hebrew Trades. But the convention, upon my urgent recommendation, deferred action upon the resolution in order that conferences might be had and an effort made to prevent an internecine fight among the workers themselves. The convention further directed that after the conferences which I was instructed to call, and which were held, it devolved upon me to make a report to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its next meeting. That meeting begins in Washington within two weeks, that is, Feb. 10, and it is necessary that I have a reply from the United Hebrew Trades so as to be enabled to make my report.

"If the United Hebrew Trades fails to approve the proposition and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall carry the resolution of the Buffalo convention into effect, no one can foretell the consequences to the workers. It will involve bitter, and perhaps relentless internal struggle, and, instead of doing all that we can and should do to unite the forces of labor, we may find ourselves in opposite camps, destroying our energy and our effectiveness to promote and protect the rights, the interests, and the welfare of the workers. In the United States, or in any part of it, we cannot afford, and we dare not encourage division and antagonism in the labor movement."

Better Wheat Outlook in France.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The condition of Winter wheat on Jan. 1, compared with that of a year ago, shows a gain of 8 per cent. If this is maintained to maturity, it means a remarkable increase in the yield per acre. The Journal Officiel gives the acreage of Winter wheat this year as 800,000 acreas greater than a year ago.

INCREASES RATES TO PACIFIC COAST

Commerce Board Finally Settles Intermountain Case, Granting Advance on Through Traffic.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—In deciding the intermountain rate case today, the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized transcontinental railroads to increase rates from Eastern points to Pacific seaport cities to the level of the rates now prevailing to intermountain points. The order becomes effective on March 15.

Simultaneously, the commission refused to allow railroads to cancel existing commodity rates on shipments of less than a carload and apply higher class rates.

The commission found that the former reason for maintaining lower through rates to Pacific ports from Eastern territory than to the mountain territory were removed when ships formerly in service between the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, by way of the Panama Canal, were removed for transatlantic service.

After analyzing the figures presented by the railroads, the commission decided that rates to the coast were abnormally low, considering service rendered and transportation expenses. For that reason the petition of commercial interests of Pacific points that the intermountain rates be lowered was refused.

The commission also denied the application of the Southern Pacific to maintain low rates on certain commodities by way of water and rail routes through Galveston, unless the same basis of rates is applied to all commodities adapted to water transportation.

In refusing the railroads' request for application of class rates to less than carload shipments, the commission specified that commodity rates on these shipments might be increased in the same proportion as is applied to carload shipments.

Water and rail lines through Galveston were authorized to establish commodity rates as high as present all-rail rates on barley, beans, canned goods, asphalt, dried fruits, and wine from California ports to the Atlantic seaboard.

The decision will mean many thousand dollars added revenue to the railroads and will remove a long-standing source of complaint by interior western cities.

NATHAN STRAUS HONORED.

Jews Hail Him on Seventieth Birthday as Zionist Leader.

Nathan Straus, celebrating his seventieth birthday yesterday, was the recipient of many tributes for his efforts in behalf of American Jewry. Hailed as the "grand old man" of the Zionistic movement, Jewish organizations showered him with congratulations and good wishes. In his honor, fifteen teams will start a special Nathan Straus birthday drive to raise $10,000 each in ten days for the Palestine Restoration Fund, of which Mr. Straus is Chairman. The $150,000 to be raised will be presented to the fund as a special birthday offering on behalf of Mr. Straus.

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman, in a tribute to Mr. Straus yesterday, said:

"In Nathan Straus, his brethren in faith and the community generally recognize one of the grand old men in Jewry. His great, warm heart, that beats sympathetically for all that are in sorrow and distress, his sincere participation in the national hopes and aspirations of his dispersed and persecuted brethren and his love for the Holy Land, did not need the proclamation of a great empire to be roused into activity. His reverence for the time-honored tenets and practices of the Jewish faith, and the keenness and soundness of his judgment on questions of public importance, all give him the stamp of the wise and loving patriarchs in Israel. He is loved and revered by countless multitudes for his innumerable deeds of charity and benevolence, so generously, graciously, and lovingly done."

The Central Committee for the Relief of Jews Suffering Through the War sent a letter to Mr. Straus, announcing that in honor of his birthday, a "Week of Mercy," from Jan. 27 to Feb. 3, had been inaugurated, in which funds will be solicited for the relief of Jewish war sufferers.

LUNCHEON FOR SERBIANS.

Royal Mission Is Entertained by U. N. Bethell.

The royal Serbian Mission was entertained yesterday at luncheon at the Bankers Club by U. N. Bethell, Senior Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. After the luncheon the party went to the Telephone and Telegraph Building at 195 Broadway for a transcontinental telephone demonstration over lines equipped with the invention of Professor Pupin, Serbian Consul General at New York, who was one of the party.

The head of the mission, Dr. Milenko Vesnitch, delivered an address to the Yougo Slav Committee in San Francisco over the long-distance telephone, and received in return a greeting from the committee, with the assurance that all the Southern Slavs of the Pacific Coast will work and fight alongside of Serbia for their common liberation and unification.

MERCHANTS DIVIDED ON GERMAN BOYCOTT

Foreign Trade Committee of Association Seeks Business Men's Guidance.

PLEDGE AID TO PRESIDENT

Only Point at Issue Is Whether Proposed Weapon Will Help Allies Win War.

Some difference of opinion developed among merchants who appeared yesterday before the Foreign Trade Committee of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building to discuss the advisability of an economic boycott against Germany after the war in case she persists in maintaining her military establishment. The hearing was called that New York business men might guide the association in its action on the proposal made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The committee went into executive session at the close of the hearing to consider what recommendation to make to the Executive Committee of the association which will determine whether or not New York's big body of business men will line up behind the proposal. The committee's conclusion was not made public.

A feature of the discussion, which was animated but amicable, was the attitude of President Wilson toward the project. Some speakers believed the President definitely on record against the measure, while others said they felt that the President had changed his mind, just as he had on the question of "peace without victory."

All the speakers displayed great eagerness on behalf of themselves and those they represented to aid the Governmnt in winning the war. The only point at issue was whether the suggested boycott would prove a means to that end. Lucius R. Eastman, Jr., Chairman of the committee, who presided, explained to those at the hearing that the proposal was before the association in the form of a referendum submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

F. J. Colby, who introduced himself as a person holding confidential relations with a foreign Government, spoke in favor of the boycott. He discussed the behavior of the Junker class in Germany and insisted that a great commercial victory had been won when the British fleet closed the ports of Germany. He urged that the fruits of that victory should not be thrown away, and declared that it remained for the United States to determine what use was to be made of the victory.

One of those who took the opposite side was Clement M. Biddle, representing the Biddle Purchasing Company, a domestic corporation, and Biddle Brothers Company, a foreign corporation. Mr. Biddle characterized the proposal as unwise, and asserted that the economic boycott proposed at the Paris Conference of 1916 was objected to by President Wilson and afterward repudiated by the Allies.

Maurice Mendelson said that President Wilson had changed his views since this country went to war and expressed the belief that the President wanted to have the referendum approved. J. F. Eastmond of Eastmond & Co. expressed the opinion that what President Wilson opposed was a vindictive and punitive boycott, which the suggestion under discussion did not contemplate.

H. B. Fernald of Loomis, Suffern & Fernald stated that the trouble with the proposal was that it assumed the continuance of the present Government in Germany after the war. He believed that in doing this business men would practically concede defeat, since the object of the war was to overthrow the German ruling class. Instead, he believed that the business men of the country should declare themselves strongly behind the Government to fight the war through to a finish.

William Foster of the Yonkers Chamber of Commerce explained that he was a "Four-Minute Man," and urged favorable action

JOS. VON BRUCK INTERNED.

Austrian Gets Three Months' Term for Ignoring Questionnaire.

Joseph von Bruck, a German who is an importer and exporter with offices at 30 Church Street and appears in the City Directory as manager of the Mannesmann Tube Works, was interned yesterday on Ellis Island by agents of the Department of Justice, acting on orders from Washington. Officials refused to discuss the case. It was learned, however, that von Bruck came to this country in December, 1913, and was engaged in a considerable trade with South American countries.

Arthur Urbanisch, an Austrian subject, was sentenced to three months in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas in the United States District Court for refusing to fill out his draft questionnaire. Agents of the Department of Justice testified, and Urbanisch denied, that he had torn up his questionnaire and said "To hell with the United States."

Detectives and officers of the Army Intelligence Service yesterday questioned Harry Schultz of 220 Madison Avenue, who had told the police in Jersey City that a German spy had offered him $10,000 to destroy one of the Red Cross headquarters buildings here. After he had failed in his efforts to tell a coherent story physicians began an examination of his mental condition.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—An enemy alien found working as a stevedore at the port's largest coal piers was taken into custody and interned at Gloucester, N. J., today. He described himself as Frank Boelinke, and gave a Philadelphia address. As a result of finding Boelinke employed in the restricted zone, Government agents issued a warning that employers who persist in engaging aliens to work in the barred district would be prosecuted.

The D. A. Bears A Message For All Thrifty Shoppers

At a time when everyone feels the need of more thoughtful buying and the elimination of needless expense, you can do no greater service for yourself than to place your savings where they will never be idle.

The Depositors' Account (D. A.) offers this unique service through its association with this store which for sixty years has bought and sold for cash merchandise of unquestioned merit.

This Shopping Convenience serves all men alike. It does not ask you to relate your experiences with charge accounts in other stores to a cross-examining credit man.

The D. A. places before you all the advantages of the pay-later charge systems of other stores without imposing upon you the expenses necessary to maintain the antiquated credit system. It does not increase the cost of merchandise in order to defray the salaries of credit men, collectors, correspondents and clerks, nor to make up the losses resulting from bad debts.

Interest at four per cent. on your daily balances will be paid while your money is on deposit—up to the very moment that you exchange it for merchandise—or withdraw it for other purposes.

The D. A. does not solicit a banking business—it does help you to shop efficiently and save money. You may withdraw your money in whole or part any time you choose.

Open a D. A. Now. The process is simple. First deposit any sum you desire. Then sign a signature card for our files. You will receive a card bearing a D. A. number to facilitate shopping.

You then shop as you have always done, giving your name and D. A. number to the sales person, and the amount will be deducted from your balance.

HYLAN PUTS NORRIS IN RIORDAN'S PLACE

APPOINTED FOR 3 MONTHS

Mayor Explains That He Never Meant to Give ex-Coroner the Permanent Place.

Mayor Hylan appointed Dr. Charles Norris, Director of Laboratories at Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, yesterday, to the post of Chief Medical Examiner. Dr. Norris stood second on the Civil Service list of three and was one of those whom the Municipal Civil Service Commission has been seeking to remove from the list on the ground that no formal consent had been obtained by medical colleges for the performance of the autopsies which were required in the medico-legal examination for the position. Mayor Hylan, in a statement issued later, announced that the inquiry of the Civil Service Commission would continue and the Civil Service list would be cancelled, if it was found that the law had been violated and that "an offense against public decency" had taken place.

The appointment of Dr. Norris is for a probationary period of three months, as required by law. At the end of that time, Mayor Hylan must remove Dr. Norris or give him a permanent appointment. The permanent appointment could not be made under the law at the present time. After his appointment Dr. Norris applied yesterday for a six months' leave of absence from his position as Director of Laboratories at Bellevue. Dr. Douglas Symmers, who stood third on the civil service list, will succeed Dr. Norris as Director of Laboratories.

In his statement yesterday Mayor Hylan said that he had never had any intention of making ex-Coroner Patrick D. Riordan the permanent Chief Medical Examiner of the city. Also Mayor Hylan made it plain that he did not mean that the appointment of Dr. Norris should be considered in the light of a repudiation of the course of his Civil Service Commission in endeavoring to find that Dr. Norris and the eleven candidates had been guilty of "a crime" or of "notorious or infamously disgraceful conduct" in taking the examination.

In spite of his support of the commission in this procedure, Mayor Hylan received Dr. Norris very warmly, told him that he was anxious above all things to have a high-class man for this post, and promised him a free hand in organizing the office. Mayor Hylan said in his statement:

"When I came into office upon the 1st of January I was confronted with the necessity of providing an immediate successor to the Board of Coroners, which went out of existence on Dec. 31 by legislative enactment. The public interest demanded that that office be filled immediately. As the clerical staff of the Civil Service Commission was not on duty on the 1st of January, it being a legal holiday, it was found impossible to obtain a certification of the names from the eligible list."

James E. MacBride, President of the Civil Service Commission, broke off relations yesterday with George T. Keyes, Secretary of the Civil Service Reform Association, who has been active in opposing the appointment of ex-Coroner Riordan as Chief Medical Examiner. Mr. MacBride accused Mr. Keyes of violating confidence in giving to William Travers Jerome a copy of the brief drawn up by the commission in an effort to have the position of Chief Medical Examiner declared exempt by the State Civil Service Commission.

Mr. MacBride had previously read this brief at a public hearing and had furnished copies of it to representatives of the newspapers for publication, but he insisted that Mr. Keyes had been guilty of highly culpable conduct in lending the brief to the lawyer who represented the three candidates for the post of Chief Medical Examiner. After accusing Mr. Keyes at a public session of the Civil Service Commission, Mr. MacBride wrote a letter to Everett P. Wheeler, President of the Civil Service Reform Association, saying that the commission would not deal with Mr. Keyes, and that the association would have to send another representative in the future.

MAYOR NAMES MacSTAY.

New Street Cleaning Commissioner Was Formerly a Deputy.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed Arnold B. MacStay Commissioner of the Street Cleaning Department. Mr. MacStay was Secretary of the department under Commissioner Fetherston, and after that was Deputy Commissioner, with headquarters at the Bronx. When Fetherston resigned on Dec. 31 last, MacStay was appointed Acting Commissioner by the Mayor, and has been at the head of the department since. The salary is $7,500 a year.

One reason for Mr. MacStay's appointment, it was explained, was the fact that pension checks to the amount of between $35,000 and $40,000 must be signed by the Street Cleaning Commissioner within a day or two. Under the law an Acting Commissioner cannot sign the checks. The new commissioner announced the appointment of Alfred L. Meehan of 60 West End Avenue, as Secretary of the department, taking the place of Joseph B. Buchanan, who resigned. The salary is $3,000.

The Mayor has appointed John G. O'Keeffe a Trustee of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals for another term of seven years. M. O'Keeffe is a retired Wall Street man. He has served ten years on the Bellevue Board.

HYLAN DISAPPROVES CLUBBING BY POLICE

Asks Commissioner Enright to Investigate Report of Beating in Saloon in Brooklyn.

Mayor Hylan announced yesterday that he did not approve of clubbing by the police and asked Commissioner Enright to investigate a report that several policemen had entered a saloon in Brooklyn and given a man a beating. In his letter Mayor Hylan raised another issue between himself and ex-Commissioner Bugher by asserting that Captain Bugher had declared that he would stand by the police in the use of their clubs.

Commissioner Enright had not received the letter, when he was asked about the incident yesterday. As to his attitude on clubbing in general, he said:

"I think that a policeman makes a very serious error when he clubs a man unnecessarily. When he uses his club in self-defense, he is within his rights."

District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, who is to have charge of the Grand Jury inquiry into the gambling which flourishes in the city, according to District Attorney Swann, called yesterday on Commissioner Enright. After a long interview with the Commissioner, Mr. Swann said:

"Commissioner Enright is co-operating in every way in our investigation of gambling. We have just arranged that the regular monthly reports of the Police Department, showing raids on gambling houses and indicating the existence of suspicious places, shall be turned over to us to aid in the John Doe inquiry."

"Every police precinct commander in Manhattan will be required to list all suspected gambling places and disorderly resorts and poolrooms within his district and to further co-operate in every possible way with the District Attorney's office in the investigation of vice conditions throughout the city and in the prosecution of such offenders."

Commissioner Enright directed Inspector "Dan" Costigan, who is in charge of the Vice Squad, to furnish all possible assistance to the District Attorney in the crusade against dice and card playing. The commissioner said that he would assign detectives to work under the immediate direction of the District Attorney, if Judge Swann asked for them.

BLOCKED THE MAYOR'S AUTO

Chauffeur Sent to the City Prison for Three Days.

Because he blocked the automobile in which Mayor Hylan was riding to the City Hall across Williamsburg Bridge yesterday morning Israel Stalove, a chauffeur of 198 Henry Street, Brooklyn, was sent to the city prison for three days by Magistrate House in the Traffic Court. The Mayor was riding to work in his own automobile, having given up the custom of using a B. R. T. car. Patrolman Fitzgerald of the Traffic Squad was on duty at the Manhattan end of the bridge when he saw Detective O'Hara, the Mayor's brother-in-law and personal attendant, jump from an automobile and halt the machine Stalove was operating.

Detective O'Hara told the patrolman that Stalove had blocked the Mayor's automobile all the way across the bridge, and that the Mayor was very much annoyed. Stalove could not show a license, and when arraigned before Magistrate House received an option of paying $5 or spending three days in jail. He chose the latter course.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS OBJECTORS TO WAR

DEDICATES SOLDIERS' CLUB

Enlisted Men Cheer Colonel When He Says Nation Won't Stop Fighting Until Victory Is Won.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP MERRITT, N. J., Jan. 30.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today dedicated Merritt Hall, established as the soldiers' club here by Mrs. Wesley Merritt, widow of the late General Merritt, Indian fighter and civil war veteran. The Colonel received an ovation when he spoke, first to 1,000 officers and their relatives in the club house, and later to 4,000 enlisted men in the Y. M. C. A. building.

"You have drawn the great prize of the generation," Colonel Roosevelt told the officers and men. "In the future you won't have to explain to your children or your children's children why you did not go to war. It will be more comfortable to explain why you did go to war."

Colonel Roosevelt made a plea for universal military service, and attacked the "conscientious objector to war" as one who ought not to be allowed to vote because he will not fight for the well-being of his country. He advised the testing of conscientious objectors by placing them on mine sweepers or by allowing them to dig frontline trenches.

"We did everything we could to keep out of war," the Colonel declared. "But now that the nation has gone in, it ought to go in as an honorable man goes into a fight. We don't want to hit if we can help it, but if we hit we don't want to hit soft; go in for business. If you hit a man only a little, he'll hit you. But when you hit him, put him to sleep."

The last sentiment was greeted with cheers by the enlisted men.

Addressing the women, Colonel Roosevelt said: "We have got to see this war through no matter how long it takes. We don't care what suffering and what sacrifices there are, this war has got to be put through until we bring Germany to her knees. The peace we want is not the one Germany wants. It is the peace we will choose to give Germany that will count. If there is an inconclusive peace this war will have to be fought again."

The training camps of the country were referred to as "the great universities of American citizenship" by the Colonel. He declared there is no room here for a "fifty-fifty citizenship."

A remark that the enlisted men greeted with applause was, "We have gone into this war and we won't stop until we have won the peace of overwhelming victory. This is the peoples' war, and we are in it fighting for the rights of others as well as for ourselves. When it's over it will be understood that it is not safe to monkey with Uncle Sam."

"I guarantee that you men, after a little experience, will put it over any Hun organization," was a declaration that evoked cheers and handclapping.

3 SEEK WOMAN'S ESTATE.

Two Claimants Assert They Married Mrs. Lena Kraft.

The death of Mrs. Lena Kraft at 626 East 137th Street, the Bronx, on Jan. 12 has resulted in three applications for letters of administration on her estate, two of the applicants claiming the relationship of husband. The third is a son, Charles Kraft, who also applies in behalf of four brothers and a sister. One of the alleged husbands is Jacob Kraft of 957 Faile Street, who says he is the father of Charles; but the latter in his petition states that his father's address is not known to him. The other claimant is Samuel Smulowitz, who lived at the house where Mrs. Kraft died. He says her estate amounts to $6,000, Kraft alleges that it is $11,000, and the son believes it to be $12,000.

Surrogate Schulz in Bronx County will take testimony in the case in two weeks and decide which of the claimants is entitled to administer the estate.

WILL OPERATE OPEN CARS.

Staten Island's Transit Facilities Swamped by Shipyard Workers.

The Public Service Commission gave permission yesterday to the Richmond Light and Railroad Company to operate open cars from St. George, S. I., to the shipbuilding plants on the north shore of the island, at the request of Captain C. S. Bookwalter, district officer of the United States Shipping Board, who explained that the railroad company had all its other equipment in use and that it was necessary to find some means for carrying workers to the shipbuilding plants. About 12,000 men are working in the various plants. In the early Spring there will be a great many more and various schemes have been suggested to get the workers to and from their employment.

DRAFT MARRIAGE RULING REVERSED

Secretary Baker Gives More Liberal Interpretation to Exemption Law.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, in a letter which was presented yesterday to the District Board which has been passing on claims for exemption from the draft in New York City, reversed the procedure of that board with regard to marriages contracted since May 18 last, the date of the passage of the selective service law. The District Board has been going on the assumption that in cases of alleged "slacker marriages" it has been the business of the applicant for exemption to prove that his marriage was not entered into in order to give him dependents and thus to bring about his exemption. The new ruling, while authorizing exemption boards to disregard clearly established slacker marriages, says that "a marriage that carries with it no equivocal circumstances other than its date is not to be disregarded" as ground for exemption. In other words, it is now necessary for the board to establish proof that marriage was entered into for the purpose of escaping military service.

In his letter Mr. Baker said that the procedure hitherto followed by the local District Board seemed to him "more harsh than is consistent with the purpose and intent of the law." "The effect of the selective service law," he said, "was not to suspend the institution of marriage among registrants."

No opinion was ventured by members of the board as to how many more claims for exemption might thus be validated. Its immediate effect, however, was to bring about a motion by Lewis L. Delafield that the 300 cases of men married since May 18 which have hitherto been passed on by the District Board should be reconsidered on the basis of the new ruling.

Mr. Delafield's motion was opposed by George W. Wickersham and Louis Marshall, who maintained that the new order was not retroactive. Charles E. Hughes, Chairman of the board, favored it, but eventually the vote resulted in a tie—9 to 9. There was talk of taking it up later in the day, with a fuller membership present, but this was not done. The opinion was expressed, however, that such reconsideration probably would be decided on later.

To the "slacker husband" has now been added the "slacker farmer," a term which was used by Judge Samuel J. Ordway in reporting on the case of a man who last June bought a farm in an Upstate county and now claims deferred classification on agricultural grounds. He was put in Class 1-A, as was the agricultural editor of a magazine who made a similar claim.

Refuses to Prob. te Dewsnap Will.

Surrogate Cohalan yesterday refused to probate the will of George Gibbs Dewsnap, who died June 21 last and left the principal of his estate to St. Luke's Hospital to establish a fund in memory of his mother. The decedent's brother and two sisters contested the will on the ground that he had been in an asylum and had stated that he did not care what became of his money so long as his brother and sisters got no part of it. The value of the estate was not disclosed.

Safeguarding the Public's Health

FOUR thousand workers are employed and three hundred and eighty-three yards maintained by the Pullman Company throughout the country for the cleaning of cars.

At the end of every trip all seats and cushions are unlimbered, and every cranny is vacuum cleaned. Mattresses, blankets and pillows are hung in the open air and sunlight.

Water coolers are sterilized with steam; the washrooms are cleansed with disinfectant.

At frequent intervals carpets are removed and renovated and the monolithic floor thoroughly scrubbed; the walls and ceilings are washed with soap and water. The polished steel interior of a Pullman is easily kept clean, and cannot shelter germs. Thorough fumigation is given every car regularly.

The laundering of bed linen and blankets is done according to the most exacting standards; the smallest permanent stain or scorching causes them to be discarded. Mattresses, pillows and all upholstery are frequently emptied and renovated.

There is probably no public place where health and cleanliness are more vigilantly guarded than in the Pullman car.

Few people have escaped the young oman of exuberant vitality, tinged ith neurosis, whose interminable reese of spirits weighs down her parnts and husband, wears away her best oung men, and in one short week-end uts an entire house party on the blink. nd all who have known her know hat in her very whirlwind of Saint itus she may still be interesting, even harming. She is an admirable theme or comedy, quite fresh to the stage.

For an act and a half last night it emed that the Hattons were about o give her an interesting and highly ughable development. The fun was f a very obvious and common sort, ut the bulk of the audience laughed eartily, as always, and now and again here was a passage of real wit, of ery fresh and telling humor. But in e latter half of the play all semlance of life was lost in crass and ninspired exaggeration. In addition to er parents, her husband and two lovs, this india-rubber wife brought a rofessional athlete and trainer to the rink of hysteria and to a cave man assion for her. Meanwhile, fun that ad been merely obvious and innocently ommon heightened to the vulgarity of rude flirtation, cozy-corner cuddling, nd "poor-man's smoking" that ended in prolonged osculation.

In all this there were passages of hat purported to be sincere feeling and ender love. The sentimental climax of all was a baby in swaddling clothes, ugged on toward the final curtain, at he mere sight of which the indestructibility of the wife was destroyed. he play ended in a burst of maternal onging that reconciled husband and ife and gave promise of reducing her eurosis. That dampened the spirits of ven those who had been most easily leased.

It was first intended that Grace eorge should play this wife; but even er energy gave way under the strain, nd a new actress was called in. Minna ombel is blonde and pretty, and in aking over her arduous task has acuired many of Miss George's fine tricks f manner and speech. But after the first ew scenes it was beyond any art to ive such a whirlwind of scattering itality, such a monster of horseplay nd sentiment, any semblance of interst or humor.

As her husband, Lionel Atwill strugled with the problem of how to gain ympathy as a conjugal lover while rostrate and gasping for breath. Howrd Kyle as the butler and Frederick smelton as the father did small parts ell. The one real joy of the evening as Mrs. Jacques Martin, who played he mother. That was a comprehensible haracter, and it was acted with conummate finesse and inerrant humor.

FOREIGNERS' WIVES LOSE.

uling Excludes American Women from Citizenship.

"An American woman married to a oreigner cannot regain her citizenship o long as the marital relation legally xists," was the statement made at the oard of Elections yesterday by S. Howrd Cohen, Chief Clerk of the board, who wrote Attorney General Merton E. ewis for a ruling in the matter.

Mr. Cohen asked: "Can an American oman, married to an unnaturalized oreigner residing in the State of New ork, obtain her own naturalization, alhough her husband does not choose to e naturalized?" Second, "Can the aid woman cast her vote on the trength of her American birth without eing naturalized, although married to he said unnaturalized foreigner?"

Attorney General Lewis, in reply, reerred to Chapter 2,534, Section 3, of he United States statutes, enacted arch 2, 1907, which provides that an merican woman who marries a forigner shall take the nationality of her usband. He further stated: "Expaiation may be a heavy penalty imosed for the privilege of contracting arriage with a foreigner, but when iewed from the standpoint of our naional welfare it becomes the dictate of ecessity. Inasmuch as citizenship is a equisite qualification for the exercise of uffrage, a woman married to a forigner cannot vote until her husband as been naturalized, or she is restored o citizenship upon the legal termination f the marital relations, as provided in hapter 2,534, Section 3, of the United tates statutes."

LAWS IMPEDE PAY CONCERT.

Countess de Castelvecchio's Benefit Becomes a Free Entertainment.

New laws requiring the bonding and licensing of people giving entertainments for charities and philanthropies and the licensing of the places where they are to be held are making matters difficult for those who do not yet understand them. The law has turned into a concert reception, an invitation and not pay affair, an entertainment to be given tonight by courtesy of the Hotel Ansonia under the auspices of the Countess de Castelvecchio and which was to have been a pay concert for the benefit of the Woman's Hotel of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs.

The program had been arranged and tickets were being sold when the Countess de Castelvecchio found she would be obliged to have a license. The license obtained, she found she would have to be bonded. Delighted to comply with the law, only troubled by the extra time required, she was bonded and then discovered that it would not be possible to have a pay entertainment unless the hotel was licensed. A license for a building of that kind is $500 a year, too much for the few concerts the hotel might give, so as a pay affair the entertainment was abandoned.

The program as originally planned will be given tonight at the hotel, but free to the invited guests. There will be music, vocal and instrumental, a "Few Minutes with Mme. Pilar Morin," Rita will dance, the Countess de Castelvecchio will give "Vive la France" and "La Marseillaise," and Richard A. Purdy "Uncle Sam" and "Star Spangled Banner."

The Woman's Hotel will have its benefit later in another place and tickets sold for this occasion will be good for that.

BRADY OUT AS WORLD HEAD

Says Film Conditions Do Not Warrant Paying Him $100,000 Yearly.

William A. Brady announced yesterday that he had resigned as Director General of the World Film Corporation, basing his action on the fact that the condition of the motion picture business at present renders it impractical for the company to pay him annually the $100,000 called for by his contract. Mr. Brady will continue as a member of the World Board of Directors.

In his statement Mr. Brady desribed conditions in the films today as "little less than chaotic," and laid much of the ersponsibility at the feet of highly-paid stars and executives. The huge salaries paid these people, he declared, not only placed a great burden on the producers, bu talso had imbued legislators with the idea that the business was extremely profitable, and were thus indirectly responsible for the present system of taxes.

In commenting upon his statement later, Mr. Brady also found fault with the business methods of the movies, particularly the system of distribution. Each producing company, he declared, now maintains its own string of twenty to twenty-four selling offices, instead of selling through a single office. The amount lost in this way Mr. Brady estimated at $3,500,000 annually.

Mr. Brady will continue in pictures as an independent producer.

Chicago Opera Bills Next Week.

The Chicago Opera Company's third week at the Lexington will, like the present week, contain only one opera previously given in the series. That will be "Aida," on Saturday night, Feb. 9. Mascagni's "Isabeau" will be produced Thursday of next week, "Carmen" with Garden and Muratore on Friday, and at the Saturday matinee "Rigoletto," with Galli-Curci. The early part of the week, as already printed, will include a Monday matinee, "Louise"; that evening "Faust," with Melba, and next Wednesday Galli-Curci in "The Barber of Seville."

Chicago Company Sings "Manon."

Massenet's "Manon" was added to the Chicago Opera Company's productions at the Lexington last night, the seventh different opera in as many days. Muratore, the tenor, had a noisy reception in the Seminary scene, which he met by singing far too strenuously, but he acted well. Mme. Vix, for whom an apology was made before the gambling episode, was nearly voiceless, though never long out of the picture. Huberdeau, Maguenat, Berat, Margery Maxwell, Marie Pruzan, Dua, and Defrere were in the cast, and Charlier conducted.

Margaret Jamieson in Piano Recital.

Margaret Jamieson, pianist, displayed crisp touch as a Mozart player in that composer's variations on an allegretto theme, as well as good schooling in Beethoven's sonata of absence and return, on her recital program yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. A young artist of sympathetic quality, she chose other numbers yesterday of a showy sort, Moszkowski's "Etincelles," Stojowski's "Vers l'Azur," and "Theme Varie," Paderewski.

Mme. Farrar Again in "Carmen."

Bizet's "Carmen" for the fourth time supplied a French opera night at the Metropolitan last evening, Mme. Farrar making in the gypsy rôle her only appearance of the present week, in company with Martinelli, May Peterson, Whitehill, and others of the usual cast, led by Monteux. There was a large audience. Mme. Farrar has notified the management that she will not sing again in "Lodoletta" on Friday, her place being taken by Florence Easton.

Jascha Heifetz Plays Again.

Jascha Heifetz, the Russian violinist, gave a fourth recital in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon to the usual crowded house. He played in his now familiar style, which is one of complete technical mastery, Corelli's "LaFolia," Paganini's concerto in D, a Bach andante and allegro for violin alone, Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," arranged by Achron; Besekirsky's version of Tschaikowsky's "Valse Scherzo," and Wieniawski's fantasie on airs from "Faust."

Damrosch Celebrates 56th Birthday.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Woman on the Index," a play by George Broadhurst founded on a story by Mrs. Lillian Trimble Bradley, will go into rehearsal today. Among those in the cast are Julia Dean, Amy Ricard, Alison Skipworth, Camilla Dallberg, Dagmar Godowsky, Lester Lonergan, George Probert, Frederic Burt, Frank Westerton, and Roy Fairchild.

Cyril Keightley has been added to the cast of "The Off Chance," in which Ethel Barrymore is soon to be seen.

Frederic and Fanny Hatton's comedy, "The Squab Farm," has been accepted for production by the Shuberts. Lowell Sherman and Alma Tell will be seen in the principal roles.

The special matinee of "Josephine," which was to have been given at the Knickerbocker Theatre tomorrow, has been abandoned.

Howard Kyle will appear as Jacques in Edith Wynne Matthison's forthcoming production of "As You Like It," to be seen at the Cort Theatre soon for several week-end matinees.

WANT RATE CONTROL KEPT IN COMMISSION

Senate Committee Votes, 7 to 6, Against Delegating the Power to McAdoo.

HOUSE FEELING CHANGING

Sentiment in Committee More Favorable to Limiting Sharply Federal Retention of the Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—In further consideration of the McAdoo bill for Government control of the railroads, the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, on top of its action of yesterday in voting for limitation of control to one year after the war, today, by a vote of 7 to 6, expressed its sentiment in favor of keeping the power of rate-fixing during the war in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Under the McAdoo bill, the power to fix rates would be lodged with the Director of Railroads.

The vote of the committee, it was explained by Senator Smith of South Carolina, the Chairman, was to be taken only as an indication of the feeling of the thirteen Senators voting. Later the committee will express definite action in a vote on an amendment to the McAdoo bill.

In today's vote the alignment was nonpartisan. Of the seven Senators voting in favor of keeping the rate-fixing authority with the Interstate Commerce Commission there were three Democrats, Pomerene, Gore, and Underwood, and four Republicans, Cummins, Townsend, McLean, and Kellogg. Those against were Smith, Myers, Robinson, Thompson, and James, Democrats, and Poindexter, Republican.

Under the scheme advocated by Secretary McAdoo, the Director of Railroads would supersede in rate-fixing authority not only the Interstate Commerce Commission but also the various State commissions. Under the plan favored by the majority of the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate, this power would remain where it is, with authority in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission in traffic between States and with the State commissions in intra-State commerce.

The Senators opposing the McAdoo plan argue that rate-fixing ought not to be attempted by the Director of Railroads, but, because of the immensity of the undertaking, should be kept in the hands of an authority with vast machinery for adequate adjustment. Those favoring the McAdoo scheme argue that, with power to deflect shipments of freight, the Director of Railroads ought to have power to quickly adjust rate schedules.

"Unless the Director of Railroads is given authority to adjust rate schedules," said one of the supporters of the McAdoo plan in the Senate Committee, "chaos is likely to prevail in the matter of shipments ordered by him. The Director would have authority, under the proposed law, to deflect freight. Shippers manifestly would be at the mercy of the Director of Railroads in the consignment of their goods, and, unless the Director had power of adjustment to meet extreme cases, huge rates might be piled up.

"If a shipper, for instance, wanted to send goods to Wilmington, Del., from a Western point, and the shipment had to travel by a roundabout route, the rate charged, if the prevailing system were operative, would be away in excess of a straight-run rate. The Director ought to have power to act in such a contingency."

Those who advocate keeping the authority in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the State Commissions, say that provision could be made for any emergency that might arise. Shippers could always have recourse to the Interstate Commerce Commission in the event of unfair rates, they argue.

Members of the Senate committee who voted for the amendment limiting control of the railroads to one year after the war ends insist that this provision is corelated to the proposal to keep rate-fixing authority in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission. They argue that the railroad situation will become a difficult problem to readjust after the war and that, if the roads return to the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that body ought to have some direct relation with them during war time.

THE ONLY ROAD TO PEACE.

Peace with Germany is a far-off dream, and peace with victory over Germany will never come if we do not with increased energy and firmer resolve continue our preparations for war. To hug "the delusive phantom of hope" is not merely a vain thing, it is a perilous thing. The tide of peace talk which flows through all the channels of public information has its origin in mere conjecture. The workingmen of Berlin and Vienna may strike, but Imperial Germany is defiant. Von HERTLING is unrelenting, Germany's war dogs, HINDENBURG and von TIRPITZ, bay as fiercely as ever and Count CZERNIN's words only betray Austria's weariness, of which we have long been aware. If we abate our measures of preparation, the Imperial war party will cajole, persuade, or coerce the suffering masses of Germany and Austria; any relaxation here will encourage them to hold out and fight on.

The blind hope of peace tends inevitably to slacken preparation. Men in charge of camps and cantonments, of supply purchases, of the ordering of guns and munitions will be cramped and restrained by the fear that they may be reproached for reckless prodigality. If the war is to end within a few months, why commit the Government to this vast expenditure? This is no time for such talk or for such thought. Restraint upon our war preparations will be fatal. Prodigality in expenditure, large ideas and the utmost speed in preparation are the only possible assurance of peace.

Yet we are told from Washington on War Department authority that > no program had been determined upon that would enable the United States to undertake the training of more men than could be accommodated in the present camps and cantonments, if the Interallied War Council should decide that it was necessary for this Government to send a much larger number of men than are provided for by law. It is apparently the department's policy not to build more camps and cantonments, but to defer the training of additional soldiers until the present camps and cantonments are vacated through the sending of troops to France.

It is not strange that military experts think "this is a policy that lacks vision." Our troops are being rapidly transported to France. It is reassuring to be told that so many large transports, many of them formerly German steamships, have recently arrived safely in allied ports. But the men now receiving instructions cannot move out rapidly enough to make room for the great new army that we ought already to be recruiting. Our experience tells us that it takes from six months to a year to train soldiers. If all those now occupying camps and cantonments should be sent abroad by early Autumn, it would be many months before we should be in a position to respond to a call from the Interallied War Council for more men.

The American people were astonished when Secretary BAKER told them the other day that "we shall have more than 500,000 men in France early in 1918." That was felt to be a great achievement, far exceeding public expectation. Yet the military writer of THE TIMES said in our issue of Dec. 9: "The indications are that Summer will not find more than 500,000 American troops in Europe, so that at best Germany's numbers will be hardly more than equaled." The Secretary's assurance of 500,000 men, accepted by the public as evidence of intensive preparation outrunning hope, was considered by that writer to be a minimum. The additional 1,000,000 men promised by the Secretary during the year 1918 will occupy for months the accommodations without which the next 1,000,000 men cannot be trained in the military art. The preparation for training that new million should by this time have been far advanced. It is false economy, it is a dangerous delay, to trust wholly to the evacuation of the present camps and cantonments. New camp sites should have been chosen, an abundance of new buildings erected, to the end that there be no check on our marshaling soldiers against the enemy.

"If transportation facilities are available to us—and the prospect is not unpromising—we will have 1,500,000 men who, in 1918, can be shipped to France," said Secretary BAKER in his statement before the Senate Committee. So it is a conditional assurance, a mere hypothesis, that in addition to the 500,000 troops in France promised "early in 1918," 1,000,000 more will be sent over this year. If there is to be lack of shipping, the camps and cantonments will be occupied by the men now in training long after their instruction has been completed, and we shall have no accommodations whatever for the new 1,000,000. But the deficiency in shipping will not continue. We have appropriated $1,000,000,000 for new ships, and are going to spend another $1,000,000,000. Unless there has been woeful inefficiency somewhere, there should be a great supply of new tonnage during the present year. The situation then will be that after the trained 1,000,000 men have been sent to France, six months or a year will have elapsed before another 1,000,000 follow them.

If this "lack of vision" is to be attributed to the peace delusion, it is doubly blameworthy. The enemy is encouraged at the same time that we make ourselves less capable of fighting him. We wish that the Secretary of War had declared, not that the 1,000,000 men in addition to the 500,000 now on the other side of the Atlantic "can be shipped to France," but "will be shipped to France." The German military chiefs are not talking about what they can do, or may do, or will consider doing if peace does not come. They have transferred great armies from the eastern to the western front. They are strengthening themselves in every possible way to continue the war, to fight it through until American delusion or British labor or socialism in France and Italy shall come to their support. Delusions about peace do directly contribute to the determination and the strength of Germany. It is not merely a question of preparing for war in time of peace. The condition that confronts us is that of preparing for a war that is actually upon us and preparing with all our might.

BAD ADVICE.

Colonel REPINGTON, the military critic, unmuzzled and unafraid, runs amuck when he calls for conscription in Ireland, a most delicate and embarrassing question. It is conceivable that, if concord comes out of the Irish convention in the form of the settlement for which Mr. LLOYD GEORGE is laboring with some hope, the Government will get plenty of volunteers from Ireland. Colonel REPINGTON might call it an iridescent dream, but Ireland and the Irish at least should have the benefit of the doubt. The Colonel, however, will not wait:

> The application of compulsory military service to Ireland would add a quarter of a million magnificent fighting men to the armies of freedom. The Irishmen of America are marching; why can't the Irishmen of the Old Country march by their side?

There are differences of opinion about the result of conscription for Ireland. It might prove to be a spark in the powder magazine. A condition confronts the British Government, and it must deal with that condition soberly and with circumspection. If Berlin could be consulted, it would advise Irish conscription at once, by all means. Can there be a doubt that German propaganda is active under the surface in Ireland? It may not be a valiant view, and it may not be just to conscripted Great Britain, that expediency requires that if the Irish will not volunteer they need not fight. Conscription at the risk of having to coerce Ireland by troops needed in Flanders is a policy that the Government naturally shrinks from.

If Colonel REPINGTON could have his way, it would be doubly necessary to "comb out" farms and factories. The empire must have more men at the front, not because, to quote the Colonel, "Britain has not pulled her weight," (her mobilization of 5,000,000 men should be a sufficient answer to that,) but because Russia has dropped out of the war and German reinforcements are speeding to the battle line in France. Pending, however, good or bad news from Ireland, it would be the part of wisdom not to bring up the question of conscription there.

THE STEEL CORPORATION'S YEAR.

If only all "trusts" were like the Steel Corporation there would be no trust question, and hardly any question of relations between labor and capital. Each successive annual report challenges admiration for the blending of public and private services in a manner to disarm all but the malicious. Its balance sheet now shows assets and liabilities over two billions. Its gross earnings for 1917 are estimated at about double those for 1915. The gross earnings are the measure of service to the public, and under present conditions they are inestimable. There could be no substitute for the deliveries of materials of other industries which could not be procured elsewhere or otherwise now, if the Corporation were not in existence, ready and eager to serve without first thought either of profit or costs. The net earnings reflect the private profit from the public service, and it is only in this item that there is decline. While the gross shows much the largest maximum, the surplus for dividends shows a decrease larger than the surplus for so recent a year as 1914, or from $271,531,730 to $225,480,147. In 1914, practically a pre-war year, the preferred dividend was not earned, still less the common dividend. In 1913 the deficit from dividends was no less than $16,978,528 in the last quarter, but it was balanced by profits in earlier quarters.

These contrasts are memorable in two ways—they mark the failure of the original aim of the organizers to stabilize the industry and they disclose the greatest fluctuations in any private undertaking. It is not allowable to say that anybody could manage the deficits if they had the profits. The poise of control which pumped solidity into the watered stock, instead of squandering earnings in dividends, is the rock on which is founded the present ability to divide liberally, and without justification for criticism on the basis of war profits.

Here there is a multiple defense. There can be no complaint that the profits are exorbitant, for the prices are regulated by agreement, and are regulated better than in other industries by edict. There can be no complaint that the wages are inadequate, for there never were such wages paid in the industry. There is even complaint that they are too high, because they entice labor away from other industries. If there is complaint on any other ground, it would be silenced by the fact that the profits kept for the corporation are less than the taxes paid to the Government for war purposes. Who can complain fairly of 17 per cent. dividends when the Government receives $235,000,000 taxes, or almost half of the value of the stock owned by the public? The War Department would be crippled by lack of war goods and services worse than the Treasury for lack of revenue if the Department of Justice should succeed in dissolving the "trust" as contrary to public interest.

The point is worth making, for there are now seven distinguished defendants of judicially established good character on trial for their existence. Their services are as necessary in their branches of industry as those of the Steel Corporation, and for the same reasons. The army cannot be clad or shod if the woolen and shoe trusts should be dissolved. The next harvest will be prejudiced if the harvester trust is dissolved. And so the list might be run through. The prosperity as well as the existence of such combinations in promotion of trade is necessary for the supply of their goods and services, and for the support of the Treasury. It is hard to say why the Attorney General should harden his heart, and justify himself by complaints that courts and juries disagree with him. It is hard to say why the Supreme Court should not make its position so clear that the lawmakers as well as the prosecutors should be disarmed. The President could control the Attorney General, but not even the rule of reason can control the lawmakers at Washington who support repeal of the Sherman law, and those among the State Legislatures, including our own, who urge them to take that action. What could be clearer than that the repeal of the rule of reason would be to substitute the rule of unreason? As it stands construed by highest authority, after a generation's wrangling, the Sherman law is merely the enactment of the common law, known to all merchants better than to lawyers or lawmakers or Judges. It is possible to enact the common law, but nearly impossible to repeal it.

IN THE LIGHT OF EXPERIENCE.

It is a warrantable presumption that if the War Department had heeded an appeal for military guards at the shipbuilding plants in the vicinity of New York which the Merchants' Association made on Dec. 22 there would have been no million-dollar conflagration at Port Newark a month later. The application was addressed to Secretary BAKER, to Secretary DANIELS, and to the United States Shipping Board. The Navy Department and the Shipping Board pleaded inability to furnish the protection asked for. Obviously, the War Department, with a million men under arms, was not impotent. It was simply a question of assent or agreement, if the necessity pointed out were admitted. As to the necessity, the Merchants' Association said in its application that "the shipbuilding and repairing yards at the present time are inadequately guarded," and that "proper protection cannot be afforded by private guards," since "the manager of a shipyard is very reluctant to give orders to private guards to shoot trespassers, yet this is necessary."

Almost a month passed before a reply was received. It came from Brig. Gen. J. M. CARTER, Chief of the Militia Bureau, who wrote that the matter had been referred to "the Commanding General, Eastern Department," (at Governors Island,) and that, in view of his report, it was "not deemed advisable to furnish Federal Guards at this time." According to the Commanding General's report, a careful investigation had been made by an "intelligent officer." "As a result," wrote the Commanding General, (or somebody else,) "the following is submitted":

> This request for guards of United States troops is believed to have been instigated by some of the newer companies, who have not provided adequate protection themselves. The older companies have proper guards of their own, good lighting at night, and patrols that keep in touch with watchmen at fixed stations.

This was merely preliminary. The Commanding General had more to submit. First, he realized that a fire or an explosion might occur in a dry dock where a ship was building, and that "the result of such an occurrence might destroy the usefulness of such vessel to the extent of making her unseaworthy"; secondly, "the joiner shop, machinery building, &c., are in many cases firetraps and a conflagration might not only destroy the buildings but, in the case of a high wind, the fire might spread to the dry docks themselves." Having reasoned the risk out in this way, the Commanding General was firmly of the opinion that "to guard against these dangers is not a soldier's work."

The familiar red tape is conspicuous in this transaction: Secretary BAKER to (probably) the Adjutant General, the Adjutant General to Brig. Gen. CARTER, (perhaps the line of least resistance,) General CARTER to the Commanding General, Eastern Department, the General to "an intelligent officer," and back again up the ladder to the head of the War Department—thus the appeal of the Merchants' Association speeded on its way, only to go down before the official dictum: "To guard against these dangers is not a soldier's work." Nevertheless, the Merchants' Association persists. Since the Port Newark disaster it has telegraphed to Secretary BAKER, reminding him of "the recent disastrous incendiary fire" and urging "reconsideration of the conclusion reached by General CARTER." It is Mr. BAKER's turn.

"THE WOMAN VOTER."

THE TIMES has received so many letters inquiring whether the series of articles on "The Woman Voter" is to be republished in book form that it takes this means of answering. It is. It will be published in book form not only for the benefit of the new voter, but for that of the old voter; for the information the series contains is of as much value to men as to women, since many voters have only a general idea of the workings of politics and government.

This series is not a handbook, but a compend of fundamental information about many phases of political activity, for the guidance of those who only see it from the outside. The letters we have received from men show that they, no less than women, have found it useful and helpful. Its primary purpose is to show, not in detail but in broad lines, how one may be effective in public affairs and how the machinery is worked behind the scenes.

NEUTRALS IN THE BLOCKADE.

Our Government's new trade agreement with Sweden, parts of which have been signed at London, completes the list of such compacts with the northern European neutrals. It follows acceptance of the War Trade Board's terms by Switzerland, Denmark, Finland, Holland, and Norway. Some of the Swedish ships lying at our ports will unload their cargoes and then, under charter to our Government, go into the trade with South America. A few will be permitted to carry supplies to Sweden. A final decision as to the quantity and character of these has not been reached, and the terms soon to be accepted are not published. Undoubtedly they forbid the sale of food or metals to our enemies. Until a few months ago Germany was importing from Sweden large quantities of high-grade iron to be used in her munition factories.

All the northern neutral countries from which Germany in 1916 received food enough to support her entire army on the west front are now assenting to the blockade designed to deprive her of imported food, metals, and other essential products. They have not consented to withhold all food, for Norway is permitted to send fish, and it is understood that small exports from Holland and Denmark are allowed, on account of existing treaties or agreements; but very little can go to Germany, for the reason that the neutrals have not enough for themselves. Their crops last year, like Germany's, were far below average. They came to us for help, and it will be given, upon accepted conditions that withhold any appreciable relief for the food shortage in Germany and Austria that now causes strikes, riots, and demands for peace.

The neutrals have yielded and accepted the terms proposed, not only on account of their needs, but also because they clearly foresee Germany's defeat. Their action has been taken in defiance of Germany's threats. They realize that they can gain nothing in the future by assisting the doomed Central Powers. No longer fearing punishment, they not only promise to hold back the supplies, but even give their ships to Germany's foes for war trade service.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Appreciated Only When Lost. So small is the cost of newspapers—to their readers—and so easy has it long been to get them from any one of half a dozen purveyors, that it took something like the strike or revolt of the established distributers which has been going on here for several days to make the New York public realize the value and importance of what it has been getting for its pennies.

That to be without a newspaper is a serious deprivation, and is felt to be so, has been shown by the amount of trouble which almost innumerable people have hastily, willingly, though a little resentfully, taken as soon as their accustomed sources of supply were for the moment closed. They had a sensation of being shut off from the world when they did not know what and all that was going on in it, and at once they took whatever measures were necessary to regain their wonted connection with the happenings of the day.

Some of them walked long distances to find one of the so-called independent dealers, others sent servants or subordinates to do the finding, and in not a few instances automobiles were diverted from other services to the performance of this one. Expense as well as inconvenience was often involved, but—well, one simply couldn't be without the news, and one didn't care to wait long for it.

Once a large majority of the country's inhabitants thought they could get along all right with only a weekly or a semi-weekly paper, and not a few survived without any. Today, for most people, in the larger cities at least, one daily paper is a short allowance and none at all is an unendurable calamity. Which reveals how needs grow with their satisfaction, and how things that start with being luxuries turn in time to necessaries.

One Crop Going to Waste. Among the few favors, and perhaps the only one granted to us this Winter by the weather man, was the production of so-called natural ice—as if there could be artificial ice!—in unusual quantities and of exceptional quality. Yet there is more than a possibility—there is something like a probability, according to the men who ought to know—that to the other scarcities from which we are suffering there will be added, when Summer comes, a scarcity of ice, emphasized by the high prices for which scarcity is always the most plausible and least easily answerable of excuses.

There is no denial, of course, that, all over most of the country, lakes, ponds, and rivers are now covered with the thickest and best ice that has invited harvesting for years and years past. We are told, however, that so firmly established has become the habit of depending largely on ice mechanically produced in the Summer as needed, and near the markets, that a good many of the old storehouses for "natural" ice have disappeared or are no longer available, and that there is hesitation about providing new ones while it is not definitely known whether or not the makers of "artificial" ice will be allowed to use the usual amount of ammonia in their business next Summer.

This is a curious situation, and one not adequately characterized by calling it absurd. The lacking information could and should be given at once and in most definite form. Ice in Summer is essential to the proper conduct of modern life; in great cities it is little less than the alternative to starvation. Yet the decision of the ammonia question is delayed! Common sense demands that it be made at once, before the thaws already beginning have destroyed the outdoor crop, and that the decision should be in favor of the ice harvesters and against the ice manufacturers.

Ammonia has so many and such important uses other than that of making ice that, in the existing circumstances, to employ it in that way is the wickedest sort of waste.

ART NOTES.

Recent Paintings by Leon Kroll and Ernest Lawson.

Leon Kroll is showing a group of recent paintings at the Knoedler Galleries until Feb. 9. Mr. Kroll, had he been painting in 1855, would have been an innovator, one of the new school keen for a "living art," of which the leader was Gustave Courbet. Many of our clever young painters belong to the race of Courbet in art, getting plastic form without round modeling, painting with a bold, swift brush, a somewhat boisterous energy, seeing life without romance or sentimentality. Mr. Kroll's "Nude" has much in common with the "Femme à la Vague." The brusqueness of handling has gone much further, however, than the "Maitre d'Ornans" carried it, even in his later painting. The passages of color harmonize without the help of a superimposed tone, and the strongest contrasts are bravely and for the most part successfully used. The strong patches of rich color produce a homogeneous effect now, and later, after time has pulled a skin over the surface of the pigment, the isolation of the various colors will be even less apparent. This, of course, means that Mr. Kroll is a good painter, that he has used his brain, as well as his eyes and hands, to produce his pictures, that the science of his art is not without interest to him.

But he sometimes carries too far the excellent notion that what he puts into his picture is important only as it helps the artistic effect. In his "Apple Trees in Blossom," for example, he has a well-worn subject and handles it with originality and force. The great tree in the foreground is a muscular giant among the apple trees of art. It grows out of the ground with a strength of movement that promises health and long life to it. The broad sweep of its blossom-laden branches describes a noble curve. There is no hint in the picture of the languor and dream of Springtime. It conveys instead a sense of energy and opulence, of the bud that holds rich fruit in its heart. All this is inspiriting and good, and perhaps it is meticulous to peer into the background with dismay at the horde of mammoth chickens descending like a buffalo herd on the farm woman giving them their feed. The roosters with their bold combs are gallant fowl and make handsome white spots in the composition, but an old-fashioned regard for scale asks them to be rooster size.

The still-life subjects are the best in the group. The brushing has vigor and the color is rich and coherent.

Ernest Lawson's Paintings.

At the Daniel Gallery are a dozen or more paintings by Ernest Lawson, the subjects drawn from Westchester County and Spain. Each type of landscape inspires Mr. Lawson to an intense expression of his own romantic personality. He is not deeply affected by the accidental superficial variations of scene. Water runs as swiftly for him under a Toledo bridge as in a Westchester valley, the gold of our cornfields is no less bright for him than the sun on Spanish roofs. But the essential element in each of his pictures is the character of place. In his "Toledo" you feel the austerity and antiquity of gray walls, the fierceness of the sky, the weight and solidity of the masonry. It is a very beautiful picture, as compact and solid as the character of its subject demands, but not so compressed as to evade the suggestion of wild nature encompassing the scene.

Mr. Lawson is happiest in pictures of towns and cities. He manages to convey the sense of beauty and romance in the least romantic regions of New York. He builds with his pigments castles and fortresses that wear nevertheless the aspect of flat houses and cheap dwellings. Therefore, it is natural that his landscapes are best when they carry some hint of human intervention in the plan of nature. His cornfields are more fortunate than his unplanted hills. He recognizes the architectural dignity of the fields with their rows of stacked grain, he shows them spacious and well designed, while in his little pictures of creeks and hillsides nature crowds him and he is unable to extricate himself.

A CALL FROM ENGLAND.

Mrs. Alec Tweedie's New Year Message Is, Hurry Up!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

New Year's Day! The fortieth month of war! It would all have been over months ago, when Great Britain had beaten the Germans on five fronts, but for this awful Russian and Italian collapse. A million and a half German trained soldier-prisoners are now being released against us from Russia, on top of the millions already brought back by Germany from the Russian front. Think of that!

America came in two years too late to save this carnage against civilization.

For God's sake, hurry up, now! A few thousand men and promises are not sufficient. We want the men now! We are still the buffer between Germany and North and South America, and we still are losing several hundred officers and several thousand men every day. Speed up! Hurry up! This unexpected strain on us is fearful!

We can stand it; we will stand it, that is our British spirit; but we shall be left a nation of women with every virile young man gone.

Where are those trained pilots you wrote about? They are not here. And in three months you will have been our allies for a year!

My New Year's message to you is—Hurry up! You cannot imagine all this country has done, and all it has suffered for humanity.

The Prussian Way.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read in today's TIMES the letter about "The Old and New Germany." I nearly choked when I read:

> Some simple remark of his displeased a party of officers sitting at an adjoining table. Five weeks in jail, with the remark by the Judge that he was not in America, was his sentence.

Yes, such are the conditions brought about by these slavedrivers—these ever-obedient servants of the Kaiser.

I can give a small example of the conceit of one of these men: After I had finished my studies at the Conservatorium of Music with honors I joined the Army Band. I made a contract with the conductor as a violin soloist for early promotion, to escape the degrading bullying I was sure I had to go through. After I served a while I went home a Corporal, and my father insisted that I should see a friend of mine who happened to be an officer in the infantry. But this man refused to know me, after many years of copying school lessons from me!

That settled me altogether, and I hope that the Allies will soon succeed in pounding some of their democratic spirit into some of these conceited fatheads and put them where they belong.

I thank God that I live under this glorious flag of yours, and shall be proud after another two years to become a true American citizen.

Colonel House in College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Thank you for publishing the letter of Mr. George A. Carden in this morning's TIMES. It is a finely spirited defense of Colonel House against Senator Penrose's characterization of "a Texas politician and former lobbyist from Texas." We shall not even allow Texas to make exclusive claim to Colonel House. He is cosmopolitan and belongs to America as the sort of ideal citizen not commonly found in democracies, which theoretically are composed of men of just that type.

As a college chum of "Ed" House, (he would rather be called Ed with affection than Colonel for display,) please allow me to state that as a youth he always played the part of quiet peacemaker in college rows and established a reputation for kindly diplomacy of high order. Whenever there was a disturbance Ed would silently appear, and in a few minutes the trouble was all over. One of my earliest remembrances of him is that of a quiet youth reading De Tocqueville while walking along the street. As a man of independent means and a student of politics and of diplomacy he has devoted his life singleheartedly to the work of public service and has called it play. If there is one man in this country upon whom President Wilson can depend, without any reserve for suspicion of motive, it is Colonel House.

The Solid South.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Article XXVIII. of "The Woman Voter" the statement is made that "the South remains in its corner of the country a dead, inert mass politically, casting its solid vote always the same way." We grant that because of geographical laws the South is unable to migrate from its corner of the Union, but that she is dead or inert we deny. The present Administration is democratic policy in practice, and it seems self-evident that the strength and intelligence which have characterized the Government during the last five years could not be a growth from decayed roots. Also the fact that the schemes of politicians of other parties have failed in dividing the South against itself shows rather the determination of intelligent beings to uphold their best interests than the stubbornness of the unthinking. Hence the "solidity" of the South's vote.

I WILL WEAVE ME A CLOAK.

I will weave me a cloak to meet the wind,
  To meet the wind of sorrow.
I will not falter and fall behind,
  I will not beg nor borrow.
I will not shiver beside the fire,
  I will not shrink nor hide,
But high on the wings of my desire
  I will ride!

I will weave me a cloak against the wind,
  And wrap my soul within it.
A wild white ram of the skies I'll find
  And card his wool and spin it.
I will weave it into a woof of dreams,
  Embroider with stars and snow,
And over the wide world's roads and streams
  I will go!

I will weave me a cloak to meet the wind—
  Like a wolf the wind comes seeking!
The sheen of my cloak will make him blind,
  He'll pass me without speaking.
I will not fear what I may meet,
  Nor what the hour may bring,
But every day in the dusty street
  I will sing!

NORWAY AND AMERICA.

A Reply to an Attack by a Norwegian Writer Called Forth by the Food Shipment Negotiations.

By PROFESSOR JOHN EIESLAND of West Virginia University.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I understand from recent reports that Norway declines to enter into the proposed trade treaty with the United States. From certain indications this was to be expected. While Norway has been indulging in tender sympathy for the Allies and bewailing her own lost treasures and human lives, her Government has maintained what Nansen calls "absolute neutrality." To enter into an equitable treaty with the United States would not be "absolute neutrality," even if such a treaty would be a commercial advantage to Norway and a much needed relief; it would not be suitable to Wilhelmstrasse. From across the Skagerrak and Cattegat looms the threatening German Pickelhaube. It must also be remembered that there is a small but strong pro-German party in Norway; it is not vociferous, quite the contrary, but its influence must nevertheless be taken into account.

Last Summer I wrote a short letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES anent the food question in Norway and the Nansen commission. This letter was reprinted in several Norwegian papers with comments that were not very complimentary to myself. I was denounced because I, being born in Norway, took the side of my adopted country. Wilhelm Krag, an author of some note, wrote a letter to Tidens Tegn of Christiania in which he denounced not only me but all Norwegian-Americans. This letter was also printed in the two principal papers of my former home city, Christiansand. I wrote an answer in the form of an open letter to the editor of Tidens Tegn, which may or may not have been published. In these halcyon days of submarines and censors it is probable that it will not see the light of day in Norway. In the hope that THE NEW YORK TIMES will give me a hearing, I quote from my letter, which is dated Nov. 10, 1917.

JOHN EIESLAND.

West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va., Jan. 26, 1918.

To the Editor of Tidens Tegn:

I was really surprised the other day to receive Mr. Wilhelm Krag's article concerning me in Tidens Tegn for Sept. 28. It was like an unfriendly whiff of the salty brine from the Skagerrak. * * *

As usual, when authors in Norway write about America and "Det Amerikanske Aandsliv," we get nothing but inane vaporings, untrue generalizations, and half-baked opinions, and when Wilhelm Krag writes about Norwegian-Americans he shows his utter inability to understand America and American civilization; he does not like us because he does not understand us. That a few "nouveaux riches" and "goulash barons" from America have produced a painful impression on the home folks, I shall not deny; the same is done by their own "goulash barons," if I am to believe reports.

Mr. Krag's remark on the bad effect of the American civilization on the Norwegian-American is very amusing. To form any kind of comparison with respect to the effect of different cultures we need, of course, an emigrant class of Norwegians in all those countries. The few Norwegian business men and young scholars who travel in England, France, and Germany scarcely form material for a comparison with the million and a half Norwegians of the first and second generations in America. The great majority of these came to the United States to make it their home, while very few of the former class remain abroad. Why he includes Germany I cannot understand; the last three years have shown us conclusively what is the effect of German "Kultur" on the Germans themselves. I shall refuse to believe that German civilization has a particularly civilizing influence on any one, even if he is a scion of a Norwegian "embedsfamilie." The German-American, who comes from the very land of "Kultur," can claim absolutely no superiority over the Norwegian-American in any respect, social or cultural, as any one knows who has in America associated with both. The unbiased verdict of native Americans is rather in favor of the Norwegian-American. The author's criticism can therefore only mean that it is the American civilization which is at fault, not the "crude" material it has to work upon, and he thus presumes to pass judgment on a civilization of which he can only have a second-hand knowledge. * * *

Mr. Krag does not like my letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES; he is, indeed, so infuriated that he comes very close to indicting a whole people. Because, in his opinion, I am a traitor, almost all Norwegian-Americans are. He complains of their lack of sympathy. If the Norwegian-Americans have been silent during Norway's storm and stress period, there may be good reasons for it. They had expected more backbone in the old viking race, but maybe this is "the period of decay and downfall" for Norway, too. I do not know, it is thirty years since I left, and I have had little time and opportunity to follow political and social developments in Norway. She seems to have had a short heroic period during the stirring time of separation from Sweden which ended in somewhat of an anticlimax when she joined the rank of monarchies. Some say she was afraid of her mighty neighbor to the south and a lesser one to the east. I only know that her noble sons across the water, the despised Norwegian-Americans, who have not ceased to feel pride in their ancestry, were very much disappointed. * * *

But not all in Norway share the opinion of Mr. Krag. Judging from his antecedents, nothing else was to be expected. Norwegian literati have never been friendly to things American. The head of a business firm in Stavanger, who has written to me an appreciative letter anent my "traitorous" article, tells me that there are thousands in Norway who agree with me. Are these also traitors, Judases, degenerate sons of the Fatherland? If this is true, I am certainly glad to know that there are men in my native land who think that it is not sufficient to say you are "profoundly impressed" when the Germans practice their Schrecklichkeit on defenseless seamen and even women, who do not wish to plead "absolute neutrality" when attacked in the most brutal manner, who are not so afraid of the Prussian Pickelhaube that they will sacrifice their country's honor, who do not think it is honorable for Norway to ask the generous and large-hearted American people to sell them food and then supply the enemy of the United States with nickel, fish, &c.

There are in France today thousands of Americans; many are from the West and a goodly number of them are Norwegian-Americans. You cannot pick them out from a crowd of native Americans. They have the same ideals, the same wide view, the same genuine generosity and kindness of soul that distinguish the rank and file of the American people, the same hatred of tyranny and King power, the same innate love of justice and fair play; they are fighting the battle for liberty, for a better and freer Europe, which, in spite of its boasted civilization, never learned the lesson of how to live together without planning the one to destroy the other. Norway is immensely richer because of the Norwegian-American. He is an asset she can justly be proud of.

THE RAILROADS.

They Need a Unifying of the Various Government Heads.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Even in the midst of war a fair measure of light should be thrown on the present railroad setback. The railroads today are in a bad way for the simple reason that the Government, or political regulation, during the last eight or ten years, has had no vision of the national needs. Government regulation has been very kind to the public pocketbook, and very unkind to the public interests. Let us bring the results of this policy right up to date.

On the outbreak of hostilities railroad men all over the country understood the railroad situation. On a given railroad you can handle a certain maximum amount of business promptly and efficiently. But just as soon as your switching room and terminals become crowded with additional business, efficient and prompt handling of your total business goes up in smoke. Now, when the war started the wisest heads in the railroad world hastened to Washington with these and similar facts. That is to say, these men told the Government in plain English just what the railroads could and could not do in the national emergency. But what was the use? It was too late. The popular clamor for millions and billions of everything, without any reference whatever to transportation, got ahead of this railroad statement. At the very beginning both production and enlistments were encouraged almost to the limit. Anything that did not speak in millions and billions was an irritation to the public mind, and, as it seems, in the midst of all the hurry there wasn't a man in the country at the time who was brave enough to warn the people of the impending paralysis, or to prove to them that not a tenth part of the rush business then in sight could possibly be crowded through the narrow neck of the railroad bottle in a month of Sundays. That was the time for Government regulation and control of the output. But bless you, any action of this kind in the early stages of the game was too deep for the Government foresight. So far as the railroads were concerned the paralysis I speak of had been a matter of figures and knowledge from the very beginning; so far as the Government was concerned this same paralysis is the inevitable result of a lamentable disregard of the opinions and advice of the railroad executives.

The American railroad is the national "goat," and before long it is going to be the national "whistle." Of course these railroads should be unified, but apart from this interesting fact, the solution of the present muddle is to unify Mr. Baker, Mr. Daniels, Mr. Hoover, and Dr. Garfield, so far as their transportation interests are concerned, under the directorship of a man big enough to represent the United States of America. A directorship of transportation alone is only a quarter fit. Transportation is the logical chairmanship at the present moment of every public and private interest that has goods to be moved. That is to say, the logical chairman of this group is a railroad executive, without "advisory limitations." In the opinion of hosts of people, Mr. Daniel Willard would be the Napoleon on this job.

Housing Plans for War Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read Mr. Ackerman's letter in today's TIMES, and every thinking man who has investigated the problem of industrial housing will heartily agree with his sentiments.

It is a great pity that it takes our Government so long to find the right man for the right place, but after an experience with the various departments in Washington, extending from last October up to the present time, I am convinced that the system which is now operating will successfully prevent any thorough and far-seeing solution to the housing problem.

Is it not possible for the architects, and particularly those who are officers of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, to place before the Government some well-thought-out advisory plan embodying the broad view of Mr. Ackerman, and so arranged as to utilize as many of the specially trained men as may be available, and place this plan before the Secretary of War directly? He has in today's report of his appearance before the Senate Committee declared himself to be anxious to receive suggestions which may in any way benefit the conduct of the war.

A Model Coachman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On my return from a short absence I read with regret a notice in your columns of the recent death of Benjamin Whittington, "for thirty-six years a trusted friend and faithful coachman in the family of F. K. Sturgis," which, in itself, seems to me as pleasant an inscription on a tombstone as most of us are entitled to expect. Who can lay claim to being more than "trusted" and "faithful"? My acquaintance with Whittington began about thirty years ago, when Mr. Sturgis occupied one of a row of private stables on the north side of Thirty-third Street, east of Park Avenue. The late Cornelius Vanderbilt had two of these stables for his own use, situated in the rear of the two houses on the south side of East Thirty-fourth Street, in which he then lived, and the row of stables extended as far west as a number of small houses, which were converted by Dr. Bull into his private hospital. Being then, as now, fond of horses, and living in 29 Park Avenue, I frequently stopped in and talked horse lore with Whittington, who, since those days, became as familiar a figure to New Yorkers as Grace Church. For over three decades he was daily in evidence on the box of a perfectly appointed carriage, drawn by a pair of roan horses, driving through the mazes of traffic in New York, Lenox, and Newport. I have never heard of his having the slightest accident, which means a good deal when one recalls that for years Mr. Sturgis drove his coach and four, and a pretty larky lot some of these roans were. He always did, and still does, drive only roan horses—why, he never told me, but perhaps because he admired Joris's roan in Robert Browning's poem, who "rolled neck and croup over, lay dead as a stone," carrying the good news from Ghent to Aix. At any rate, Whittington was the perfection of a coachman, clean-shaven, ruddy-faced, his horses under absolute control, but never tortured with the tight curb chains, burrs, gags, night-bearing reins, and other instruments of equine misery.

DR MAXWELL QUITS AS HEAD OF SCHOOLS

HELD OFFICE SINCE 1898

Dr. William H. Maxwell on Feb. 11 will end his career as City Superintendent of Schools, a place he has filled since 1898, when the present city was created. His retirement is due to the fact that his health is such as to prevent him from further assumption of the duties of the office. A native of Stewartstown, County Tyrone, Ireland, Dr. Maxwell will be 66 years old on March 5. If he had been in good health he would have four years more to serve as Superintendent before reaching the retiring age. He has been made City Superintendent Emeritus of Schools, at the same salary he now receives, $10,000 a year, to take effect Feb. 11. At the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday President Somers said:

"As you are aware, in April, 1915, Dr. William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, was stricken with a serious illness. Since that time he has struggled with wonderful courage and vitality to win back his full health and vigor. The previous Board of Education extended to him every help in the hope that he might win the fight he was making. From time to time, he has been granted a leave of absence and returned to duty for brief periods, only to find himself unable to participate actively in the management and conduct of his high office.

"Dr. Maxwell recognizes that his gradual recovery of health is too slow to warrant the expectation of return to active service in the immediate future, and he recognizes also that the work requires the presence of an active and energetic man.

"In 1917, the State Legislature passed a law empowering the Board of Education to elect a City Superintendent of Schools Emeritus, to receive for the duration of his life such an annual salary as the Board of Education and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall determine at the time of his appointment. The time is at hand when I believe that this board should take advantage of the authority vested in it by law to create this position and elect Dr. Maxwell to fill it.

"Dr. Maxwell has been Superintendent of Schools since 1898, when the greater city was created. Prior to that time, he served as Superintendent of Schools in the City of Brooklyn. In all, he has served more than thirty-five years in the Department of Education, and this extraordinary service is one of which the city might well be proud. To him, more than any other man or woman, is due the full measure of credit for relieving the schools of political influence and making possible the appointment of Principals and teachers from eligible lists in the order of merit. He has done more. His remarkable genius for administration made possible the centralization and reorganization of the public school system in 1902. He has fought for many years for enriched schooling for the children. He has developed manual training instruction, music, drawing, physical training, ungraded classes for the care of defective children, classes for blind children, and other special subjects that will long live as a credit to his wonderful and unselfish force. He is responsible for the development of secondary education in the city, for improved methods of training teachers, for better school buildings, and for the creation of a public demand for proper accommodation of children."

Mr. Somers recommended that the Board of Education designate an Associate Superintendent as Acting Superintendent of Schools and that the board at once consider the question of a successor to Dr. Maxwell.

PATRIOTIC PAGEANT GIVEN.

Spectacle and Ball at Astor in Aid of East Side Clinic.

The annual charity ball and pageant for the benefit of the East Side Clinic for Women and Children and Red Cross Auxiliary 136 of the Mozart Society was held last night at the Hotel Astor. The pageant was patriotic in nature, with all the allied nations represented, and more than a hundred persons took part, including a number of United States soldiers and sailors.

Mrs. Noble McConnell, founder and President of the clinic, appeared as America and reviewed the pageant from a platform on which were grouped Enlightenment, Justice, Uncle Sam, Victory, the allied nations, and prominent characters in American history. She was escorted by George Dewey, the 5-year-old grandnephew of the late Admiral Dewey.

The musical program in connection with the pageant was under the direction of William Pitt Rivers. General dancing followed.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES TO BE CO-ORDINATED

State Council from Seven Dioceses Organized, and Cardinal Farley Welcomes Delegates.

In order to co-ordinate all Catholic philanthropic work, the State Council of Catholic Charities was organized yesterday at Cathedral College, 462 Madison Avenue. The address of welcome was made by Cardinal Farley. The organization will assist and co-operate in the adoption by the community at large of such measures in the administration of charity "as may develop self-respect and increase the power of self-support; to assert and protect the rights of Catholic dependents and delinquents."

Cardinal Farley said:

"It is the compelling need and the urgent demand of our own experience that we organize in a permanent and effective way under the sanction of Church and State to protect and further the responsibilities intrusted to us, to safeguard the home, the family, the child, and society.

"We ask you gentlemen here today—bishops, prelates, priests, and laymen—representatives of the splendid Catholic citizenship of the Empire State, to confer together that our combined wisdom and experience, under the blessing of Almighty God, may evolve a State-wide plan of action which will so organize our Catholic charitable activities that we shall all work together in a systematic, continuous, and efficient manner for permanent betterment, not only of our own people, but of society at large in the fields of charity and education."

NEW YORK.
Cardinal Farley,
Right Rev. Patrick J. Hayes,
Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Mooney,
Very Rev. Mgr. Thomas G. Carroll,
Rev. Robert F. Keegan,
George B. McDonald,
Hon. George J. Gillespie,
Edmund J. Butler,
BROOKLYN.
Right Rev. George W. Kaupert,
Rev. Michael F. McGoldrick,
Thomas E. Murray,
Walter H. Bennett,
George J. Ryan,
William C. Courtney,
James Birmingham,
Joseph F. Keany,

The council authorized the holding of a State conference of Catholic charities and correction some time in the Fall to embrace all the Catholic charitable activities in the State.

ETHEL HARRIMAN MARRIES.

Wed to Lieutenant Henry Potter Russell of New York in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Miss Ethel M. B. Harriman, daughter of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York, was married at noon today to Lieutenant Henry Potter Russell, son of Charles H. Russell of New York, in the American church on the Avenue Alma. The Right Rev. C. H. Brent, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Philippines, performed the marriage ceremony. The wedding was a quiet wartime ceremony, at which only a few intimate friends of the couple were present, among them Ambassador and Mrs. Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and General Lewis.

Mrs. Vincent Astor of New York acted as matron of honor and Lieutenant Minot was best man.

Miss Harriman sailed for France last June with Mrs. Vincent Astor and other women who went abroad to serve as war nurses in the soldiers' hospitals behind the lines. She was a débutante of last year.

Several entertainments were given for her when she was presented in society and in the annual entertainment of the Junior League last January she took one of the leading parts in the extravaganza. When she was presented in Newport the previous Summer she made several airplane flights over Narragansett Bay. In 1914 she accompanied her mother, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, on the investigation of conditions in the Colorado mining industries when she was chosen by the Industrial Commission to make a report upon the differences between capital and labor in the strikes there.

Mr. Russell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howland Russell of 109 East Seventy-third Street, and was graduated from Harvard in 1915. He went to France several months ago, and some of his time has been spent with his brother, Charles H. Russell, Jr., who is an attaché of the American Legation at The Hague. He is a member of the Knickerbocker and Harvard Clubs.

E. A. Tenner Marries Miss Hausen.

The marriage of Edmund A. Tenner and Miss Madeline H. Hausen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hausen, both of Brooklyn, took place yesterday noon at the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn, the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass officiating. The bride, in pearl embroidered white satin, was attended by Miss Julie Stoll as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Selma Spingarn and Gladys Shaer. Little Miss Juliette Kennedy was the flower girl. The ushers were Irving B. Hausen and Leopold Wolf. On their return from a honeymoon in the South Mr. and Mrs. Tenner will live at 940 Prospect Place, Brooklyn.

Miller-Upde Grove.

The marriage of J. Wesley Miller, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Miller of this city, and Miss Frances Upde Grove, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Upde Grove of Riverdale-on-Hudson, was quietly solemnized at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Holyrood Episcopal Church, at 179th Street and Fort Washington Avenue, by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Gustav Carstensen. Miss Upde Grove, in a champagne colored georgette crepe afternoon gown topped by a black picture hat with touches of black ostrich feathers, walked with her father. None except the immediate families were present. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home at 420 Convent Avenue.

Tisdale-Scott Wedding on Feb. 9.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Helen Beatrice Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott of 251 West Eighty-ninth Street, and Lieutenant George Merrick Tisdale, U. S. N., which is to take place on Feb. 9, at 4 o'clock, in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride.

Miss Scott will have Miss Gertrude Watson as her maid of honor and only attendant. Captain William B. Sullivan, U. S. M. C., is to act as best man. Lieutenant Tisdale was graduated from Annapolis, class of '13.

Miss Seligman to Wed Saturday.

Sam A. Lewisohn, son of Adolph Lewisohn of 881 Fifth Avenue, and Miss Margaret V. Seligman, daughter of the late Isaac N. Seligman and Mrs. Seligman of 36 West Fifty-fourth Street, obtained a marriage license yesterday at the Municipal Building. They will be married on Saturday. Owing to the recent death of Miss Seligman's father it will be a quiet wedding.

HULBERT DENOUNCES PLAN FOR HELL GATE

LAW VIOLATED, HE CHARGES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A discovery that the War Department was planning a channel 35 feet deep instead of 40 feet through Hell Gate and the East River threw the House Rivers and Harbors Committee into a turbulent discussion today.

Murray Hulbert, Commissioner of Docks of the City of New York, asserted that the army engineers habitually took a "narrow and picayunish" viewpoint of the needs of New York Harbor. He said that in the present case the engineers had violated the law enacted in the last session of Congress, which, he said, authorized and directed a forty-foot channel.

Mr. Hulbert appeared before the committee at the head of a New York City delegation to urge general improvements in the Hudson, Harlem, and East rivers. Colonel Henry C. Newcomer, representing the Corps of Engineers of the Army, was asked what progress had been made on the Hell Gate project. He replied that the War Department had been unable to let contracts for the thirty-five-foot channel.

Representative Riordan asked for a copy of last session's law, and read from it this paragraph:

> East River New York.—For improvement in accordance with the report submitted in House Document No. 188, Sixty-third Congress, first session, and for a forty-foot channel through East River and Hell Gate, in accordance with the report submitted in House Document No. 140, Sixty-fifth Congress, first session, $1,250,000.

Colonel Newcomer countered by reading from House Document No. 40 the following proviso:

> The only connecting channel the construction or improvement of which the Navy Department considers necessary is the channel through Hell Gate and East River between New York Harbor and Long Island Sound. This channel should be given a depth of thirty-five feet as soon as practicable and an eventual depth of forty feet.

Colonel Newcomer said the engineers' eventual contention was for a forty-foot channel, but as they construed the law the present plan for thirty-five feet filled all legal and practical requirements.

When the delegation left for New York this afternoon Mr. Hulbert said he intended to report to Mayor Hylan with the recommendation that the matter be taken up with the army engineers' superiors, even as far as President Wilson. He declared there had been a definite miscarriage of the will of Congress. Mr. Small suggested that the best interpretation of the law could come from a legal action against any attempt by the department to make less than a forty-foot channel.

TO MAKE TOLUOL FOR WAR.

Government Will Equip New York Plants for Explosive Ingredient.

It was learned yesterday that the Ordnance Bureau of the United States War Department had made arrangements for installing apparatus at each of the gas plants in this city so that the British thermal unit basis of measurement may be substituted for the present candle power basis, to the end that the greatest possible amount of toluol may be extracted.

Failure of the companies to take advantage of the permission to make the change granted them by the Public Service Commission on the ground that some of the conditions attached were confiscatory, led to conferences between representatives of the commission, the gas companies, and the Ordnance Bureau which finally resulted in determination on the part of the Government to make the necessary changes in the gas plants, to pay for them out of Government funds, and to make a financial settlement with the companies later on.

Public Service Commissioner Whitney was asked yesterday if this action by the Government was not equivalent to commandeering the plants. He replied that it might possibly be viewed in that light, but that the Government had no present intention of operating the plants, but only to see that as much toluol as possible should be produced. He explained that toluol was greatly needed in making high explosives, that there was a great scarcity of it, and that the Government felt that unusual measures were desirable.

One objection of the companies to changing the standard was that the cost would be great, and that it would be folly to make the expenditure for so short a period as the duration of the war. Then, if the commission should order the companies to go back to the candle power standard, the outlay would be useless. It was then that the Government decided to make the change and to arrange a settlement with the companies afterward.

It was said that the Government would protect the companies by paying a high enough price for the toluol to cover any loss, and that it would especially see that any rebate made to consumers because of a lower quality of gas should be figured in the price of the by-product.

Mr. Whitney said that the British thermal unit basis of measuring gas value was the better because not more than 20 per cent. of the gas manufactured was used for illuminating purposes. He said that in fixing the 650 units as the equivalent of the present 20 candle power, the commission had dealt fairly with the companies.

Dr. Samuel D. Hartman.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 30.—Dr. Samuel D. Hartman, believed to have been the largest manufacturer of tpaten medicines in the world, died here late today in a hotel named after him.

Dr. Hartman, who was born on a farm near Harrisburg, Penn., eighty-three years ago, amassed a fortune estimated in the millions.

His catarrh remedy was based on a prescription used by his mother. More than $12,000,000, Dr. Hartman recently declared, has been spent in the advertising of his remedy.

HALTS THE MEAT INQUIRY.

Heney Plans to Force Packers to Give Up Important Papers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Reading of letters and other documents from the confidential files of the Chicago packers into the record of the Federal Trade Commission's meat packing hearing came to a sudden halt late today to permit Francis J. Heney, special counsel, to return to Chicago and direct the search for further material.

Henry Veeder's vault, containing the correspondence of the lawyer who was characterized by Mr. Heney as the "clearing house" for the joint operations of the packers, has been sealed by Hugh McIsaac, the commission's examiner, who obtained most of the documentary evidence already introduced. Unless Veeder reconsiders his refusal to permit the examination of his papers to continue, court action will be taken by the commission.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—A denial of the charge made by Francis J. Heney, counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, that the firm name of Sulzberger & Sons, packers, was changed to Wilson & Co. because of relations with Germany before the United States entered the war was issued tonight at the office of Wilson & Co.

"There is no truth in the statement that Sulzberger & Sons changed the name of their firm to Wilson & Co. because of relations with Germany before we entered the war," the statement read. "The change in ownership was a private deal carried out between the Sulzbergers and Thomas E. Wilson and his associates.

"Control of the firm passed entirely away from the Sulzbergers, and there are few officials who are working here now who were employed when the firm was owned by the Sulzbergers.

"Our trouble with England regarding shipments of meat was the same that all the other packers had at the same time."

Miss Florence Sommerville Weds.

The wedding of Christian Aage Severin of Brooklyn and Miss Florence Sommerville, daughter of Jason C. Sommerville, took place quietly yesterday at noon at 430 Park Avenue, and the Rev. Frederick Burgess, Jr., curate of the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, officiated. The bride, in traveling costume, had no attendant, and Mr. Severin had Theodore L. Brantley as his best man. There were less than a dozen guests owing to the illness of the bride's father.

To Newspaper Readers in New York City:

Your newsdealer is now making a profit on each copy 50 per cent. larger than he made when the newspapers were sold at one cent. In addition he now takes no risk of loss, as the newspapers refund to him the amount paid for unsold copies. He has, therefore, no just reason for refusing to serve you.

The subway and elevated news stands are liberally supplied with morning and evening newspapers, and other means of distribution will be promptly arranged if necessary.

SENATOR HUGHES, LONG ILL, IS DEAD

HIS POLITICAL RISE RAPID

Democrat, Who Was Noted as a Champion of Labor, Served Eight Years in Congress.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 30.—United States Senator William Hughes of Paterson died here today at 10:15 A. M., at a hospital where he had been confined for many weeks suffering from septic poisoning resulting from an infection of the teeth, followed by bronchial pneumonia. At his bedside when he died was his wife and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hall of Paterson, and Dr. Henry A. Toppen, the attending physician.

Senator William Hughes of New Jersey was born in Ireland on April 3, 1872. He came here with his parents when a child and attended the common schools for several years, starting to work at the age of 10 as a reel boy with the Barbour Flax Spinning Company, in Paterson, N. J.

In 1898 he enlisted in the Second New Jersey Regiment of the National Guard and during the Spanish War served as a stenographer. He had previously attended business college at night and taken up the study of stenography. After the war he began the study of law and was admitted to the bar in June, 1900. Thereafter he became closely identified with labor unions as counsel to a number of these organizations.

Standing as candidate for the State Assembly in 1901, he was defeated. The following year he was elected to Congress, defeating Colonel William Barbour, in whose flax mill he began life as reel boy. When his term expired in 1904 he was again nominated on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated by Henry C. Allen. He was, however, returned to Congress in 1906 and served two additional terms thereafter, serving in all four terms in Congress.

Appointed Judge in Passaic County in 1912, he resigned the same year and was elected to the United States Senate as successor to Frank B. Briggs.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE.

Says He Has Lost a Friend for Whom He Had Genuine Admiration.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—First word of Senator Hughes's death at his home in New Jersey was received in private telegrams to the White House. Secretary Tumulty issued a statement expressing his own and the President's appreciation of the Senator's public services and regret at his death.

President Wilson today sent to Mrs. Hughes the following message of condolence:

"My heart goes out to you in warmest and sincerest sympathy. In the death of your husband I have lost a friend for whom I had the deepest affection and a very genuine admiration."

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey announced in the Senate the death of his colleague, and the Senate adjourned until tomorrow, after a committee had been named to attend the funeral.

Secretary Tumulty's statement in part follows:

"We are all overwhelmed at the passing away of our noble friend, Senator Hughes. He and I were intimately associated, both in a personal and political way, for many years. Indeed, in a sense, he was my preceptor in politics. We met while he was a member of the House of Representatives and I was a member of the New Jersey Legislature. Since that time there had been an uninterrupted friendship between us of the warmest personal character.

"He was a great soul. For years he had been suffering from the malady which finally ended in his death. He knew for the last few years the nature of the trouble which afflicted him and which finally resulted in his death, yet he never made outward show of his great pain and agony. To his intimate friends, who learned to love him because of his big, generous, democratic nature, he was still the cheerful, loyal, unselfish associate. Despite his great suffering, he was always interested in the big things that were happening about him. He was an intense democrat. His Americanism was of the purest kind."

UPHOLDS STOCK EXCHANGE.

Court Decides Against Fiero in Plea Against Governors.

The application by Raymond H. Fiero for an injunction restraining the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange from announcing his expulsion for violating the rules of the exchange, was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Bijur on the ground that the record of the proceedings before the Governors showed no evidence of "ill-will or prejudice" alleged by Fiero as a ground for the injunction.

Justice Bijur held that the trial was proper in every respect, and said that the hearing resolved itself into an attempt on the part of the plaintiff to exculpate himself from the prima facie inference that he was "guilty of conduct or proceeding inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade."

Henry Elliot Sprague.

Henry Elliot Sprague, one of the oldest merchants in this city, died at his home, 15 West Ninety-first Street, on Tuesday in his eighty-second year. Mr. Sprague was at one time President of the Colorado Coal and Iron Company, which is now the Colorado Fuel Company. He was born in Gibraltar, Spain, where his father, Horatio Sprague, was United States Consul under President Polk. His nephew, Richard Sprague, now holds the position of Consul at Gibraltar. Mr. Sprague was a member of the New York Produce Exchange, the New York New England Society, and the Union Club.

Henry Newman, Painter, Dead.

Henry Newman, once a draftsman for John Ruskin, also known as a painter and friend of Robert Browning, Henry James, the Storys, the Hawthornes, and other well-known literary and artistic folk, is dead in Florence, Italy. Mr. Newman was an American, and left a widow, who is an Englishwoman.

For a half century Mr. Newman made his home abroad, in Florence and Egypt. Most of his pictures are in America. Death was superinduced by hardships, incident to the severe Florentine Winter.

JAMES L. BENNETT DIES.

Ex-U. S. District Attorney Expires Suddenly in Subway Station.

James L. Bennett, a lawyer and ex-United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of New York, died on the platform of the St. Nicholas Avenue and 181st Street subway station while waiting for a train yesterday afternoon. It was said that his death was caused by heart disease. Justice David N. Blackmar of the Appellate Division, a friend of Mr. Bennett, was notified, and had the body removed to Mr. Bennett's home, 1,265 Dean Street, Brooklyn.

Mr. Bennett was born in Oneida County, N. Y., in 1849, and was graduated from Hamilton College in his twenty-third year. Two years later he was appointed Assistant District Attorney of Onondaga County. Mr. Bennett took an active part in the Democratic Party and was Chairman of several State conventions. He came to New York in 1884, and had practiced law here ever since. He was apointed United States District Attorney in 1894 by President Cleveland. After his retirement from office he resumed the practice of law at 100 Broadway.

DR. HEINRICH STERN DEAD.

Specialist Was Secretary of the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Heinrich Stern, a specialist on internal diseases, died at his home, at the Hotel Bonta, Broadway and Ninety-fourth Street, yesterday in his fifty-first year. He was born in Germany, but came to the United States when he was twenty years old, and studied medicine at the St. Louis Medical College, at St. Louis, Mo. Later he became an American citizen. He had practiced medicine in this city since 1888. Five years ago he founded The Archives of Medicine, a quarterly magazine.

Dr. Stern was a visiting physician at St. Mark's and St. Elizabeth's hospitals in this city, and Secretary of the American College of Physicians and a member of the Academy of Medicine and many other medical organizations. He was the author of a dozen books on medicine.

HARVARD'S INFORMAL HOCKEY TEAM WINS GAME

NEWPORT SEVEN IS BEATEN BY HARVARD

Naval Reserve Hockey Team Downed After Hard Battle by a Single Goal.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Harvard's hockey team made its first appearance at the local rink tonight and in the first game it has played indoors beat the Newport Naval Reserves, 1 to 0. The match was hard fought, both sevens showing fine individual play, but little team work.

Neither scored in the first half, but midway through the second period Walker, the Harvard point, sent a hard shot at the rival cage. Childs made a fine stop, but Pierson of Harvard came through fast to pick up the rebound and shot the disk into the cage for the winning goal.

The summary:

Harvard.	Position.	Newport N. R.
Lauderbach	G.	Childs
Walker	P.	Bull
Stubbs	C.P.	Humphries
Bright	R.W.	Cann
Pierson	C.	J. Howard
Cabot	R.	T. Howard
Rice	L.W.	Patterson

Goal made by Pierson. Substitutes—Harvard, Gibbs for Cabot, Bullard for Rice. Newport Reserves, Sprone for Patterson, Patterson for Bull. Referee—Mr. Denesha. Goal umpires—Messrs. Laroche and Larsen. Time of periods—15 minutes.

CARRIGAN AGAIN TO FORE.

Reported That Former Manager Will Be with Red Sox Once More.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—That Bill Carrigan would be manager of the Boston American League Baseball Club this season was the prediction made here tonight. The former catcher and manager of the team is now a banker at Lewiston, Me. He said over the long-distance telephone today that he was ready to help out the Red Sox in the war emergency. Jack Barry, the present manager, who succeeded Carrigan when the latter retired from baseball two years ago, is a yeoman in the navy, and will not be able to play ball this year. Harry H. Frazee, President of the club, said today that the managership matter was still undecided.

ARENA SEVEN NOSED OUT.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—The Arena team of the new Amateur Hockey League, still a bit disabled after Monday's match against the New York Wanderers, was beaten tonight by the Boston Wanderers, 2 to 1. The winners are all young players and conquered largely because of their stamina at the end of a hard-fought match.

Nowell got a goal within the first two minutes for the Arenas, after which the league team played safe. However, well through the second half, Forte worked fast in a scrimmage near the Arena, finally poking the puck home, and later, hardly ten seconds before the bell, Reycroft broke through the Arena defense and won the game with a pretty line shot into the Arena netting from the sideboards.

The summary:

Boston W. (2.)	Position.	Arenas, (1.)
Mackay	G.	Storey
Morton	P.	Martin
Wendell	C. P.	Nowell
Burkhart	R. W.	Myra
Reycroft	C.	McNeil
Hughes	R.	Synnott
Forte	L. W.	Wanamaker

Score—Boston Wanderers, 2; Arena, 1. Goals—Forte, 1; Reycroft, 1; Nowell, 1. Substitutes—Arena, Arthur for Myra, Scott for Wanamaker, Wanamaker for Arthur. Referee—Mr. Doody. Goal umpires—Messrs. Larsen and Laroche. Timers—Messrs Brown and Park. Time of periods—15 minutes.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The Army's hockey team beat Jamaica High School 4 goals to 0 in a game on Stuart Rink this afternoon. The West Pointers did all their scoring in the final period, Boyd registering three of the tallies and Oliphant one. Schissell was best for Jamaica.

The lineup:

Army, (4.)	Position.	Jamaica, (0.)
Nichols	G.	Jennings
Evarts	P.	Bates
Oliphant	C. P.	Bastrass
Boyd	C.	Madden
Post	R.	Kellog
Bartlett	L. W.	Schissell
Long	R. W.	Thompson

Goals—Boyd, in 5:15; Boyd, in 11:00; Oliphant, in 17:50; Boyd, in 18:05. Substitutions—Miller for Post, Rice for Bartlett, Sherman for Long, Smith for Sherman. Time of halves—Twenty minutes. Referee—Captain Viner.

LOCAL SEVENS WILL PLAY.

Crescent A. C. to Meet All-Manhattan Team in Brooklyn Tonight.

War time hockey under the auspices of the Amateur Hockey League will begin tonight at the Brooklyn Ice Palace, when the Crescent Athletic Club, representing Brooklyn, will meet an All-Manhattan seven composed of members of the New York Athletic Club, the St. Nicholas Hockey Club, and the Hockey Club of New York.

Practically all of the players are well known in senior hockey circles. Among those on the Crescent team are Jimmie Shirress, Fred Lang, Sars Kennedy, and Bob Hall. The All-Manhattan seven will include Castleman, White, and Gordon, all of the New York A. C.; Fredericks, Cleary, and Keefe of the Hockey Club, and Loutrell, Swenson, Gelatly, Pierson, and von Bernuth of the St. Nicholas Hockey Club.

Realizing that it is war times, the management of the Brooklyn Ice Palace will do away with reserved seats. The game will start at 8:15 P. M.

FIFTH CO. ATHLETES WIN.

Take Two Events in Games of 13th Coast Defense Command.

Soldiers of the 5th Company, 13th Coast Defense Command, Brooklyn, last night upheld the athletic traditions of the company in the annual regimental indoor games on the armory floor. The athletes of this branch of the command finished first in two events, the one-mile bicycle race and the 440-yard run, accounting for all three of the prize-winning positions in the latter.

The quarter-mile run gave the soldiers and army officials present their first look at George Rosenberger, brother of the former champion, Jim Rosenberger, in competition. George, after running an interesting race, finished second to Casper Scheffer, a company mate, who formerly was the leading middle-distance runner of the Long Island A. C. The soldiers were separated by about two yards at the finish, and Scheffer's time was 0:56 2-5.

The one-mile bicycle race resulted in a brilliant victory for Anthony Attardi of the 5th Company, who started from scratch and crossed the line a winner in 2:30.

HANDICAPS SETTLE RACES.

Kuehne, Miller, and Taylor Fail to Catch Limit Men.

Walter Kuehne, Joe Miller, and William Taylor, three of the New York Athletic Club's leading skaters, tried unsuccessfully last night to concede liberal handicaps to less prominent exponents of the Winter sport in the opening races of the Washington Park Outdoor Rink, Brooklyn. These three skaters, with Charles Schmidt of the Tremont Skating Club, recently crowned metropolitan champion at one mile, started from scratch in the half-mile handicap and in the five-lap whirl about the circular track none of them threatened the leaders, to whom had been allotted handicap marks.

The event resulted in a victory for Irving Reiner, unattached, who started from the 20-yard mark and skated the distance in 1:29 3-5. He was three yards ahead of J. McLaughlin of Brooklyn at the finish mark.

In the mile event Schmidt registered an impressive victory over a large field, crossing the finish line about five yards ahead of Miller in 3:12.

Cochran and Sutton Split Even.

Welker Cochran and handless George Sutton began a series of handicap billiard games at Maurice Daly's Academy yesterday. Cochran played 18.1 balkline against 18.2 by Sutton. In the afternoon Cochran won by a score of 250 to 132, his high run being 98. Sutton made a high run of 78. In the evening game Sutton was the victor with the score 250 to 184. Sutton made a high run of 74 as against one of 50 by Cochran.

Barnard School Five Victorious.

The basket ball team of Barnard School defeated All Hallows Institute at Barnard yesterday by a score of 28 to 22. Barnard's superior team play and more accurate shooting brought them the victory.

LEADING NET STARS WILL COMPETE HERE

Three-Day Tennis Tournament Arranged in Aid of Training Camp Athletic Fund.

A three-day tennis tournament, for the benefit of the training camp athletic activities fun, which will bring together many of the most prominent players hereabouts, has been arranged for the Seventh Regiment Armory, beginning on Lincoln's Birthday. The event will continue on Saturday, Feb. 16, and the final will be played on Washington's Birthday. Among the players who will compete are several veterans who have heretofore held places in the first ten, as well as a number of the younger players who have attained national prominence. The list includes Theodore Roosevelt Pell, S. Howard Voshell, the national indoor singles champion; Walter Merrill Hall, Nathaniel W. Niles, Harold A. Throckmorton, Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh, national junior champion; Frederick B. Alexander, Dr. William Rosenbaum, Arthur S. Cragin, W. Dixon Cunningham, and Harry Johnson, and Irving Wright of Boston.

These men will compete in a doubles event. In addition there will be two exhibition matches, between Vincent Richards, the national boys' champion, and Harold Taylor, runner up for the national junior indoor championship. On Washington's Birthday Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Miss Marie Wagner will be opponents in a mixed doubles event. The partners for the women have not as yet been selected. Miss Bjurstedt is the present holder of the women's national championship, while Miss Wagner is the holder of the women's national indoor title.

In the pairing for the doubles event, the national doubles team of Alexander and Throckmorton is broken up. Alexander will have as his partner Dr. William Rosenbaum, with whom he won the national indoor doubles championship a year ago. Throckmorton, on the other hand, is paired with one of the most brilliant of the younger players, Garland. It is expected that these two will make a formidable team. Throckmorton has an efficient net attack, while Garland is one of the steadiest of the younger players. Another strong team is composed of Niles and Hall.

The first day's play will open with an exhibition singles match between Richards and Taylor, this being scheduled for 9:30 A. M. At 10:30 Alexander and Rosenbaum will play Throckmorton and Garland, and on another court Arthur S. Cragin and W. D. Cunningham will compete against Pell and Voshell.

On Saturday, Feb. 16, Richards and Taylor will again open the day with a singles match, and this will be followed by two doubles matches. Irving Wright and Harry Johnson, the Boston team, will play the winner of the Alexander and Rosenbaum-Throckmorton and Garland match, and Niles and Hall will play the winners of the Cragin and Cunningham-Pell and Voshell match.

The final of the doubles will be played at 10:30 A. M. on Washington's Birthday, and the mixed doubles will follow.

DOUBLES TITLE IS DECIDED.

McAllister and Cunningham Victors on Seventh Regiment Court.

Sam R. McAllister and W. D. Cunningham won the doubles championship of the Seventh Regiment Tennis Club when they defeated J. L. Anderson and Fred Acker in straight sets at 6—2, 6—1, 6—2, on the armory courts yesterday. Cunningham and McAllister played a well-balanced game, and their steadiness at the net and in the deep court held their rival pair helpless. When Anderson and Acker made a bid for the net position, Cunningham and McAllister tossed up nicely placed lobs to the baseline, and their work at the net was severe and effective.

McAllister was never once broken through on service. The superiority of the winners was manifest from the start. In the first and second sets McAllister and Cunningham led at 4-0 on games.

DATES FOR C. C. N. Y. NINE.

Game with Columbia, March 27, First on Tentative Schedule.

Acting Manager Irving Tow of the C. C. N. Y. nine gave out the tentative baseball schedule of the team for the coming season yesterday. Negotiations are still under way with other institutions. An effort has been made to enroll all the local teams on the C. C. N. Y. roster of opponents, and most of the nines in the metropolitan district have responded in an effort to continue the athletic relations.

March 27, Columbia at Columbia; April 2, St. Johns at St. Johns; 13, Cathedral at Lewisohn Stadium; 17, Manhattan at home in Lewisohn Stadium; 24, Fordham at Fordham; May 15, N. Y. U. at Ohio Field; 25, Stevens at Hoboken; 28, St. Johns at home in Lewisohn Stadium.

SEEK DEVANEY'S LAURELS.

24 Athletes Entered in Two-Mile Title Race on Saturday.

The decision of Mike Devaney, the holder of the two-mile championship of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., to compete in the Hunter mile at Boston on Saturday has caused a flood of entries for the local title race, which will be one of the features of the preparedness games in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory on the same night. The committee in charge of the meet went over the entries yesterday and found that twenty-four local athletes aspired to Devaney's title.

Charles Pores, five-mile national champion; N. Gianakopulos, former cross-country champion, and James Plant, former metropolitan title holder at the mile, are entered, and among the other prominent men named are C. A. Schaeffer, unattached; Hans Shester, Morningside A. C.; A. L. Huelsenbach, Columbia University; J. P. Georgio, Paulist A. C., and John O'Neil, unattached.

All the events open to the A. A. U. have filled well, there being 250 individuals named for the five events. The military features have not closed yet, as the men have to arrange for furloughs. Fort Slocum, however, has sent word that it will be represented by a team of 100 men.

Princell Sets New Mark in Tank.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—B. H. Princell of the Chicago Athletic Association broke the world's record for the sixty-foot plunge in an indoor swimming meet at the Chicago Athletic Association tonight. He made the distance in 0:16 4-5. The previous record of 0:17 2-5 was held by J. P. Lichter, C. A. A. The meet was under A. A. U. auspices.

UNGER KEEPS UP HIS PACE.

Standing of the Players.

	W.	L.	H. R.	H. Av.
F. A. Unger	6	0	33	5 15-17
R. McGowan	2	1	25	5
G. W. Spear	4	2	31	4 14-34
J. Lange	2	2	26	4 18-28
F. W. Boyd	2	2	23	5 5-29
J. Neustadt	2	3	18	3 17-34
L. A. Servatius	1	3	25	4 1-63
S. Brussell	1	4	23	3 36-38
A. Gardner	1	4	21	4 9-32

Ferdinand A. Unger of Montclair intrenched himself more firmly as leader in the national Class C amateur billiard championship at Lawler Brothers' academy in Brooklyn yesterday, when he defeated John Lange by a score of 150 to 97. This gave the New Jersey player an unbroken record of six straight victories in the tournament, and he now has only three more matches to play. No other player in the event is undefeated. Unger was hardly in as good stroke yesterday as in some of his previous matches, but, for all that, he far outclassed his rival and made an average of 3 36-38. Lange, on the other hand, averaged only 2 23-37.

The Montclair contestant experienced some difficulty in gaining control of the ivories at the outset of the contest. The room was a bit cold, and the spheres did not respond to his touch. Their heaviness and lack of resiliency caused Unger to struggle along with comparatively low counts in the early stages, but later on he recovered his form and closed out the match brilliantly. Almost his final cluster of the game was a run of 29, which was put together by pretty balkline play. His other high runs were 18 and 16.

In the second match of the afternoon session the veteran, Louis A. Servatius, was forced to give way before the play of a younger rival, Joseph Neustadt. Servatius was defeated by a score of 150 to 107, the winner averaging 3 36-38.

F. W. Boyd and R. McGowan were the winners in the evening matches. The former defeated A. Gardner by a score of 150 to 109 and McGowan triumphed over S. Brussell by a score of 150 to 107.

Brussell started off in his match as if he would gain the laurels without much difficulty. He put together a cluster of 23 in the first inning, but this did not by any means shake the confidence of McGowan, who in the first two innings made a total of 27 points. Brussell, however, held the lead for five innings, when McGowan, aided by a run of 20, forged ahear. From then on McGowan played with a confidence that brought many good-sized clusters. Brussell was unable to keep pace with his rival and fell steadily behind.

Neither Boyd nor Gardner played at his best in the second evening contest. The runs were low and the match was not concluded until forty-four innings had been played.

The scores:

HIRSCH SUCCUMBS ON MAT.

Loses Boys' Club 135-Pound Wrestling Title to Longlowitz.

P. Hirsch, 135-pound champion wrestler of the Boys' Club, was dethroned last night in the final competition of the annual intermediate championship tournament of the East Tenth Street organization. Hirsch, although displaying the ability which gained him the title in this class last year, was forced to bow to the superior cleverness and aggressiveness of C. Longlowitz after a bout that went the limit of fifteen minutes. At the end of that time Longlowitz was awarded the decision by Referee P. Smith.

Another interesting contest was furnished in the 75-pound class, in which S. Schiffman and A. Berger struggled vigorously for nine minutes without either being able to secure a fall. Schiffman then received the referee's award.

85-Pound Class.—H. Brenner threw A. Herdst in 2:20.
95-Pound Class.—H. Yathofsky threw C. K. Laster in 1:35.
105-Pound Class.—A. Stewman threw M. Desomi in 5:55.
115-Pound Class.—F. Martin threw J. Hathberg in 0:57.
125-Pound Class.—S. Goldstein defeated D. Erkman, referee's decision, in 15:00.

APAWAMIS GOLFER BEATEN.

J. B. Elwell Loses at Twentieth Hole in Palm Beach Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—Two close matches marked the second round of match play today in the annual Lake Worth golf tourney. J. B. Elwell of Apawamis, winner of the qualifying round Monday, was defeated by A. W. Cameron of Huntington Valley at the twentieth hole, and in the second division Wilmot Smith of Oakland vanquished Harry E. Hoy of Morris County after an extra hole.

The scores:

Championship.—A. W. Cameron, Huntington Valley, defeated J. B. Elwell, Apawamis, 1 up, (20 holes;) Paul Clifford, Brae Burn, defeated A. R. Gibson, Rosedale, 1 up; W. H. Walker, Belmont Springs, defeated H. K. Wilcox, Orange G. C., 5 and 4; Walter Fairbanks, Denver, defeated D. W. Paige, Belleport, 3 and 2.

Beaten Eight—Alexander Julian, Cincinnati, defeated V. W. Skiff, Chicago, 5 and 4; G. F. Barnes, Englewood, defeated Charles Kaye, Hollywood, 3 and 2; E. A. Reid, Rivermead, defeated George Wright, Boston, 3 and 2; John Shepard, Jr., Providence, won from H. Pemberton, Caledonia, by default.

Second Division—H. L. Whitman, Myopia, defeated A. G. Homier, Washington, 2 and 1; A. L. Gooderham, Rosedale, defeated J. F. Halliwell, Philadelphia, 3 and 2; Wilmot Smith, Oakland, defeated H. E. Hoy, Morris County, 1 up, 19 holes; E. Sanders, New York, defeated A. F. Huston, Coatesville, 1 up.

Jock Soutar Joins U. S. Army.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Jan. 30.—Jock Soutar, the world's professional racquet and squash champion, has enlisted in the United States Field Artillery. While Soutar is a native of Brighton, England, he preferred to enter the service of the country which has been his home for many years by enlisting for Uncle Sam.

Browning and Loyola Sevens Tied.

The Browning School hockey team defeated the Loyola School seven yesterday morning at St. Nicholas Rink by a score of 7 to 1. The teams are now tied for first place in the interscholastic hockey series in Manhattan. Each has won three games and lost only one.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Difficult to Import Models.

Local importers of dresses and models from Paris are said to be very much concerned over the transportation situation. The increasing demands on all available shipping are making it more and more difficult to get cargo space for merchandise bound from France to this country. Many of these houses, therefore, are undertaking to create their own models, though in many cases pictures are made to serve where the originals cannot be obtained. "But it is becoming more evident every day," said one authority in the trade, "that before the war is over this country will have to depend almost entirely on its own ingenuity for new style creations."

Calico Dresses Gaining Favor.

Calico dresses, which were first offered to the trade a few weeks ago by some of the most exclusive houses as an appropriate wartime costume, seem to have "landed squarely on both feet." Several local manufacturers say that they have found a very ready market for these garments in many sections of the country and predict that they will be as much the rage this year as was the gingham dress of last year.

Conservative Styles at First.

The great bulk of the large volume of business which buyers are now placing with local manufacturers of popular-priced coats and suits is said to be in more or less conservative styles. Retailers seem to feel that in this grade of merchandise the extreme creations which have grown out of the efforts to conserve wool would not go at all. It is generally their opinion that the narrow skirts and the short, snug coats must first make their mark in the expensive lines before they can be successfully exploited in the cheaper grades.

Buying Less Into the Future.

There is said to be a growing disposition on the part of retailers throughout the country to exercise the greatest caution in buying to cover future needs. In many cases, instead of covering the whole season's requirements, the merchants are said only to be covering themselves for two or three months.

Fancy Neckwear Popular.

Makers of fancy neckwear for women have experienced, according to report, an unusually strong demand for Spring merchandise of the better sort. There have been several novelty weaves introduced in these lines this year, and they are apparently well liked. Where fancy materials have been used, simple trimmings are usually preferred. Glove silk is much in evidence in most lines, and seems to appeal to buyers. Pink and flesh color glove silk are the most popular and are taken with white floral designs in hand embroidery.

It May Prove a Blessing.

The old adage about the ill wind that blows nobody good is again in order. This time it applies to the garment industries and takes the form of the "workless" order of the Fuel Administration. Largely because of this order, it is asserted, there will be an underproduction of women's outer garments this season that will more than overbalance, from a business point of view, the somewhat subnormal demand for them that conservative buyers are apparently preparing for.

Gray Goods Prices Hold.

A variety of cloths sold in the local gray goods market yesterday, one of the features being the improved demand for combed yarn lawns. February-March deliveries of 96-100, 7-yard goods of this kind sold at 16½ cents, which is an advance of half a cent a yard over the price current a week ago. A similar thing was true of 88-80, 8.50s, which brought 13½ cents. Among the interesting happenings in the sheetings was the sale of 40-inch 2.50s, for deliveries running to July, at 24½ cents. They are now said to be scarce for any delivery at that figure. Other sheetings were in demand and very firmly held. Spot supplies of 4.70 and 5-yard goods are said to be entirely missing from the market. Among the printcloth sales of the day were nearby Eastern 27-inch 64-60s, which brought 10 cents. Prices closed this way for spots:

39-inch, 72-76s	15¼c	38½-inch, 64-56s	11⅝c
39-inch, 68-72s	14¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	11¼c
39-inch, 56-44s	10¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	11¼c
38½-inch, 64-64s	13¼c	27-inch, 64-60s	9½c

HIGH PRICES AT FUR SALE.

Pelts Sold in the Two Days Amount to About $1,500,000.

High prices were again the rule at the fur auction in the Masonic Hall here yesterday, with silver fox and marten most in demand. The best silver fox brought $385, and was bought by A. Fisher. Other silver fox buyers included E. Weingreen of London, C. G. Gunther's Sons, M. Freundlich, Goetze Frères of Paris, H. Berger & Co., A. Bases, Halle Brothers of Cleveland, Joseph Ullman, and J. Liebster of Washington. The demand for these furs was very active when the best skins were put up, the bidders including the larger dealers, manufacturers and representatives of well-known specialty shops.

Henri Bendel of this city bought the best marten pelt, which brought $61.50. The next highest priced one went to H. Jaeckel & Sons, other buyers including Kaufman & Oberleder, A. N. Leventhal & Co., and Eisenbach Brothers & Co.

At the close of the afternoon session it was said that the total sales for the two days were about $1,500,000. Compared with the October sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, these advances were shown: Australian fox, 25 per cent.; badger, 15 per cent.; Japanese marten, 30 per cent.; silver fox, 15 per cent.; gray fox, 40 per cent.; and marten, 15 per cent.

The sale will go on today at 10 A. M., the skins to be sold including leopard, mole, mink, Japanese mink, muskrat, and black muskrat.

Five Opportunities in Public Utility Bonds

Public Utilities stand third in the coal priority order of the Fuel Administrator

PUBLIC UTILITIES are a powerful factor, both directly and indirectly, in the prosecution of the war.

Their efficiency and prosperity are indispensable to communities at all times. They are the arteries which feed our present-day development.

There are five public utility bond issues of unusual attractiveness, yielding from 6.00% to 6.83%, to which we invite your special attention.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

With the Steel dividend meeting out of the way, interest in the stock market yesterday returned again to some of the less active issues in which satisfactory gains were made on relatively small dealings. The market was fairly broad and active, but dealings were desultory outside of half a dozen industrials. Steel common opened up nearly a point from Tuesday's close, but ended the session with only a small gain. Strength was more pronounced in People's Gas, Ohio Cities Gas, General Motors, and Distillers. On the whole, the failure of the public to follow up the rise in Steel which preceded the dividend meeting proved disappointing to the professionals, and plainly emphasized the indifference which has persisted in spite of frequent efforts to attract attention to the opportunities in the stock market.

The most disappointing feature of the day's market activities was the continued weakness in the United States bonds. All three of the Liberty Loan issues made new low records on the Stock Exchange, the conversion 4s breaking through 96 on the final sale. The Street is greatly puzzled as to the manner in which Secretary McAdoo will attempt to handle another loan without increasing the interest rate to 4½ per cent., a step which he is loathe to take. The suggestion that the real purpose back of the proposed formation of the War Finance Corporation is to supply an agency for stabilizing prices of outstanding Government loans has not received much consideration in financial circles. The more thoughtful discussion which Secretary McAdoo's newest measure received yesterday led to general criticism against the extent of the powers delegated to the Secretary himself. As discussed in conferences which preceded the announcement the bill was not expected to provide for a board so closely controlled by one man, nor was it understood that the new corporation would be authorized to unload $4,000,000,000 of notes upon the banks. The reception of the bill by leaders in Congress has led to the hope that the objectionable features will be removed before it reaches its final form.

Steel trade publications emphasize the unhappy condition to which attention has been called at frequent intervals since the piling up of transportation difficulties. The Iron Age points out that the whole industry has been demoralized by bad weather conditions until there is today little trace of the old aspect in the markets or in plant operation. Fresh storms and continued cold have largely defeated plans for lifting freight blockades, with the result that operations at the steel centres will be impeded for some days to come. The transportation problem has grown worse rather than better, despite the relief afforded in some localities by the Garfield closing order. Attention was called yesterday to the serious consequences which must result if grain accumulated for the Allies is not soon brought from the interior to ships which have been provided for its removal.

Although the amount involved is small, considerable interest was aroused yesterday by the emergency financing undertaken by the Baltimore & Ohio through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. In order to meet obligations contracted before the Government took over the railroads this company has borrowed $8,000,000 from a number of banks for a period of only six months. The Pennsylvania similarly has been a large borrower without increasing its funded debt. Obviously, the railroads are taking this unusual step only because of the uncertainty which now attends the plans of the Administration for financing railroad needs or making it possible for them to meet their own requirements.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Gilt-Edged Securities Inactive Owing to Sale of War Bonds.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The stock market was steady today. Gilt edged securities were inactive, owing to the tank campaign for the sale of war bonds. Weakness in Spanish issues was the feature in the foreign section.

Shipping shares were mostly firmer, and in mines attention was directed to Rhodesians and also a few speculative tins at improving values. In oils only the low-priced stocks were wanted, while iron industries were active and higher.

There was a large turnover in money and discount rates were firm.

B. & O. BORROWS $8,000,000.

Places Six-Months Notes with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company borrowed $8,000,000 yesterday on six months' notes placed through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. The loan was absorbed privately by banks and trust companies, and no public offering is contemplated. In effect, the borrowing was in the nature of a time bank loan, being secured by Reading Company stock which the Baltimore & Ohio holds as an investment, and the rate was understood to be approximately the same as six months' time money commands, in the neighborhood of 6 per cent.

The loan was looked upon in the financial district as a significant development of the Government's plan to operate the railroads during the war period. The company needed the money for additional equipment and for construction work, and through the short-term financing avoided the heavier charges which a longer loan would have commanded, at the same time providing funds necessary for the immediate future. When the loan matures it is expected that the Government will be in position either to retire the notes or refund them by a new issue put out under Federal supervision.

It was reported that the Pennsylvania and the Chicago & Northwestern had arranged similar loans of $5,000,000 each at 5¾ per cent. interest. Bankers interested in these properties said the rumor was not correct as to details, and declined to comment on the financial plans of the railroads. It is expected that several carriers whose construction schedules, particularly for military purposes, require new funds will enter the market shortly for loans of short maturities.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Steel Continues to Drift.

The initial rush to buy Steel common yesterday betokened some perturbation among the shorts because of the continuance of the large extra dividend, but sufficient stock was offered to prevent anything like a "runaway market." The initial gain of close to a point was not maintained for long, and after the first half-hour Steel drifted, little changed in the character of the dealings from that of recent days. Now that a survey of the Steel Corporation's operations and results in 1917 is possible, many traders are wondering why they thought the extra disbursements might be radically lowered. The corporation arranged to turn over a vast amount of its earnings to the Government, yet there was an ample margin over tax reservations for the dividend.

Having had their calculations upset by the Steel Directors, the chronic bears were forced to stagger yesterday in seeking a footing for their future operations in the stock. While reports from manufacturing centres denote a marked reduction of output in the current quarter and a consequent lowering of earnings, they do not supply a prophecy as to the next dividend vote. The quarter is still young, and the two months which lie ahead may bring better results than now seem probable. The income last quarter available for dividends on the junior shares allowed a margin of more than 3 per cent. above the amount to be distributed. It might be assumed that, even though the present quarter saw most of this margin wiped out, the return to share owners would not be reduced.

Inland Steel's War Taxes.

The Inland Steel Company's statement for 1917 shows that more than 44 per cent. of the year's income above depreciation and fixed charges was set aside to meet the Federal taxes. Despite this heavy inroad the final net profit of $10,535,068 was about $80,000 more than in 1916, and 1916 was an excellent year. The net was equal to slightly more than $42 a share of stock.

New Low Records for All Liberty Bonds.

All three classes of Liberty Loan bonds—the 3½ per cents. of the First Loan, the 4 per cent. of the Second, and the conversion 4s of the First—made new low records on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The 4s of the Second Loan, on transactions totaling $1,740,000, dropped to 95.96, ($959.60 per $1,000,) which was the final quotation. The previous low record, 96.14, was established on Tuesday, and yesterday's net loss was .18. The 3½s of the First Loan declined to 97.30, although the closing price was 97.38 on transactions of $387,000. The conversion 4s, which were dealt in only to the extent of $105,000, sold down to 96.50, and closed at 96.60.

February Disbursements.

Next month a total of $156,336,000 will be paid out in dividends and interest, according to a compilation made by The Journal of Commerce. This compares with $154,420,000 in February, 1917. The figures include the returns from 130 industrial and miscellaneous corporations, 22 steam railroads, 21 traction companies, and the foreign Government issues.

The Next Liberty Loan.

Commenting upon the next Liberty Loan, Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, in a letter to correspondents, says: "Properly directed, the American public can be depended on to support the forthcoming loan to its utmost power. But it is to the bankers of the nation that the public will undoubtedly look for guidance, and unless the bankers accept their responsibity and recognize the increased importance of the part they have to play in war financing public subscriptions will lag. In its loyalty and patriotism the public has already subscribed more than its normal savings for a given year to Liberty Loans; approached for a third time with an earnest appeal from every banker of the country, and impressed with the need of subscribing more liberally than at any time before, there can be little doubt of the public's ultimate action with regard to the forthcoming third Liberty Loan."

M'Adoo's $500,000,000 Corporation.

Although bankers are reluctant to criticise publicly Secretary McAdoo, nevertheless in private conversation many readily admit that they cannot approve of his proposed bill providing for the $500,000,000 War Finance Corporation. Bankers have been, and still are, of the opinion that the Government ought to do something to relieve the embarrassing position of corporations which require funds and cannot finance themselves through the usual channels, but they believe that there is no need for going to the extent suggested by Mr. McAdoo. Bankers who had discussed the matter with Government officials were surprised to find that Secretary McAdoo's bill provided for the rediscounting of the obligations of the War Finance Corporation, for it was their understanding that, while the corporation would lend money, its notes would not be made eligible for rediscount. A banker who has given the subject a great deal of study, and who enjoys a high reputation for sound banking, said yesterday: "The object of Mr. McAdoo's bill is all right, but the machinery he proposes to set up is dangerous, and would no doubt cause trouble. If the banks are to invest their funds in obligations of the Finance Corporation, they will be unable to help out the Government by buying Treasury certificates of indebtedness, and if the corporation is to put out billions and billions of notes with the view of having them rediscounted at the Federal Reserve Banks, our whole banking machinery will become hopelessly congested. In my opinion the proposed bill will have to be greatly modified. The Federal Reserve Board has not yet been heard from, and I believe that Congress should not consider any piece of financial legislation until the same has the approval of the Reserve Board—a body in which the bankers and the public at large have confidence, and whose judgment can be relied upon implicitly."

NATIONAL CLOAK EARNINGS.

Net Sales in 1917 Reach $27,649,537, a Gain of $6,095,307.

The National Cloak and Suit Company had its best year in 1917, net sales amounting to $27,649,537, a gain of $6,095,307 over the result in 1916. The management set aside $524,156 as the estimated Federal war tax, and the year's net profit amounted to $2,046,483, compared with $2,041,052 the year before. This was equal to 14.35 per cent. on the common stock.

The annual statement issued yesterday showed current assets amounting to $7,724,436 at the end of the year, including $1,399,817 cash. The excess of quick assets over current liabilities was $3,978,982. The Directors set aside a special reserve of $500,000 to provide against possible adjustments of inventory values in the future.

STORMS DEMORALIZE THE STEEL INDUSTRY

CONDITION WORST IN YEARS

Works in Pennsylvania and All Middle West Are Floundering in Snow Blockade.

The series of blizzards which swept over the Middle Western States during the last week have multiplied the troubles of the iron and steel trade by making transportation conditions worse than they have been in a long period of years. Not only the railroad, but also river carrying facilities have suffered a heavy blow by the continuance of bad weather.

"Iron and steel works of Pennsylvania and all the Middle West are floundering in a snow blockade," says The Iron Age, "worse than any in the last two months of such visitations. The whole industry has been so demoralized that there is today little trace of a normal aspect in markets or in plant operation.

"Chicago is making painfully slow recovery from a nearly complete shutdown, with little hope of decided improvement apart from milder weather and an early Spring. In Western Pennsylvania heavy snows on Monday paralyzed traffic and it took more than twenty-four hours to dig out trains climbing over the Alleghany Mountains. Pennsylvania and Central Western blast furnaces and steel works are operating at from 50 to 75 per cent. of capacity, and there is little prospect of real relief while Winter lasts. Blast furnaces get little coke and what is delivered is so poor that more off iron than standard grades is made. At Connellsville coke ovens 35 per cent. car supply is about the average.

"Fresh storms and cold have largely defeated the plans for breaking freight blockades, and at steel works piled-up stocks of finished product will impede operations for days and in some cases weeks. The scarcity of cars to move product from the mills is thus fully as serious a factor as scarcity of coal and coke. The chief gain from the shutdown order thus far has been in the coaling of vessels at Atlantic ports. A very promising start has been made in releasing thousands of tons of steel and munitions awaiting shipment to American and allied armies.

"War shipments make up 75 per cent. of the current movement in the heavier finished steel lines. It has been surprising, in fact, on how small a part of the output the country has maintained its ordinary consumption in the last two months.

"How large has been the volume of Government fabricated steel work, particularly for the fabricated ship program, is indicated by the 205,000 tons of bookings by bridge and structural shops in December, 14 per cent. above rated capacity. Over one-third of last year's business was done in the last quarter. Two years ago a spurt due to plant extensions gave a total in December, 1915, of 208,500 tons, but general building was not heavily checked then as now."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Evidences of improvement are decidedly spotty, and the worst conditions in many years of river traffic at Pittsburgh have strongly combined with the rail congestion to prolong the heavy loss of production in that district. Snow drifts in the Allegany Mountains have cut off the Connellsville coke region from many blast furnaces. It is estimated officially that operations of open hearth plants in the Greater Pittsburgh and valley districts last week were at 59 per cent. of capacity, and wblast furnace and coke oven productions were at 66 per cent.

"While production of merchant pig iron on the whole has improved, restrictions of shipments remain severe. As a result, various furnaces have been piling iron. Another wave of war buying appears to be coming on in finished materials."

U. S. Certificates Oversubscribed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The issue of $400,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness, which closed last night, was heavily oversubscribed, the Treasury Department announced today. The allotments will be made as soon as all subscriptions are reported. The certificates are payable April 22.

THE COTTON MARKET

Trading, Although Irregular, Is Less Active and Tone Generally Steadier.

The cotton market yesterday, although irregular, was less active and the tone was generally steadier, owing to continued firmness of the spot situation, and the appearance of further trade buying on declines. Demand failed to broaden on advances, and after showing net gains of about 20 to 30 points, prices reacted rather sharply, but closed very steady on a final spurt of covering. Quotations were net 12 points higher to 2 points lower. March contracts were relatively firm on reports that preparations were being made to ship considerable cotton out of the local stock, selling up to 30.52c and closing at 30.30c.

The steadier ruling of the market was attributed chiefly to the continued absence of spot pressure and the firmer technical position following the recent decline in futures. The talk was that a good many contracts had been taken out of the market by trade interests on the recent decline, and that spinners still had considerable cotton on which they would have to fix prices. There was still a good deal of bearish talk around the ring, which was encouraged by reports of increasing fuel scarcity in New England, the difficulties of transportation and other unsettling features, but sellers showed increased caution and smaller offerings rendered the market more sensitive to the moderate demand from trade sources or covering.

The opening was 1 to 9 points higher, and after some irregularity the market worked up to 30.92c for May and 29.61c for July, or about 56 to 57 points above the low level of Tuesday.

The weather map showed no rain in the Southwest, with the forecast for continued dry and colder weather. This may have been a factor on the early advance, but the bullish points chiefly discussed were the disparity between contracts and spot values and claims that a considerable short interest had accumulated during the progress of the recent decline. Little more was heard about the possibilities of Government price-fixing and no fresh light was thrown on the situation in that respect. Exports for the day were 2,028 bales, making 2,423,870 bales so far this season.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

WHEAT.

The receipts of wheat were very moderate at Western points and it was said that the Food Administration was urging farmers to sell more freely. Advices from Liverpool stated that it is expected that the United States will be able to continue shipping wheat and flour at the rate of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels per month and that Canada will continue to ship substantial quantities, while there are prospects of large reinforcements from the Southern Hemisphere.

RYE—The rye market was very strong with prices sharply higher, cash prices being up 12c per bushel to $2.80 cost and freight New York, owing to the very active demand due to the increased requirements for rye flour to substitute for wheat.

CORN.

The principal features in the corn market were the movement and the spot demand. The necessity of moving the corn to market is becoming more and more urgent. The Government realizes the seriousness of the situation, and under direction of Director General McAdoo the railroads are making strenuous efforts to relieve the position. Weather conditions, however, continue abnormally bad, and railroads have never had to struggle against such conditions as have prevailed this Winter. The local cash market was strong; kiln dried No. 3 yellow quoted at $1.84½, and No. 3 mixed at $1.83¾, cost and freight, New York, prompt shipment, subject to embargoes; Argentine corn, $2.10 asked, freight on board, cars.

OATS.

After showing a slightly easier feeling early on reports of a less active export demand, the oats market developed renewed strength and made new high records, closing with net gains of ⅝ to 1⅛c. Shorts were anxious buyers but found offers limited. Cash prices in the West were firm with premiums somewhat extended and it is evident that the cash demand continues to run ahead of the movement. The local cash market was firm; natural quoted at $1 to $1.02; clipped white, $1.03 to $1.04; standard oats, 95c to $1, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Prices in the provisions market were firm and higher, with light offers and a more active demand. Hog receipts were light, with prices 20 to 25 points higher at the yards. It was said that the Government was in the market and that allotments were being arranged. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 16,000; estimated for today, 35,000. Kansas City received 15,000 and Omaha 14,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

The market for coffee futures was again reactionary, with buyers showing less enthusiasm. After opening at declines of 5 to 10 points prices kept within a comparatively narrow range, the market closing at net losses of 1 to 7 points. This, with Tuesday's decline, made a loss of about 40 points from the top of the bull movement reached on Saturday. Much of yesterday's selling was in the form of profit taking and liquidation, and while there were rumors that large Western interests had buying orders in the market for a large block, most of the business was confined to small lots. The Exchange cable from Brazil reported the Rio spot market unchanged. Santos spots 50 reis lower and Santos futures irregular, 25 reis lower to 100 reis higher. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

In refined sugar the situation is beginning to show improvement. Practically all New York refiners have started up their local plants, but some outside of the city have not yet commenced operations. Distribution continues in a moderate way, but about the middle of next month it is believed there will be ample sugar for all requirements. In raw sugar the International Commitee reported purchases of 20,000 bags Cubas, immediate loading, at 4.985c.

The Shipping Board is said to have sufficient steamers to move about 50,000 tons Porto Rico sugar and upwards of 200,000 tons of Cubas during February. With this amount of sugar shipped during the next month it is believed that normal conditions will shortly prevail.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,850 packages. Rather more buying interest and a little firmer market for the choice and fancy fresh table grades, some sales of which were at an advance of ½c. Medium qualities firm but without material change. Quite sharp inquiry for storage butter. Creamery, higher than extras, a lb., 52@52½c; extras, (92 score,) 51@51½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 48½@50½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 45½@48c; thirds, 43½@45c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 54@54½c; extras, 53@53½c; firsts, 49½@52c; seconds, 46½@49c; creamery, held, extras, 47c; firsts, 46½@47c; seconds, 45@46c; thirds, 42@44c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 50@50½c; good to prime, 48@49½c; common to fair, 43@47½c; renovated, extras, 44½@45c; firsts, 43@44c; lower grades, 40@42c; ladles, current makes, firsts, 39½@40c; seconds, 39c; lower grades, 37½@38½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 39c; No. 2, 38@38½c; lower grades, 35@37½c.

EGGS.—Receipts, 4,275 cases. Market for fresh opened uncertain and easier, with opening sales at 62c on the Mercantile Exchange, but 62½c was afterward freely bid, and, with reports of another severe cold wave in the Northwest, the tone strengthened, firsts closing at 62½@63c, with reserved offerings, and little prime stock obtainable under top figure. A car of California whites sold at auction at 64c for No. 1 and 57c for pullets; some private sales of prime stock at 65@66c, rarely a little more for extras. Few storage eggs obtainable, and demand considerably beyond the supply. Sales mostly at 48c downward, but natural value much above that for prime stock. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 65c; extra firsts, 63@64c; firsts, 62½@63c; seconds and poorer, 56@62c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 68@68c; ordinary to good, 63@65c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 63@66c; Pacific Coast, 57@66c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 65@66c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 63@65c.

SEES GOOD BOND OUTLOOK.

Theodore E. Burton Expects New York to be World's Financial Centre.

Theodore E. Burton, President of the Merchants National Bank, told members of the Bond Club at the monthly luncheon yesterday in the Bankers Club rooms that while financial calculations for the future could not safely be made until the war ended, the outlook for investments was improving.

"I believe there will be an increasing demand for your services in the future," he said. "The industrial operations of the country cannot cease. As time progresses the Treasury Department will recognize the necessity for prompt disbursement to aid all those who are taking part in manufacturing and furnishing articles that are necessary for war, and that is likely to make money easier.

"It is inevitable that the operations of the whole world in the years that are to come are going to centre around this coity. The financial centre of the world, if you go back to remote antiquity, was first at Tyre, then at Carthage, then at Rome, then for centuries at Venice, then it shifted to Amsterdam, then to London, and now it is inevitable that the centre of the world's greatest financial operations will change from the banks of the Thames to the banks of the Hudson. No one can foretell the greatness of this city in its commerce and finance."

Ex-Senator Burton devoted most of his address to the war, reviewing events which led to the conflict and America's part in the struggle.

General Chemical Profit $7,671,181.

The General Chemical Company saved a net profit last year of $7,671,181 from a gross return amounting to $11,694,686, after setting aside $1,800,000 for Government war taxes and making substantial reservations for insurance and depreciation. In 1916 the profit was $2,024,000 larger, although taxes then wese much smaller. The surplus for 1917 after dividends had been paid was $4,320,160, and the total surplus was $15,719,170, against $11,399,010 a year before.

Will Your Customers Gain or Lose?

Business today is a series of re-investments at increased prices. To buy at $100 and sell at $110 and rebuy at $120 is simply to end with a case of goods. The ultimate disposal of the goods, when prices fall, will alone show the profit or loss.

An Unlimited American Credit Insurance Bond means security for you regardless of future adverse conditions.

And besides affording absolute protection against abnormal credit losses, it provides that the Company collect your covered accounts not over 45 days past due, or the loss is provable under the Bond. Send for further information.

AMERICA DOMINANT AS BANKING POWER

Increase of Over 50% in Five Years Shown by Controller Williams's Report.

WANTS CAPITAL PROTECTED

Essential to National Safety, He Holds, That Public Utility Corporations Be Kept Solvent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—How the United States has become the dominant banking power of the world is shown in the annual report of the Controller of the Currency, John Skelton Williams, presented today to Congress.

Controller Williams estimates the whole banking power of the nation at $37,529,000,000, an increase of more than $14,000,000,000 since the beginning of President Wilson's Administration. Taking the latest estimate of the banking power of the world, placed in 1890 at $15,558,000,000, America's increase alone is nearly equal to the world's combined banking power twenty-seven years ago, and on that basis now two and a half times as great.

National banks of the United States, Controller Williams declares, are stronger, safer, more observant of laws, and more efficiently managed than ever before. Their resources—$18,553,197,000—are by more than $2,000,000,000 greater than ever before and exceed by about the same amount the combined resources of all State banks, private banks, and trust companies. Under three years of the Federal Reserve system national bank resources have increased more than $7,000,000,000.

Attention is called to the decline of earning capacity of public utility corporations and the consequent shrinkage in the value of their securities. The danger, the Controller insists, is a real one, which should stimulate the efforts of Congress and of every patriotic citizen. Upon the efficiency and strength of these corporations, he says, we are largely dependent for speed and success in preparing for and prosecuting the war. With an increase in the cost of labor and of all materials necessary for operation and upkeep, increasing demands are being made upon them for quicker service and greater facilities.

The first and most direct relief to the public utilities corporations can be given, he thinks, by the State public utilities commissions and municipal and local authorities understanding the necessities of war and realizing that the more promptly its burdens are accepted the sooner they will be lifted. He bespeaks forbearance and consideration by the State commissions and municipal authorities, and comments upon the importance of permitting charges for services which "will keep in them the breath of solvency, protect their owners against unjust loss, and give them a basis of credit on which they may obtain the funds with which to meet the strain put on them by the Government's needs." He says that the breaking down of these corporations would be a national calamity.

He also expresses the hope that Congress may give early consideration to some measure to provide, directly or indirectly, for advance of funds on some conservative basis to such of these corporations as need help most urgently, so that they may give adequate service to the Government. The remedy, he concedes, would be unusual—but the times are unusual.

REORGANIZE LOAN CONCERN

Eagle Company Retains Name, but Will Move Offices.

At a meeting of the Reorganization Committee of the Eagle Savings and Loan Company at the law offices of Latson & Tamblyn, 55 John Street, yesterday afternoon the old Eagle Company was dissolved and a new company bearing the same name was established in its place. Shareholders of the old company have the alternative of accepting stock and 4 per cent. bonds in the new company in exchange for their securities at par, or of selling their securities for cash at 66 2-3 per cent. of their par value to the new company. Aimet Reed Latson is the attorney for the Reorganization Committee, which is composed of Francis E. Pouch, George E. Kollmyer, and Daniel W. Robertson.

Mr. Eatson said last night that the Eagle Savings and Loan Company had ceased several years ago to operate because of the losses it had suffered from working under a premium system which had been imported from Germany.

"I was called in to unravel the tangle of claims and ligation," he said, "which enmeshed the Eagle Company, and the formation of a new organization which will operate a loan and mortgage business under the business laws, not the banking laws, seemed to be the only plan that was fair to all.

The Eagle Company had offices at 186 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, but it was announce dthat they would be changed.

WANTS CHEAPER POSTAGE.

Demand from Queens for Uniform Rate Within the City.

Communications have been sent to the members of the Committees on Post Roads and Post Offices of the Senate and House of Representatives by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, urging their approval of the amendment introduced by Senator William M. Calder, to provide for a postage rate of 2 cents an ounce on all first-class mail mailed in the city for delivery within all of the five boroughs.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution protesting against the discrimination which the postal regulations create by compelling a 3-cent rate of postage on letters mailed to adjoining postal districts of New York City. There are fourteen different postal zones in New York City.

WOOL MARKET IS STRONG.

Prices Have Reached a Balancing Point—Expected to Remain Steady.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"With the indications of a higher cotton price and the possibility of a lower wool price, it is felt that it may be easier to sell all-wool fabrics after the war terminates and less profitable to sell mixture fabrics, because they will not appear attractive in price. Producers of woolen fabrics will have to figure much more carefully upon peace than the producers of cotton fabrics. It is felt that the quotations for raw materials and the demand for goods will have a great influence in the character of fabrics when peace comes.

"The woolen goods market is very strong. The price of wool seems to have reached a balancing point. Unless mill conditions change radically, quotations are likely to remain steady.

"The cotton goods market appears stronger than it has been. The relative supply of goods available for ordinary industries is becoming smaller, the costs of production are increasing, and the influence of supply and demand more apparent than it has been up to the present time."

MAYOR SEEKS LOWER TAXES

Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of Committee to Investigate Problem.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed a committee representing all boroughs to take up the subject of taxation in conjunction with the Tax Commission for the purpose of relieving the burden on real estate. It is to be called the Mayor's Committee on Taxation and Investigation of Mortgage Loans. Nathan Hirsch was made Chairman and other Manhattan members are William R. Hearst, William B. May, Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Bryan L. Kennelly. The Brooklyn representatives are Charles Partridge and Sig Cederstrom, while the Bronx is represented by William C. Bergen, Queens by George J. Ryan, and Richmond by Walter S. E. Hall.

The committee is to investigate institutions and individual money lenders who, Mayor Hylan believes, are unduly oppressing the small owner of real estate by calling mortgages, obtaining excessive rates in case of renewal, and in general "using their power to reduce in value the most valuable asset that the City of New York has."

Bar Liberty Bonds for Tax Paymet.

William H. Edwards, Collector of the Second or Wall Street Internal Revenue Office, said yesterday that correspondence reaching him indicated that many taxpayers had been erroneously advised that liberty bonds would be received in payment of taxes due the United States. Upon advice from Washington the Collector stated that Liberty bonds could not be accepted in payment of such taxes. To accept such bonds for taxes, the Collector said, would defeat the revenue ends.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. WIN.

Court Holds That Raincoat They Made Did Not Infringe Patent.

Judge A. N. Hand of the Federal District Court, in a decision just handed down, holds that Sears, Roebuck & Co. in manufacturing a certain type of raincoat did not violate a patent granted to Bernard I. Fligel. Fligel, a manufacturer of raincoats, brought an infringement action in the local Federal Court because Sears, Roebuck is incorporated here. The decision, which dismissed the suit with costs, is expected to be of interest to the garment trade. It said in part:

"On the whole I think complainants' device is too slight a contribution to the garment industry to indicate any invention, and that even if any invention were involved, the defendant has not infringed." The type of coat involved in the suit has a convertible collar and hood. Munn & Munn and T. Hart Anderson represented the plaintiff and Duell, Warfield & Duell the defendant.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The action of the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation in maintaining the 3 per cent. extra dividend on the common stock was responded to by the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange at the opening of business. Realizing apparently was invited, this selling bringing about a quite general market reaction. At the same time, the undertone was not at all weak, the recessions in prices generally falling within moderate limits, and in the later dealings prices again improved.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Delmonico Will Establish New Restaurant at 23 William St. and in Adjoining Property.

Ever since the famous old Delmonico restaurant at Beaver and William Streets was sold to a firm of marine insurance brokers speculation has been rife as to whether or not new quarters would be obtained to house the noted eating place. Even after the doors were closed there was no announcement regarding a future location, although rumors arose from time to time to the effect that a new restaurant would be opened in the immediate neighborhood.

It was learned yesterday that interests identified with the Delmonico establishment had leased for a term of twenty-one years from the John G. McCullough estate the five-story building at 23 William Street, on a lot 23.4 by 140.11, together with the rear portion of 53 Beaver Street, providing a total depth of 172 feet. The reported rental was $20,000 a year.

Space comprising about 4,000 feet at grade in the rear of the Lords Court Building at 27 William Street was also acquired through Pease & Elliman.

Extensive alterations to cost about $50,000 will be made to the various properties from plans by Henry Ives Cobb. The restaurant will have a seating capacity of 500. It is expected to be ready for occupancy about May 1.

Quick Resale of Washington Heights Apartment House.

A quick turnover of a west side apartment house was reported yesterday by the Benenson Realty Company, which resold to Frederick Brown, operator, 710 West 179th Street.

The property, which consists of a five-story flat, on a plot 50 by 92.6, held at $75,000, was acquired by the seller Tuesday in exchange for the five-story flat house on the west side of Southern Boulevard, 75 feet south of Fairmount Place. The resale was negotiated by James Boyd.

Tenant Buys Grand Street Building.

The Conkling Estate sold 343 Grand Street, a three-story building on lot 21.11 by 74.11, near Ludlow Street, to Israel W. Schenker, the tenant, who was represented by Rogers & Rogers, as attorneys. William H. Sage acted for the sellers, who have owned the property since 1888.

Buyer for Private Dwelling.

The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company sold to Nelson Zabriskie 127 West Eighty-fifth Street, a three and one-half story brick dwelling on a lot 18.6 by 97.6. The purchaser will occupy. Mrs. Landon was the broker.

Auction Buyers Active.

Outside buyers continue to be identified with auction room business. Alexander McDowell, Washington Heights builder, bought the plot 70 by 100, at the southwest corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 179th Street, for $24,600. The parcel was offered by Bryan L. Kennelly for the executors of the estate of Stuart Crockett. The plot will be held for eventual improvement.

Louis Kalescher, dealer in scrap metal at 183 Christopher Street, was the successful bidder at the foreclosure sale of that property to satisfy a judgment of $8,214. He paid $9,175 for the building, which is three stories in height and covers a lot 23.6 by 63.9, between Washington and Weehawken Streets. L. J. Phillips & Co. conducted the sale.

Two Broadway Buildings Transferred, Subject to $122,500 Mortgage.

The Leonac Realty Company secured title yesterday to 924 and 926 Broadway, two four-story buildings on a plot 39 by 107 by irregular, located twenty-two feet north of Twenty-first Street and forming part of the old Hotel Courte. Ester C. Nelson transferred the property, subject to a mortgage of $122,500.

Brooklyn.

Tutino & Cerny sold for George W. Ammon to a client for occupancy the two-story and cellar limestone dwelling, 654 Fifty-sixth Street.

Queens Borough Sales.

B. McLaughlin sold a plot 100 by 100 feet on the southwest corner of Wolcott Avenue and Warren Street, Long Island City, to the Astoria Boat Works and Marine Equipment Company. The company also purchased a plot 100 by 110 feet, on the southeast corner of Wolcott Avenue and Hancock Street, from A. Palmer.

Standard Oil Company Buys $32,500 Site for Employes' Clubhouse.

A plot of sixteen lots on the southwest corner of Avenue E and East Twenty-third Street, Bayonne, N. J., has been purchased by the Standard Oil Company as a clubhouse site for its employes.

The property, which has a frontage of 175 feet and a depth of 198, was sold by the Consumers Coal and Ice Company for $32,500.

New Jersey.

The United Motors Company purchased from the Hyatt Roller Bearing Company its plant at Harrison, N. J., consisting of six four and eight story brick factories. Included in the sale are twenty-four vacant lots on Middlesex, Fourth, Somerset, and Hunterdon Streets.

The United New Jersey Railroad & Canal Company sold to James Billington a plot 150 by 254, on the north side of Magnolia Avenue, and two plots on the south side of Magnolia Avenue, near Summit Avenue, Jersey City.

James Billington resold the plot 37 by 100, on the south side of Magnolia Avenue, adjoining the parcel purchased by the Jersey City Lodge, No. 211, B. P. O. E., for a clubhouse to the Elks Building Association.

Westchester County.

Fish & Marvin sold for Lieutenant James M. Fallon, Jr., his new Colonial residence on Clay Avenue, Pelham Manor, to James A. E. Ackland of Hackensack, N. J. The property was held at $9,000.

Buyer for Nyack Estate.

James H. Cruikshank has sold to George A. Leitner the Bradshaw property at Nyack, N. Y., consisting of a fourteen-room dwelling and four acres of land. H. J. McGinley was the broker in the transaction.

$300,000 Harlem Garage Lease.

As a site for a two-story and basement garage the New West Side Garage Corporation has leased from the Stalwart Realty Company, which is the holding company for the properties of Lucy Work Hewitt, the plot on the northwest corner of Cathedral Parkway and Lenox Avenue, running through to St. Nicholas Avenue and 111th Street, containing 25,000 square feet.

The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $300,000. Ames & Co., Inc., negotiated the lease.

Commercial Leases.

Ames & Co. have leased the entire building at 523 East Seventy-third Street for James McGee to the Merchants Tobacco Company.

Charles G. Keller leased for Elmer A. Darling the store and basement 136 and 138 West Twenty-fourth Street to Charles H. Harris.

Thomas J. O'Reilly leased for a term of years 22,000 square feet at 132 to 138 West Twenty-seventh Street to the National Joint Limb Doll Company. This completes the renting of the entire property.

Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., leased, in conjunction with B. F. Kellar, the store adjoining the northeast corner of Broadway and Twenty-eighth Street for the United Realty Improvement Company for a term of years to T. Buzzi.

Education Notes.

Acting City Superintendent Straubenmuller reported yesterday the following number of graduates from the elementary schools at the close of the present term: Manhattan, 9,016; Brooklyn, 9,890; the Bronx, 5,389; Queens, 2,215; Richmond, 442. The total is 26,952, or 93.7 per cent. of the register. Last January it was 93.5 per cent.

The Board of Superintendents yesterday nominated Principal Thomas O. Baker of P. S. 44, Throop and Putnam Avenues and Madison Street, Brooklyn, as District Superintendent to succeed Dr. John Griffin, who was retired on account of age.

District Superintendent Lyon on Jan. 14 suspended without pay Miss Ida Sofranski, a teacher in P. S. 147, Manhattan, for insubordination, neglect of duty, and general inefficiency. Her suspension was continued and her case will be investigated.

Because of the fuel situation, all classes meeting at the Washington Irving High School under the auspices of the Isaac Pitman Shorthand Writers Association will meet next Saturday and thereafter at the City College. A new section in elementary stenography is being organized this Saturday for teachers and prospective teachers.

Jacob Schleifer, junior craftsman in the Bureau of School Buildings, has resigned, to take effect on Feb. 2.

President Somers yesterday explained the attitude of the Board of Education in the matter of community centres. He said the board was in favor of them wherever it was possible. The shutting down of the privileges of some of the centres in the public schools was merely a temporary expedient caused by the lack of fuel. Acting City Supt. Straubenmuller said that where school buildings were used for evening classes the community people were allowed to continue their activities there. If the managers of the centres wanted to use unheated buildings, no objection was raised.

Police and Fire News.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Gulf disturbance of Tuesday night has nearly disappeared, without moving northward, but it has caused general rains in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States, heavy snow in Northern Virginia, District of Columbia, and Maryland, and snow is also falling tonight as far north as New York City.

There was no other precipitation except some light, scattered snows in front of the northwestern cold wave which tonight extends into Northwestern Texas and the Lower Missouri Valley, and some local snows and rains over the north districts west of the Rocky Mountains, due to another moderate disturbance over Southwestern Utah.

East of the Mississippi River the temperature has not changed materially, except in the Carolinas and GGeorgia, where it is considerably colder.

Rain will fall Thursday in the South Atlantic States and snow to the northeastward and northward into New England and the lower lake region, followed by generally fair weather Friday. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi River the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday.

It will be colder Thursday in the south upper lake and west lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the South, and colder Friday in the upper Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, and the Atlantic States.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate northeast, with snow; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate northeast and east, snow; South Atlantic Coast, moderate north, rain, and colder.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York, Southern New England, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Snow Thursday. Griday, colder and probably fair.

Western New York—Snow Thursday. Friday, colder and generally fair.

Northern New England—Increasing cloudiness Thursday; local snows at night or Friday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	40	17	4 P. M.	48	21
6 A. M.	38	17	8 P. M.	44	21
9 A. M.	43	20	9 P. M.	39	22
12 M.	46	22	11 P. M.	38	21

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 22; for the corresponding date last year it was 33; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 42.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 18, at 8 P. M. it was 22. Maximum temperature 27 degrees at 2:15 P. M., minimum 17 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity 65 per cent. at 8 A. M., 68 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.40 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.35 inches.

FOR ICE AND FOOD BILLS.

Senate War Committee Acts Favorably on Both Wagner Measures.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—After listening to a plea by Robert F. Wagner, minority leader, the Senate War Committee today took action on his measures, one providing for the harvesting and conservation of natural ice under State auspices, and the other empowering the State Food Control Commission to fix retail profits. The latter bill was reported favorably.

The question of ice conservation will be considered by a sub-committee composed of Senators Brown and Wagner, who will go to New York tomorrow to take the matter up with the State Food Control Commission, with a view to immediate action.

The bill giving the State Food Control Commission power to regulate profits was amended. In its original form the bill empowered the commission to fix retail prices. In its amended form it gives the commission the right to regulate the percentage of profit of retailers in commodities. The change was in accordance with a suggestion from Herbert Hoover, Federal Food Administrator, with whom Senator Wagner conferred last week.

"I am gratified at the prompt and favorable vote of the War Committee on my bills," said Senator Wagner tonight. "The committee was in absolute accord with both proposals, and the State may now loook forward to prompt action which I believe will be of great benefit to the people."

PLEA OF RINTELEN FOR FREEDOM DENIED

Court Overrules Motion to Dismiss the Indictments Charging Conspiracy.

TRIAL WILL BE RESUMED

Five of the Accused Men Intend to Testify in Their Own Behalf —Case Rests with Nine.

Contending that Franz Rintelen had come to this country merely as an emissary of good-will, with no sinister intentions further than to promote friendly commercial relations between the United States and Germany, George Gordon Battle, counsel for Rintelen, in the United States District Court yesterday asked for the dismissal of the indictments charging Rintelen and other defendants with conspiracy to place bombs on neutral ships. Judge Howe, after devoting the day to hearing arguments on the motion, denied the plea and ordered the resumption of the trial today.

Counsel for nine of the accused then announced that their case would rest. These defendants are Bode, Becker, Bonford, Boniface, Reister, Wolpert, von Kleist, Uhde, and Zeffert. The five defendants who intend to take the stand are Wilhelm Parades, Frederick K. Karbade, George Praedel, Karl Schmidt, and Franz Rintelen.

The motion for dismissal of the indictments was based on general grounds: That the court lacked jurisdiction, inasmuch as the ship Kirk Oswald, upon which the alleged bombs were found, was loaded in Brooklyn; that there was no evidence to show that the defendants carried or delivered the bombs to the ship; that there was no evidence to show that the articles found on the vessel at Marseilles were bombs intended to and capable of causing any destruction.

On behalf of the defendant Rintelen, Mr. Battle said that two years ago a number of American citizens thought it was either illegal or injudicious for the United States Government to ship munitions of war to one side in the European war when conditions made it impossible for the other side to take similar advantage of the privilege. He said men who held these views were neutral at that time, and though they may have continued in that opinion, they were now loyal and patriotic and eager to have the American military forces triumph over Germany in the conflict.

Maintaining that the alleged conspiracy charged in the indictment was hatched long before the arrival of Rintelen in this country in April, 1915, Mr. Battle said:

"The testimony given by one witness, Mr. Hammond, shows that Rintelen simply wanted to promote more friendly commercial relations between the United States and Germany. The desire which he expressed to get supplies through the English lines was legitimate. His utterance to Hammond that he was endeavoring to cause strikes in munition plants implies a sentiment which is undoubtedly open to criticism."

W. H. Wemple, representing the defendants Wolpert, von Kleist, and Boniface, moved that the court instruct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty for these three men, declaring that the Government had failed to connect them with the planting of the fire bombs on the Kerk Oswald. A similar motion was made by Jacob M. Schoenfeld in behalf of the defendant Zeffert. Assistant United States Attorney Osborne opposed all the motions on the ground that the testimony by direct implication and by inference established beyond a reasonable doubt the guilt of all the defendants.

SAYS GYROS WERE SCRATCHED

Lieutenant Tells of Defects in Torpedoes at Hennig Trial.

At the trial yesterday of Paul Hennig, former head of the gyroscope testing department of the E. W. Bliss torpedo plant in Brooklyn, charged with treason, before Judge Chatfield in the United States District Court, Lieutenant Francis Leo Shea, whose accusations caused the arrest of the defendant, was the principal witness. Lieutenant Shea is chief inspector in the Bliss works for the Government, and it was his duty to observe the testing of the gwro parts mechanism used on the torpedoes made by the Bliss works for the Government.

Lieutenant Shea described the testing roo min Hennig's department, and then told about defects in gyro parts, bearings, and tools which were assembled on a table in Hennig's department on Nov. 13. He related how defects were found in some of the gyro parts. Some of the bearings were scratched, he declared, which made them useless.

According to the witness, there was a testing table in Hennig's department at the plant of which gyro parts were assembled and tested. Paul Hennig, the defendant, had a desk near it, the witness said, and the table was operated by Karl Hennig, who was introduced by the defendant in the Bliss works as the defendant's son. Karl Hennig, after the developments at the Bliss works, left that place and went to work with the Sperry Gyroscope Company, the Lieutenant testified. On information furnished by Lieutenant Shea, Karl Hennig was later interned on Ellis Island.

Lieutenant Shea said he noticed that the testing table moved on a pivot. He said on the witness stand that he discovered the table was defeective and could be operated while the gyro parts were being tested in a way that would conceal any imperfections in the mechanism of the gyros. The witness said he drove a peg in the table to keep it steady.

"Fro mthe time I fastened the table," said the Lieutenant, "no more gyroscopes from Hennig's department ever passed the Government requirements."

"United States District Attorney Melville J. France, who is conducting the case for the Government, asked the witness about ninety-six gyros which had been sent to the stock room of the Bliss plant after discovery of the defective parts were made. Lieutenant Shea said that the bearings and centres were removed from all of them in the presence of Governmeent inspectors and locked up by him.

Arthur K. Wing, counsel for Hennig, on cross-examination, asked the witness whether his relations with the defendant were friendly or otherwise before the accused was arrested. Lieutenant Shea said he held no animus toward the defendant, and his only relations with him were in an official way.

Ensign Joseph A. Flynn of the U. S. N., who was called by the Government as an expert on guns, mines, and torpedoes, explained the workings of the torpedo gyroscope. He testified that the torpedo mechansms offered in evidence at the trial were defective and were unfit for use. He said they would render the operations of a torpedo ineffective.

The trial will be resumed today.

GUARD GOV. STEPHENS.

California Executive Protected After Receiving Threatening Letters.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 30.—A police guard was placed on duty at the office of Governor William D. Stephens in the State Capitol today. No explanation was offered. The Executive Mansion was damaged by a dynamite blast five weeks ago and since then the Governor has received numerous threatening letters.

In connection with the explosion fifty-five members of the Industrial Workers of the World are being held.

GLASS IN PEANUT BUTTER.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 30.—The Newport office of the Department of Justice found a small jar of peanut butter today which contained more or less broken glass. It has been sent to Government chemists for analysis.

If the case warrants further action will be taken.

CHARGE ASSEMBLYMAN WITH EVADING DRAFT

Residents of Flushing Want L. E. Decker Disqualified as State Officer—Denies Accusations

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Charging that he evaded the draft law and was thus delerlict in his duty as an American citizen, seven residents of Flushing, L. I., petitioned the Assembly today to unseat Assemblyman L. Eugene Decker, Democrat, of the Fourth Queens District. The etition, which was sent to the Judiciary Committee, referred to him as "Lucas E. Decker, Jr." but a footnote set forth that "both names indicate one and the same persons."

According to the complaint lodged with the Assembly, Decker was a member of the machine gun company of the Seventh Infantry, N. G., N. Y., and was transferred to the Reserves, when his term expired, in 1916, while the regiment was on the Mexican border. On June 5 of last year, when all men of draft age were called upon to register, according to the complaint, Decker failed to do so and even neglected that duty after he was discharged from the Reserves for physical disability.

After his election to the Assembly in November, Decker was married and, the complaint alleges, that on Nov. 23, he registered with Draft Board No. 184 in Jamaica and gave as grounds for exemption that he was a married man and a State officer.

"We submit," reads the complaint, "that the said Lucas Decker, Jr., evaded the draft law. We submit that he should be disqualified for holding the office to which he was elected on the ground that he secured election to such office by misrepresentation and evasion of his duty as an American citizen of draft age in time of war."

Those who filed the complaint against the Assemblyman are Frank H. Hulburt, Ernest C. Hunt, Edwin M. Gamble, James A. Murray, John Crawford, Wilfred G. Rudyard, and Robert B. Beaver.

Decker did not seem disturbed over the charges, and said that the Federal authorities are now looking into the matter and that he had received assurances from Malcolm W. Clephane of New York, a Government appeal agent, that he had nothing to fear.

"I never claimed exemption on any ground," said Decker. "When I went before the board one of the men there askd me if I claimed exemption, and I said 'No.' Another of the members asked me if I was not an Assemblymeh and married, and when I said 'Yes' they put that down as my claim. I did not register in June, as I was in the National Guard Reserve, but did register Nov. 23."

Decker introduced a bill today providing for the assignment of all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 55, when not regularly or continuously employed, to work in occupations carried on by the State or private enterprises during the war. The measure would hit all members of the leisure class, and a registration of the non-employed would be taken in every county of the State whenever directed by the Governor.

BILL TO END WATER BOARD.

Boylan Measure Would Lodge Its Functions in a City Department.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Senator John J. Boylan of New York today introduced a bill providing for the abolition of the Board of Water Supply and the shifting of its functions to the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity. Under the terms of the bill, the Board of Estimate must pass on all contracts for additional water supply entered upon by the department under the new powers the measure would confer upon it.

The Boylan bill is part of the Hylan legislative program as formulated at conferences of the elective city officials who are members of the Board of Estimate before they assumed office. In connection with the proposal to abolish the Board of Water Supply, which was created by the Legislature with broad powers that rendered it virtually independent of the city government, a $7,000,000 contract for a tunnel to connect the Ashokan Reservoir with the proposed new Schoharie watershed, acquired by the city, was discussed at length, and the board was asked to postpone work on the contract until the new administration had taken over the affairs of the city. It was rumored at the time that a contracting firm favored by Tammany was anxious to be relieved from the contract, owing to high prices of materials and scarcity of labor growing out of war conditions.

Bill for Military Road.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Legislation paving the way for the construction of a broad military road connecting West Point with the New England States was introduced today by Assemblyman John P. Donohoe of Putnam. The measure appropriates $5,000 for a preliminary survey.

To Regulate Charity Benefits.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Under the terms of a bill introduced today by Assemblyman Mark Goldberg the promoter of any charity benefit entertainment in New York City would be compelled to secure a license from the City Commissioner of Licenses in case he had not been connected for at least three months with the legally incorporated charity for which the benefit was held.

"The Oldest Company in America"

In 1917

As the crowning achievement of its 75th fiscal year

$70,029,164.50

Not only do these returns exceed by $5,277,453.78 the amount received directly from policyholders in 1917, but they establish a new high record for a single year and bring to One Billion Four Hundred Million Dollars the total amount paid policyholders since the Company commenced business in 1843. In addition to these unprecedented benefits, the Company made substantial gains in all departments during 1917, as follows:

Insurance in Force, $1,773,411,526.00
(An increase of $85,614,250.00)
Admitted Assets, $633,999,569.37
(An increase of $9,469,525.20)
Net Policy Reserves, $521,060,090.00
(An increase of $10,559,160.00)
Total Income, $96,461,069.70
(An increase of $4,021,594.56)
Contingency Reserve, $17,609,997.08
(An increase of $1,357,257.31)

Including dividend additions, revivals, and increases in existing policies, the amount of new insurance paid for during the year was $209,054,920—an increase over 1916 of $24,836,907. Of this new business, over 99.5 per cent was written in the United States and Canada.
